SOUTHWEST HOPEFULS WORK AT OAKLAWN

Six likely runners for Saturday's rescheduled GIII Southwest S. worked at Oaklawn Park yesterday, including Conveyance (Indian Charlie). The unbeaten GIII San Rafael S. winner covered four furlongs in :48.40 beneath Calvin Borel. He will be ridden by Martin Garcia this weekend. "I think it's been fine for Conveyance," trainer Bob Baffert told DRF of the Southwest being postponed. "It's probably been harder on [assistant trainer] Jimmy [Barnes]. He ran out of underwear the third day." Dublin (Afleet Alex), hero of last year's GI Three Chimneys Hopeful S., worked a bullet four furlongs in :48.20. Dryfly (Jump Start), last seen annexing Oaklawn's Smarty Jones S. Jan. 18, covered four furlongs in :48.60. Domonation (Maria's Mon), third in the San Rafael, posted a four-furlong move in :51.80. Graded-stakes placed Mission Impazible (Unbridled's Song) and multiple-stakes placed Kitty's Turn (Langfuhr) also turned in four-furlong breezes in :48.60 and :49, respectively.

GIO PONTI RETURNS AT TAMPA SATURDAY

Castleton Lyons's Gio Ponti (Tale of the Cat), last year's champion older male and champion male turf horse, will kick off his five-year-old campaign in Saturday's $150,000 Tampa Bay S. on grass. Drawn in post two with Ramon Dominguez aboard, the GI Breeders' Cup Classic runner-up faces eight rivals in the 1 1/16-mile contest. Click for the brisset.com PPs.

Contested over 1900 meters for the first time this year, Michael de Kock sends a pair postward, including 2008 Horse of the Year in Mauritius Mr. Brock, who took his most recent start over course and trip Feb. 4. The South African trainer will also saddle the sole three-year-old in the field, Mr Crazy Boy, who finished seventh in his seasonal debut over 1400 meters Feb. 4. "Mr Brock won well last time over course and distance and deserves this step up in class," said de Kock. "He has a bit to find in a tough race, while Mr Crazy Boy will relish the step up in trip, but it is a big ask on the ratings." Godolphin and Saeed bin Suroor are well armed in this event and are represented with a strong trio, including French listed winner and MGSP Allybar. "All three should run well; Allybar is obviously race fit and came out of that win in very good form," said bin Suroor of the four-year-old who scored last time out in a 2000-meter handicap Feb. 5. As for his other entries, bin Suroor added, "Jalil will be better for the outing, but is a horse we have always liked, while [MGSW] Calvados Blues is a new horse who has been training well." WRITERS UP

SONS, DAUGHTERS, FATHERS, FRIENDS, AND JACK WERK

By Sid Fernando

Jack Werk, founder of Werk Thoroughbred Consultants, Inc., passed away in his sleep at 3:30 a.m. Sunday morning with his daughter, Kris Werk, watching over him. Friends Tom Gamel and Gary Mariani were asleep upstairs in other rooms at Jack's place. Gary called me in New York with the news about an hour later, with many hours to go before my flight was scheduled to depart JFK for San Jose. I was too late, and I had the rest of the day and a cross-country trip to remind me that I'd never see Jack again.

Actually, Jack--J-Dub to me--and I never saw each other that frequently because I lived in New York and he was in California, but we spoke often between actual visits, and our relationship as friends spanned 20-years plus, from the late 1980s to 2010. I last spoke to him several times--four or five calls--on the Friday before he died, when it was apparent that he didn't have much time left. And each time I spoke to him, I was struck by his dignity in the face of death, and by his enthusiasm that I'd be running his baby, WTC. "Sid, I'm so happy that you are going to be running the company," Jack told me. "We're gonna kick ass!" Then he said, without skipping a beat, "My only regret is that I'm not going to be around to see it."

He maintained his high spirits through each of the phone conversations, which spanned the day. On our last conversation Friday, with fatigue setting in, he said, referring to me as only he did by the initials of my first and middle name, "S.H., it's been a great day. Tom [Gamel] and Brenda [Gamel's girlfriend] are here, Kris [Werk] is here--she's my ace. We had a great day. And guess who's here?" Cont. p5

It was his son, Steve, with whom he'd been estranged for years. It meant a lot to Jack that Steve was there, and Jack knew it meant something to me to hear it. Years ago, in the late 1990s, when my oldest son was five and his brother was two, Jack made a comment to me that changed my life almost instantaneously. Noting that I was doing a lot of traveling and putting in late nights, he'd said, "You remind me a lot of me when I was young. Working, traveling, away from your family. It goes by pretty fast, and you're not around for your kids. You only get one chance. My son doesn't speak to me now, and I wish I could have changed it."

Days later, with Jack's comments resonating in my mind, I left Daily Racing Form, and I spent the next 12 years raising my two sons--both accomplished baseball players, musicians, and film buffs, now 16 and 13.

Jack frequently sent the guys gifts, ranging over the years from massive water machine guns to baseball stuff to art house foreign films. If you didn't know it, Jack had one of the greatest private film collections--including every issue from Criterion--and was especially a fan of foreign cinema.

During this time I did some significant consulting for Jack on the side, so we had business reasons to speak, but many conversations always came back to the boys, and I knew he got a vicarious thrill listening to the stories about them. "I envy you," he'd say.

I guess I hadn't realized how much my relationship with my two sons had affected Jack, until the end. "Hey, Sid, do me a favor," he said over the last month of his life. "Tell Kris the story of how you left DRF after what I said."

"You never told Kris all these years?" I asked. "How come?"

"Ahh, I don't know. I guess it wouldn't sound right," he'd said.

After he died, and after I arrived in Fremont, just outside of San Jose, I did tell the story to Kris, an amazingly strong woman who'd been there for her father when he needed her most, and she quietly appreciated it.

At the office Tuesday, I fielded some calls from Jack's friends and clients, and one friend, Elizabeth Valando, who bred and raced Nobiz Like Shobiz, was particularly saddened but glad to speak to me about Jack. "He was such a great guy, Sid," she said, as she reminisced about Jack. "You know, we used to speak for hours." Then Elizabeth said, "And you know, he always took great pleasure to speak to me at length about your sons, and what great athletes they were and what a great relationship you have with them."

And to that, I owe Jack Werk, who perhaps saved me from what had happened to him with his son. But his son did come to his bedside when it mattered, and that, along with the presence of his loving daughter, I'm sure, sent him away in peace. Take care, J-Dub. (Sid Fernando was handpicked by Jack Werk to run WTC, Inc., and is now president of the pedigree consulting firm.)

OAKS DAY FUNDRAISING PARTNERSHIP

RENEWED Churchill Downs and the world's largest breast cancer organization Susan G. Komen for the Cure will continue their partnership to help raise funds to aid in breast cancer awareness through events on Kentucky Oaks day, Apr. 30. Churchill Downs Incorporated has pledged to donate $1 to Susan G. Komen for the Cure for every person in attendance on Oaks Day--last year's crowd was 104,867. Additionally, Churchill will donate $1 to Horses and Hope from the sale of Oaks Lilies, the official drink of the Oaks. Horses and Hope, a breast cancer outreach and awareness initiative in Kentucky's horse racing industry, was founded by Kentucky First Lady Jane Beshear and the Kentucky Cancer Program in 2008 to identify new opportunities to provide breast cancer awareness, education, and early detection through screening and treatment referral, as well as to raise funds to sustain programs into the future. Oaks day will once again feature a "Ladies First" theme, which includes a "Pink Out," encouraging all attendees to incorporate pink into their attire. There will also be a Survivors Parade, First Lady of Fashion Contest and more. "We learned last year just how much of an impact Oaks Day has for raising awareness and funds for breast cancer programs all around the world," said Nancy G. Brinker, founder and CEO of Susan G. Komen for the Cure. "As the first 'First Lady of the Oaks,' I was very moved by the generosity and passion for this cause, and so we are very happy to see this new tradition continuing. Oaks Day is a fun day for a serious mission, and we're very appreciative to all the fans and employees at Churchill Downs for making it a reality again this year." Robert L. Evans, president and chief executive officer of Churchill Downs Incorporated, continued, "There are two things I won't soon forget about last year's Kentucky Oaks: the unbelievable, record-setting 20 1/2-length victory by the spectacular filly Rachel Alexandra, and the Susan G. Komen for the Cure survivors' parade where, in honor of the 135th Kentucky Oaks, 135 cancer survivors accompanied the fillies on their walk from the barn area to the saddling paddock. We're delighted to continue this important partnership to fight breast cancer with Susan G. Komen for the Cure and share in this special celebration through a broad audience on NBC Universal's Bravo Network."

Odysseus was the reason that jockey Rajiv Maragh decided to spend the afternoon on Florida's Suncoast, and the decision paid dividends, as the scopey chestnut colt strolled down the Tampa stretch to score by 15 powerful lengths. sale (video) and was knocked down to these connections for $250,000. Odysseus debuted in a Halloween maiden at Aqueduct, finishing runner-up in a key event, was rested, and returned with a good-looking half-length graduation at Gulfstream Jan. 14 (video). That was an on-pace effort, and trainer Tom Albertrani was looking for something a little bit different yesterday. "We wanted to get him some two-turn experience and try to give him an easy race where we could get him to settle and let him get into his own rhythm," he explained. "We were hoping to see that and everything worked out accordingly." Indeed it did. Content to lay second as fellow Gulfstream raider Exhi (Maria's Mon) cut out the pace, Odysseus, the 1-2 chalk, began to reel that one in on the turn, took command in upper stretch and was confidently handled for the balance. The winner likely earned a return visit to the Oldsmar oval for the Gill Tampa Bay Derby Mar. 13. "That was in the back of our minds, and if he handled it it would definitely be in the plans," the winning conditioner confirmed. "He was very impressive and he was eased down the last 16th of a mile." Lifetime Record: 3-2-1-0, $39,920.

DOUBLES PARTNER (c, 3, Rock Hard Ten--Serena's Sister, by Rahy) got through on the fence after a ground-saving trip to upset odds-on Lentenor (Dynaformer) at 7-1. Third in an off-the-turf maiden in the Belmont slop Sept. 11, the bay was offered for an $80,000 tag over the Keeneland Poly Oct. 28 and faltered to finish seventh. Despite that disappointing effort, connections saw fit to return the bay to maiden allowance company and he came through, taking his turf and two-turn debuts by a head at Churchill Nov. 28. Tucked in right behind the dueling Saint Eligius (Saint Liam) and Lentenor, he went for the inside run in the lane. He exchanged bumps with Saint Eligius at the sixteenth pole, but fought his way home to best Lentenor by a half-length. Michael Matz, trainer of the runner-up, was left with more questions than answers. "It's disappointing," he offered. "He broke well. He ran real well. [Jockey] John [Velazquez] said he was just doing some green things, and looking around. The pace was slow, and in hindsight he wishes he would have let him go a little earlier. He added, "He's green still. He needs that experience. It's a good question [where he runs next]. I know he's definitely the type that can run in the big races, it's just a matter of timing and whether he can get the experience he needs." Sales history: $450,000 yrl '08 FTSAUG. ### CTT: San Luis Rey Downs Closing in March:

San Luis Rey Downs, an approved auxiliary training facility by the California Horse Racing Board since 1984, will be closed by Mar. 15, The California Thoroughbred Trainers reported yesterday. Magna Entertainment Corporation cited economic circumstances as the reason for the pending closure. The CTT attribute the Southern California Off-Track Wagering Inc Stabling and Vanning Committee, which voted to cease funding for offsite stabling at San Luis Rey Downs as well as Fairplex last year, as contributing to the current economic conditions. The trainers' organization added that it has recently formed a strong working relationship with the Thoroughbred Owners of California and plans to discuss a potential resolution to the shutdown.

Fantasy Stable Contest Launched by Tom Simon:

Tom Simon, owner of Vinery Farms, has developed a new fantasy stable contest, DerbyDreamer.com. For a $12 fee, contestants build a fantasy stable of current North American runners. A $10,000 cash prize will be awarded for each month's stable that earns the highest point total. "It's important on two fronts," Vinery's Tom Ludt explained. "First is to keep our core customers happy with new ways to win money. And perhaps more importantly, to attract non-racing fantasy sports fans to Thoroughbred racing." Fantasy stable owners can choose from more than 400 horses listed on the website. Similar to fantasy football, contestants select a line-up of 18 horses, of which 12 are active in a given month. "We set out to create some parallels to our sport and others, like fantasy football, and at the same time, show unique features of racing too," Ludt continued. "This is about growing our sport and it's great that Tom Simon has the passion to invest resources into creating DerbyDreamer.com." To sign up, visit www.derbydreamer.com.

NTRA REPORT FROM CAPITOL HILL

UNITED STATES SENATE DEVELOPMENT

The special election last month in Massachusetts to fill the U.S. Senate seat vacated by the death of Sen. Edward Kennedy proved to be historic. The winner, Republican State Senator Scott Brown, became the first Republican U.S. Senator from Massachusetts in more than 30 years.

How this result ultimately will affect the current Congress is to be determined. Brown's victory makes him the 41st Republican in the 100-member Senate, an important development for the GOP. Because the Democratic Caucus now contains 59 members and not 60, it has lost the ability to thwart a Republican filibuster.

A filibuster is a tactic followed by one party to delay or prevent action in a legislative assembly. The Obama Administration's health care legislation may suffer as a result of Sen. Brown's election now that Republicans can filibuster this legislation and other parts of the administration's agenda.

For more information contact Joe Bacigalupo, director of membership development, (800) 792-6872, ext. 677 or visit www.SupportHorseRacing.org.

CDI Launches '$25K Streak to Derby' Challenge:

Churchill Downs Incorporated's www.TwinSpires.com will launch the "$25,000 Streak to the Derby" challenge Feb. 20, according to a CDI release yesterday. By playing this upcoming Saturday's Kentucky Derby prep races on TwinSpires.com, contestants can win up to $25,000 and four tickets to the 2011 Kentucky Derby. The "Streak to the Derby" begins runs through the May 1 Kentucky Derby. Players will be able to earn shares in the $25,000 prize pool by completing a 'streak,' which consists of wagering at least $10 to win on four consecutive Derby prep race winners through TwinSpires.com. "We are excited to give horseplayers 25,000 reasons to make TwinSpires.com their home for betting the Derby trail," said TwinSpires.com Vice President of Marketing Jeremy Clemons. Upon completion of the contest, the $25,000 prize pool will be divided by how many total shares were earned over the course of the contest period, which establishes the share value. Players, who will be able to check the 'Streak Home Page' at any time during the contest to see how many shares are outstanding and the current share value, will have any winnings deposited into their wagering account. Cont. p7

All horses in the TDN are bred in North America, unless otherwise indicated

Industry Info cont. from p6

The "Streak to the Derby" competition will also feature a "Streakerboard" where players ascend the "Streakerboard" with each completed "Streak." The player with the most successful "Streaks" will win two tickets to the 2011 Kentucky Derby, while contestants who round out positions two to 25 will win Official Kentucky Derby 136 merchandise. Additionally, participants who win three races in a row will gain an entry into the drawing for another two tickets to the 2011 Kentucky Derby. For more details and contest rules visit www.TwinSpires.com.

Horse Protection Bill Passed in Kentucky:

The Kentucky House Agriculture and Small Business Committee unanimously passed House Bill 398 yesterday to create the Kentucky Equine Health and Welfare Board. The bill was sponsored by Rep. Tom McKee, a Democrat from Cynthiana. McKee chairs the aforementioned committee. "This bill will move the horse industry forward," said McKee, a Harrison County farmer. "We are concerned about the health and welfare of the horse, and this bill helps address those concerns." The bill, which will now go before the entire Kentucky House of Representatives, is an initiative from a new organization, the Equine Health and Welfare Alliance (EHWA). "While Kentucky is recognized worldwide for its equine industry, many horses and other equids in the Commonwealth, particularly those outside of Thoroughbred racing circles, may be subject to inhumane treatment, and some horse-rescue operations in the state lack the standards of quality needed or lack sufficient oversight," said Georgetown-based veterinarian Doug Byars, a founding member of the EHWA. "This legislation will help protect the equine, who cannot take care of themselves, and help make Kentucky a leader in the nation in the area of care and welfare for all equine." The newly created Board will be responsible for:

The Kentucky Equine Health and Welfare Board will have responsibility for the following:

- Undertake research, conduct public hearings, and collect data to determine prevalent equine health and welfare issues;
- Strive to develop regional centers of care for unwanted, abused, neglected, or confiscated equines;
- Create a system of voluntary certification of equine rescue and retirement operations that meet industry-accepted standards for care of equines;
- Research and offer suggestions for statutory changes affecting equine health, welfare, abuse, and neglect issues;
- Assist veterinarians and others in maintaining the health and welfare of equines by identifying and referring to the appropriate authorities critical areas of need.
