

ENTHUSIASM IN THE AIR AS DULLINGHAM PARK EMBARKS ON FIRST SEASON

Shaquille embarks on his stallion career this season | Racingfotos.com

by Adam Houghton

"The grey colours, there's a big plan behind all that. Eventually my daughter will take over. I'm doing this for my family when I'm no longer here."

Those were the words of owner-breeder Steve Parkin in a TDN interview penned in September last year, revealing all about his ambition to stand stallions at Dullingham Park Stud, plus the succession plan which he hopes will guarantee the long-term future of a racing and bloodstock empire he's spent the last two decades building.

Five months on and the wheels are now firmly in motion when it comes to Britain's newest stallion operation, so too the immersion of Parkin's eldest child, Fabienne, in everything the business entails.

Previously described as "in love with the game" by Parkin, Fabienne is already no stranger to taking on responsibility when her father's absence demands it, such as on this cold Newmarket morning when she's tasked with accommodating the latest two members of the TDN team to have descended upon Dullingham Park during the Tattersalls February Sale.

ONE OF IRISH RACING'S MOST BELOVED FIGURES MAUREEN MULLINS DIES AGED 94

Maureen Mullins, Irish racing's great matriarch and the mother of the champion trainer Willie Mullins, has died at the age of 94 following a short illness.

Wife of the late Paddy Mullins, a multiple champion handler who managed the career of the great Dawn Run before passing away aged 91 in 2010, Maureen leaves an incredible legacy behind her.

She had four sons and a daughter--trainers Tom, Willie and Tony along with George and daughter Sandra--who have gone on to make the Mullins name a dominant force in Irish racing and beyond.

The state-of-the-art facilities and the new stallions they've recently become home to certainly leave a lasting impression on this first-time visitor, thanks in no small part to the infectious enthusiasm for all of it shown by Fabienne.

In this most unforgiving of industries, only time will truly tell whether Fabienne has inherited her father's famed business acumen and work ethic, but the hunger for more success in the familiar all-grey colours of Clipper Logistics has clearly rubbed off in spades if the evidence of this one morning in her company is anything to go by.

"I'd love to win a Classic, personally," Fabienne begins when we start to discuss which races would be top of the bucket list for the Parkin family. "Fallen Angel is second favourite for the 1,000 Guineas which is beyond exciting. The Guineas for me is a huge thing and possibly the race I want to win the most. And York is our home track, so I'd love to win the Juddmonte International or the Nunthorpe.

"But I'm as excited for a Southwell maiden winner as I am for winning a race at Royal Ascot or the other big meetings. It's that passion that my family and my father bred into me. They raised me to love my racing and to love my breeding. I'm only young and I'm only starting, but I've got great mentors around me and everyone has been really supportive in helping me learn."

Fabienne briefly looks starstruck when she recounts that renowned owner-breeder Kirsten Rausing is among those who have generously offered guidance or just a sympathetic ear, the pair having crossed paths when Rausing paid a visit to Dullingham Park during the Tattersalls December Sales.

At the helm of Lanwades Stud for more than four decades, Rausing knows more than a thing or two about standing stallions and was clearly as keen as the rest of us to cast her eye over the two additions to the Newmarket ranks for 2024, not to mention their impressive new digs.

"We purchased Dullingham last year and we've sort of revolutionised it," Fabienne says of the rapid development. "We've knocked a few things down and we've built a few new stallion boxes and a covering shed. We've turned it into our station down here which is really nice, to have a base in Newmarket and a very exciting new venture as a stallion farm.

"We've had a few stallions in Ireland that we've either invested in or raced and then stood at Ballyhane Stud with Joe [Foley]. It's fantastic to now be able to offer the English breeders a service over here. We are English owner-breeders and to support the English market is really exciting for us." Cont. p4

That excitement seems to be reciprocated by breeders who have flocked to see the two stallions on the Dullingham Park roster, headed by Shaquille (GB), who stands for a fee of £15,000 in his first year having taken the sprinting scene by storm in 2023.

Trained by Julie Camacho, Shaquille won seven of his nine career starts, notably becoming just the second horse after Muhaarar (GB) to win both the G1 Commonwealth Cup and G1 July Cup as a three-year-old on his way to being crowned Europe's top sprinter at the Cartier Awards.

Shaquille is also the highest-rated son of the four-time Group 1 winner Charm Spirit (Ire) who, like Muhaarar, is a grandson of the former Shadwell stalwart Green Desert, with the pair being by Invincible Spirit (Ire) and Oasis Dream (GB), respectively.

Ollie Fowlston, quickly settling into his own new role as managing director of Dullingham Park, says of Shaquille, "He's been unbelievably well received. We've got all the right breeders on board that we'd hoped for and they're loving what they see.

"He's just a very good-looking horse. He's beautifully balanced and a great walker. He's very correct in front with lovely big feet on him. He's got a lovely head as well, a good shoulder and a lovely wide hip on him. If we can get the first crop of foals looking and walking like him, that will be the first big hurdle jumped."

Shaquille certainly cuts quite the figure as he calmly struts his stuff in the serene surroundings of Dullingham Park, taking everything in his stride and looking anything but the character who threatened to throw away his two Group 1 wins by rearing as the stalls opened, forfeiting several lengths to the rest of the field. Cont. p5

Too Darn Hot

It's rare for a stallion to sire two juveniles in Europe's official top 10. War Front and Wootton Bassett have done it, as have Justify and Scat Daddy.

Some have even had three on the list – Dubawi and Shamardal among the select few.

But only one stallion this century has had a colt and a filly in the top 10 from his first crop. Yes, that's right: think darn hot two-year-olds.

Only a horse of immense talent would have been able to overcome such adversity on his way to beating the best sprinters Europe has to offer, the horse of a lifetime for Camacho and partner Steve Brown, as well as owner Martin Hughes, who co-bred the colt out of the unraced Galileo (Ire) mare Magic (Ire), herself a daughter of Cheveley Park Stud's multiple Group-winning sprinter Danehurst (GB) (Danehill).

Those closest to Shaquille always maintained that he was the consummate professional to do anything with at home and Fowlston confirms that the colt's temperament has been nothing but an asset since he arrived at Dullingham Park, before going on to consider the adjustment this new venture has been for him following 25 years at Tattersalls.

"It's been exceptional how he's settled in really, because we've had so much building work going on and diggers around the place," Fowlston explains. "He's not batted an eyelid at all and it's like he's lived here for a few years. Funnily enough, the first night he spent on the farm was the first night he'd ever spent away from the Camachos because he was born there as well.

"It's very exciting and quite surreal [to have Shaquille at Dullingham Park]. You go up to the stallion yard and when you see Shaquille's head sticking over the door you do have to pinch yourself a little bit.

"I'm really enjoying it. It's very different from my previous job at Tattersalls. It's selling but selling in a different capacity. It's been a great help my grounding at Tattersalls and having got to know all the breeders has made life a bit easier."

Having Soldier's Call (GB) join the roster at Dullingham Park should also make Fowlston's life a bit easier. With the speedy son of Showcasing (GB) breeders already have a pretty good idea of what they're going to get as he embarks on his fifth season at an increased fee of £8,500, the first four having come under the supervision of Joe Foley at Ballyhane Stud in Ireland.

Bought by Foley for 85,000gns as a yearling, Soldier's Call was a notable success story for the Clippers Logistics team as a two-year-old when he carried the grey silks to a trio of high-profile victories in the G2 Flying Childers S., G3 Prix d'Arenberg and Listed Windsor Castle S., before going on to fill the runner-up spot in the G1 Nunthorpe S. at three.

Ranked third among the leading first-crop sires in Europe last year with 26 individual winners, Soldier's Call looks set for another big year in 2024 following a promising start, with a trio of three-year-old maiden winners in Britain already on the board.

"Joe's done a great job starting him off," Fowlston says of Soldier's Call. "He's got big numbers on the ground. I think he's got 105 two-year-olds to run for him this year and I think he's got bigger books to come. We couldn't be more excited and it's something for breeders to look forward to as well.

"There's a bit of a gap in the English market for a horse like him. Breeders can come here and they know that he'll start off a young mare. He'll get a good winner and you can go to the sales and get well paid if you have a nice one by him.

"He's going down very well at the moment and already he's had the three three-year-old winners this year. He'll no doubt have early two-year-old winners on the turf when the season starts and we'll be taking bookings I'm sure right up until mid-May." Cont. p6

Dorothy Lawrence (GB) was one of the flagbearers for Soldier's Call's first crop of juveniles last year, producing her best effort when beaten just a short head in the G3 Dick Poole Fillies' S. at Salisbury. She should be competitive in more good races for the Clippers Logistics team in 2024 if training on as well as her sire did.

As for fellow homebred and Karl Burke trainee Fallen Angel (GB) (Too Darn Hot {GB}), she will be tasked with trying to deliver on Fabienne's dream of winning a Classic when, all being well, she lines up in the 1,000 Guineas at Newmarket on Sunday, May 5.

The form of her victory in last year's G1 Moyglare Stud S. would appear to put her in there with a leading chance, already having provided that memorable day at the Curragh which carried extra significance for the whole Parkin family.

"It really does," Fabienne agrees when it's suggested to her that it means more to win any race with a homebred. "When you see your foals born at home and then they go on to be successful on the racetrack, it's beyond exciting.

"We had Fallen Angel last year who obviously won the Moyglare and there was a lovely story behind that with us breeding her and then losing the dam. That was very poignant and moving.

"I think we're lucky really. You have to have a bit of luck in this industry, as much as you can try and be clever about what you do. We're a very young operation in terms of our breeding and we've already been so successful. To have already bred Dramatised and Fallen Angel from the farm at home is really exciting."

G2 Queen Mary S. and G2 Temple S. winner Dramatised is now a member of the broodmare band which reportedly numbers around 30 at the Parkin family home in Yorkshire, the 300-acre Branton Court Stud near Harrogate, plus another 50-60 in Ireland. The hope is that Fallen Angel will one day follow in the footsteps of her late dam, Agnes Stewart (Ire) (Lawman {Fr}), by joining those ranks, even better if she does so as a Classic winner.

As for the four remaining empty stallion boxes at Dullingham Park, Fabienne confesses that she has already earmarked one for Night Of Thunder (Ire) colt Flight Plan (GB), who fittingly won last year's G2 Dullingham Park S. at Leopardstown and has the potential to make up into an even better four-year-old in 2024.

However, it's Foley who gets the last word--not unusual, I'm told--when it comes to the biggest and brightest prospects for the Clipper Logistics team this year, providing the inside track in his role as bloodstock advisor to the Parkin family. Cont. p7

"Who's he?" Foley asks when the name Night Raider (Ire) (Dark Angel {Ire}) is put to him during our conversation at the February Sale, briefly threatening to throw this interviewer off the scent of the nine-length Southwell winner before the twinkle in his eye reveals there is a big opinion there waiting to be unleashed.

"I remember buying him as a foal, I thought he was the best foal I'd ever bought," he soon delivers. "He was always a beautiful horse and he's always impressed the people who were around him. He's a big horse at 16.1hh and he's out of a Shamardal mare, out of a Dubai Millennium mare. There's a lot of Dubai Millennium in him.

"He doesn't look like his half-brother [G3 Palace House S. winner Far Above] at all. He'd lead you to think that there's a lot of speed in the pedigree, but it's a very classy family. He looks like a miler, he gallops like a miler and he wasn't stopping when he won at Southwell.

"Danny [Tudhope, jockey] adores him, he thinks he's a really high-class horse. He's just won a December maiden, so he has an awful lot to prove, but on our team he's the horse with the most potential.

"We're very excited to see what he does, but we've been disappointed in the past--we're hoping for the best and expecting the worst," he adds, betraying the same boundless optimism as Fabienne but the experience to know better.

Willie's son Patrick becoming the record-breaking Irish champion amateur, Tony's son Danny scooping multiple Grade 1s in the saddle and George's son Emmet, who also partnered many big-race winners as a rider, emulating his uncle Willie's achievements in winning the Grand National as a trainer with Noble Yeats in 2022. Six years previously, it was Tom's son David who partnered the Mouse Morris-trained Rule The World to win the Aintree showpiece.

On Tuesday, another one of her grandchildren, Charlie, led home a one-two-three for Willie in the bumper at Thurles.

Maureen was an ever-present figure on an Irish racecourse and was in attendance at her local track Gowran Park for its flagship Thyestes Chase fixture on January 25 where she was on hand to officially open the new weighroom.

At the Horse Racing Ireland Awards in 2016, she was presented with the Contribution to the Industry Award.

Willie commented at the time, "That was unexpected, and great for her and for everyone in the family. She enjoys her racing, enjoys life, and has an interest in everyone's horses--mine, Tony's, Tom's--and the careers of Danny, David and Patrick. It's a lot to keep her occupied."

She was also a winning rider herself, steering Razzo Forte to glory in a female riders' event at Gowran Park in 1982, a race which her daughter also rode in. She was involved as an owner and breeder down the years, with Kilcruit a recent feather in her cap having won the Grade 1 Punchestown bumper following his sale having initially raced in her colours. LAFFON-PARIAS TO RETIRE AT THE END OF 2024

Carlos Laffon-Parias | Racingfotos.com

Carlos Laffon-Parias, the first Spanish trainer to win the G1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, announced on Wednesday that he will retire from training at the end of the year.

Based in Chantilly, Laffon-Parias is best known as the trainer of Solemia (Ire) (Poliglote {GB}), who caused an upset when beating leading Japanese hope Orfevre (Jpn) (Stay Gold {Jpn}) in the 2012 running of Europe's premier middle-distance race. He also won the G1 Prix Marcel Boussac on the same card with Silasol (Ire) (Monsun {Ger}), while the likes of Laverock (Ire) (Octagonal {NZ}), Falco (Pivotal {GB}) and Recoletos (Fr) (Whipper) were other top-level winners for their trainer during a career in France spanning more than three decades.

In 2023, Laffon-Parias saddled two new Group 1 winners, including Prix de la Foret heroine Kelina (Ire) (Frankel {GB}) who, the trainer confirmed, will race on as a four-year-old as he prepares to embark on his final season.

Explaining his decision to retire, Laffon-Parias told the Nick Luck Daily Podcast, "The last three years I've talked with my wife regarding the decision to stop and go back home [to Spain]. My sons are now working and have left the house, so it's time for me and my wife to change our lives.

"I'm healthy, I'll be 61 next month. I think when you're healthy is the right time to do it. I've worked all my life from Monday to Sunday and I want to do other things rather than to work 11 months a year, every single day. I think it's the right time to do it, otherwise it might be too late.

"I see a lot of trainers finish their careers because they haven't got any more horses to train or they have financial problems. I don't want to have those problems. I want to stop and I don't need much to live with. We've got a house already in the south of Spain, I'm going to sell my yard, and this is enough for me and my wife."

Laffon-Parias added of Kelina, "The Wertheimer Brothers have decided to keep her in training and she's a very sound filly. There isn't a race for her until May 1, the Prix du Muguet. That is a Group 2 and then there is Royal Ascot or the Falmouth. We could run in the Lockinge against the colts, but I would prefer to take more time. There are a lot of races for her, but nothing before the middle of the year."

KENDARGENT MARE TOPS FINAL ARQANA SESSION

Damkena (Fr), a daughter of Kendargent (Fr) in foal to Galiway (GB), took top honours with a bid of €62,000 as the Arqana February Sale drew to a close in Deauville on Wednesday.

Offered by Haras de Grandcamp, the eight-year-old mare is a sister to the Group 3 winner Kendam (Fr) who has already produced a Group 3 winner herself on this same cross in Kenway (Fr). The latter is a new recruit to the stallion ranks in Ireland at Coolagown Stud. Sold at lot 266, the mare was bought by Yellow Agency.

With 241 horses sold over the two days, which was just one fewer than last year, turnover dropped by 24% to €2,853,000, though the clearance rate remained steady at 78%. Following a quieter second session, the average was down by 23% at €11,722 and the median dropped to €5,000 from €6,500 in 2023.

SPRIT DANCER CONFIRMED FOR NEOM TURF CUP

Bahraini group winner Spirit Dancer (GB) (Frankel {GB}) has been confirmed for the 2100-metre $2-million G2 Neom Turf Cup on the Saudi Cup undercard on Saturday, Feb. 24.

Owned by the partnership of Done/Ferguson/Mason, the gelding won the G3 Strensall S. last August before taking the G2 Bahrain International Trophy two starts later in November. Given some time off, he made his 7-year-old bow in the G1 Jebel Hatta at Meydan on Jan. 26, running on to be fourth behind Measured Time (GB) (Frankel {GB}).

“I was delighted to get that run in Dubai into him,” said trainer Richard Fahey.

“We were pleased with the run and we were probably just drawn a little bit wide--hopefully the run will put him 100% right for Saudi.

“We’re going to run in the Neom. I was keen to go for the big one there [Saudi Cup], but I just felt nine furlongs on the dirt would be sharp enough for him. He’s a horse I would probably want to go a mile and a half in Saudi rather than a sharp nine, if that makes sense.”

“Barring problems I’m sure his owners are very keen,” continued Fahey. “Peter Done and Ged Mason are both very keen and Sir Alex is keen as well, so it looks like they are booking and barring problems I would say they will probably be there.

“We certainly enjoyed Bahrain and anything now is a bonus, but we’re expecting him to run a big race in Saudi.”

GOFFS YORTON SALE SUSPENDED FOR ONE YEAR UNTIL 2025

The Goffs Yorton Sale will not take place in 2024, and will instead return on Sept. 4, 2025, Goffs and Yorton’s David Futter confirmed on Wednesday.

The decision was made by Futter, who felt that although the quality of horses at Yorton was up to its usual high standard, the quantity did not justify the sale taking place this year. Yorton’s aim is to assemble roughly 50 quality lots in time for the 2025 edition.

Futter said, “It has not been an easy decision to suspend the sale for 2024 but we feel it is in the best interests of the event given we don’t have the numbers of horses required to ask potential buyers to make their way to Wales. We are grateful to Goffs for bringing their professionalism and sharing in our enthusiasm for this venture and together we have worked hard to establish a sale with a reputation for quality and performance. We still strongly believe in starting horses earlier and in producing 2-year-olds and will keep offering Yorton graduates, just in a different location in 2024. We will maintain our focus on sourcing a quality line-up of horses and look forward to working with Goffs and welcoming everyone back to Yorton in 2025.” Cont. p10

Goffs UK Managing Director Tim Kent added, “With its first Grade 1 winner coming in 2023 courtesy of Inthepocket (GB) (Blue Bresil {Fr}), many outstanding pinhooking results for store and point-to-point buyers, and a new record top price set last year with a No Risk At All (Fr) 2-year-old selling for £165,000, the sale is performing in all sectors and it’s a credit to David and the Yorton team. We too look forward to seeing the sale return to the calendar in 2025 and working with Yorton to produce another successful sale.”

FIRST REPORTED FOALS FOR NAVAL CROWN

The first reported foals for G1 Platinum Jubilee S. hero Naval Crown (GB) have arrived, Darley Europe announced.

A chestnut colt out of A Touch Of Luck (Ger) (Frankel {GB}) arrived this week. He was bred by Robert Draper. His second dam is G1 Preis der Diana third Aigrette Garzette (Ire) (Peintre Celebre).

Another new arrival was a colt out of Thaleia (Ire) (Tagula {Ire}) from the extended family of multiple group winner Endless Drama (Ire) (Lope De Vega {Ire}). David Ryan of Kilfrush Stud said the colt had “size, scope and bone, a really good foal.”

A bay filly was born on Feb. 2 and bred by Gerrardstown House Stud. She is out of Fleur de Lui (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) and was described by Donie Fahy as having “good size and scope. Very correct filly with a lovely head.” She is a relative of the Group 1 winner The Revenant (GB) (Dubawi {Ire}).

Two other fillies have also been reported so far--a daughter of Golden Angel (Ire) (War Command) who arrived in late January at Hawes Stud and a filly out of Iffa Red (Ire) (Iffraaj {GB}) bred by Kilweelran, Ltd. Michael Gaffney described the former as “a fine, big foal with good bone. She has loads of quality and great action.”

HARRIS WITHDRAWS APPEAL REGARDING LICENSING COMMITTEE’S RULING

After appealing the British Horseracing Authority (BHA)’s ruling regarding his licence last week, former trainer Milton Harris has now withdrawn that appeal, the BHA confirmed on Wednesday.

Harris had his licence suspended in November and withdrawn in January by the BHA’s Licensing Committee. The agency ruled he was not a “fit and proper person” to hold a training licence.

Regarding the BHA’s concerns, the Licensing Committee said, they surrounded “the nature and extent of MH’s admitted breaches of the conditions which already exist on his licence, which were imposed in 2018 and MH’s failure to be candid in his dealings with the BHA in respect of those breaches, particularly when the BHA was seeking to provide opportunities for MH to remedy those breaches”, “misconduct in his dealings with others, including fellow licence holder Mr Simon Earle” and “in respect of safeguarding arising out of MH’s conduct with young persons employed at his racing yard”.

Harris began training in 2001, but ceased training from 2011 to 2018 due to financial issues.

WALLER AND WATERHOUSE DELIVER PASSIONATE CRITICISM AGAINST ROSEHILL SALE

by Keely McKitterick/TTR AusNZ

In a pivotal moment for the Australian racing community, the proposed sale of the iconic Rosehill Gardens Racecourse has stirred a whirlwind of debate and opposition, notably from two of racing's most respected figures, Gai Waterhouse and Chris Waller.

Their outspoken criticism came to a head during an emotionally charged club members' meeting on a recent Tuesday night, marking a significant move of resistance within the industry to a proposal presented by Australian Turf Club (ATC) Chairman, Peter McGauran.

Chris Waller, a name synonymous with racing excellence over the past decade, broke his silence on the ATC's plans with a forthright critique: "Your designs have just been whipped up overnight, and they're not good enough for what's about to happen," he said, pointing out glaring oversights in the upgrade and training centre plans.

Waller's concern was not just about the immediate financials but the future of racing in Sydney.

"The negatives have barely been touched on... What does that do for the members? What does that do for the racing industry?" he questioned, challenging the ATC's operational and financial strategies and their impact on long-term industry viability.

"You said it's not for profit. Well, why is it not for profit? Why are you not running a business? Why are you losing money? You can't just continue to lose seven or eight million a year without being accountable for it."

Tough Questions Asked

Gai Waterhouse, in her typically spirited manner, echoed Waller's sentiments, focusing her words on the ATC board's handling of the situation. Her disappointment was palpable, especially with the absence of key directors at such a crucial juncture.

"You've got the most important decision you're ever going to make in your life, the committee, and they can't turn up," she passionately told the forum, clearly annoyed that two of the seven directors had not attended.

Waterhouse questioned the board's financial management and strategic vision, which she saw as leading to a potential disposal of invaluable assets out of a short-sighted attempt to manage debts.

"You're flogging this (Rosehill) because you've got yourself into debt, and you should be ashamed of yourself. Why has prize-money continued to go up when the club clearly cannot afford it? You can't flog Randwick because you don't own it. Thank the Lord."

Waterhouse called out the influence of Peter V'landys, CEO of Racing NSW. McGauran is the godfather to V'landys's son, introducing a complex layer of personal relationships into the realm of corporate governance.

“Your inefficiency as a committee has cost you A$80 million. You've allowed Peter [V'Landys] to get you into a corner that you can't get out of. You should be ashamed.”

Waller also directly referred to the unfair power balance Racing NSW held over the ATC, logically pointing out that the majority of the income generated by the administrator came from wagering on Sydney's metropolitan tracks.

“Mr V'Landys (Peter V'Landys, CEO of Racing NSW), you're the best administrator we've ever had, but this is not part of it. You're going to come down in a crashing heap,” Waller warned.

Historically Monumental Decision

The debate around the sale of Rosehill is not just a financial discussion; it's a pivotal moment that could define the future direction of racing in Sydney.

The proposal, which aims to transform Rosehill into a residential community, promises substantial financial returns, with ATC estimates suggesting a windfall of A$5 billion. However, skepticism surrounds these valuations, with industry insiders pointing out the inflated nature of these figures and the significant risks involved.

A respected property developer highlighted to The Thoroughbred Report that the valuation could only be realised after development, which is first contingent on a series of bureaucratic and logistical hurdles, and many more years of investment before a profit results. The land itself is suggested to have a more realistic pre-development valuation of around A$1 billion.

A topic of conversation across all members was the responsibility the Board of the ATC carries to act in the best interests of its members, who have entrusted them with the governance and stewardship of the club. Waterhouse pushed for more dialogue and consultation, making it clear that decisions this big shouldn't just be about fixing financial issues but should also reflect what the members and the racing community really want and need.

Waller echoed similar sentiments, questioning the ATC board members' representation of the racing community's interests and accusing them of succumbing to politics.

“We need the next 200 years, not the next 20 years,” Waller said. “We're one of the greatest cities, not only in Australia, but the world. Are you representing us or just rolling over to political pressure?”

Is It Actually Up To The Members?

One of the statements in the ATC press release regarding the Rosehill Sale mentioned that part of the proceeds are intended for a “new world-class racetrack in Sydney”. This was not covered off in McGauran's presentation. Instead plans for a training centre were drawn up by dropping the layout of Cranbourne, declared by McGauran as “probably the gold star”, onto a map of Horsley Park.

Of major concerns to members was both the clear lack of thought and consultation that had gone into the redevelopment, with McGauran struggling to answer pertinent questions around contamination of land, the processes adopted and logistics around the proposed upgrades.

When asked, McGauran insisted that a 50% member majority vote would be required for the proposal to proceed. However, concerns over the validity of that claim have been voiced to The Thoroughbred Report, given that on the valuation claimed by the ATC, Rosehill is, by far, the ATC's most valuable asset.

“In that situation, where a key asset is sold, it typically warrants a Special Resolution vote with a 75% majority,” said respected industry lawyer Hamish Esplin. “I would be very surprised if Sydney racing's biggest asset could be sold on one vote over 50%.”

Chris Waller | Bronwen Healy

So, Could Rosehill Be Sold Without Members Agreement?

If due process was followed, guided by the ATC constitution, then no; a majority vote (either 50% or 75%--remains to be seen) would be required. However, given the monumental impact that the sale of such a major asset would have on the future of Sydney racing, one must explore all possible eventualities.

If the ATC Board were seen unfit for the task of governing, either through insolvency or through an extraordinary general meeting removing the directors from their positions, then it's most likely Racing NSW would assume administrative control until a new board was appointed. In that instance, assets could possibly be sold to repay debts, without the due process of a member agreement. Cont. p14

There's a lot of water to go under the bridge, but in the meantime, Waterhouse has reiterated the importance of the ATC's duty to listen to its members--and that the members turn up to the forums to be heard. Waterhouse told The Thoroughbred Report, "This is our industry, this is our racecourse, and this must be our decision. I implore everybody who is a member of the ATC--attend these forums and make sure you get up and speak. We need your voice to be loud and clear.

"This is not a decision that can be dictated to us by a group of people who so clearly do not have our best interests at heart. You must vote, we all must vote!"

Upcoming Forums For ATC Members

The upcoming ATC Members forums present a vital opportunity for members to engage in the discussion on this pivotal issue.

The forums are scheduled as follows and require an RSVP to the ATC to attend, more than 24hrs before the event:

IN SIERRA LEONE, BROWN MAY HAVE BEST CHANCE YET TO WIN A DERBY

Sierra Leone (outside) battles Dornach in Remsen | Sarah Andrew

by Bill Finley

Chad Brown's barn includes a lot of fillies and is dominated by turf horses, which makes winning the GI Kentucky Derby more challenging than it is for trainers like Todd Pletcher, Brad Cox and Bob Baffert, who seem to have an almost endless supply of ammunition. The future Hall of Famer has started just seven horses in the Derby and the best he has to show for it is a second-place finish in 2018 with Good Magic (Curlin). But that doesn't mean the right horse won't come his way, and this year may be the year.

Brown may have the favorite in Saturday's GII Risen Star S. at Fair Grounds in 'TDN Rising Star' Sierra Leone (Gun Runner), who checks a lot of boxes. Sold for $2.3 million, he was the sales topper at the 2022 Fasig-Tipton Saratoga Sale and has since given every indication that he can compete at the highest level of the sport. He broke his maiden in November at Aqueduct and then ran second in the GII Remsen S., losing by just a nose. The Risen Star will mark his 3-year-old debut.

"The Derby, it's one of the few races we haven't won and it's definitely right there at the top of the list," Brown said. "We have a very diverse group of horses to work with. There's a big split between fillies and colts and within those groups are the turf horses." Cont. p3

FUEGO THE VIRAL CLAIMER LANDS HIS FOREVER HOME by Katie Petrunyak

Assistant trainer Nikki Kaye was not exactly thrilled when she learned that Fire King (Palace Malice) was joining her barn. According to her best friend, jockey Madison Olver, the 2-year-old was appropriately named. Olver rode for Christophe Clement in the mornings and knew that Fire King had a big attitude and a major stubborn streak.

The colt lived up to that reputation when he arrived at Jose Camejo's barn at Aqueduct.

"He comes in and he's just shiny, gorgeous and muscular, but he was so mean," Kaye recalled. "He didn't want anyone to come near him."

At this point Fire King was unplaced in three starts. What could Camejo and Kaye try that hadn't worked for a top operation like Clement's? Cont. p5

Brown continued, "What it boils down to is we don't have many horses in that division. I have plenty of nice horses to work with. I'm not complaining by any means. Any one would love to have the horses I get sent. Once you start paring them down, to see what dirt colts you have that can run two turns and have ability, well, for us, the group isn't huge. If we end up with two or three horses that are on the trail by the first of the year, we are lucky."

Brown will probably always focus primarily on turf horses, but that obviously didn't bother the Coolmore team. They arrived at the 2022 Saratoga sale eager to spend money. Not only did they buy Sierra Leone, they also paid $1.4 million for Hall of Fame (Gun Runner), who will also start in the Risen Star for trainer Steve Asmussen. If Coolmore continues to support Brown with expensive yearling purchases that will make his chances of winning a Derby all that much easier.

"Will Coolmore keep supporting me, I think that has to be determined," Brown said. "A lot depends on how these relationships unfold and how successful we are or aren't with this particular horse. I've had horses from them in the past. Not many, but nice horses. Minorette (Smart Strike) was one of the first horses they sent me and we won the Belmont Oaks on the turf with her. I've done a lot of business with Coolmore. I have several stallions standing there: Jack Christopher, Practical Joke, Early Voting. I've always had a great business relationship with them and, occasionally, they have sent a horse or two my way. They like to spread things out and use top trainers all over the country. I'm just happy I'm in that group of trainers."

After the maiden win, Brown thought Sierra Leone was ready for a challenge. He entered him in the Remsen, knowing the competition would include Dornoch (Good Magic), the full-brother to 2023 Derby winner Mage. For Sierra Leone, it was an odd run race. On what was a speed-favoring track, he dropped far back early, trailing the field for most of the way before he started to roll on the far turn and set his sights on Dornoch. Inside the sixteenth pole, he put his head in front of Dornoch and it looked like race was over. But Dornoch came again and came back for the win.

"I was a little disappointed," Brown said. "I thought the second time out he'd show a little more speed. You also have to factor in that sloppy track. He had never been on a track like that and maybe he was caught off guard by that. He was the only horse that day that made up any ground and that's an important thing to note. He really wasn't unlucky. He had every chance to win. He just lost some focus and allowed that other horse, who is a nice horse in his own right, to re-rally on him. I was pleased with the effort though disappointed by the outcome."

Because Sierra Leone appeared to lose his focus in the Remsen in deep stretch, Brown will equip him with blinkers on Saturday.

With Brown based in Florida over the winter, the most logical spots for Sierra Leone's return may have been the GIII Holy Bull S. or the GII Fountain of Youth S. But Brown feels that the Gulfstream racing surface is a bad fit for Sierra Leone and that's why he has shipped him to Fair Grounds.

Chad Brown | Sarah Andrew

"I didn't like the short distance and short stretch of those two races at Gulfstream," he said. "I had Blazing Sevens (Good Magic) for example. He was a nice horse and nearly won the Preakness, but he ran terrible at Gulfstream. He didn't like the kickback. The kickback at Gulfstream, according to a couple of jockeys I really trust, is that it is a very challenging kickback for a horse to run through. That probably contributes to the appearance that it is a speed-favoring track. Even if they slow the track down, so to speak, it still seems like it's dominated more by front-running horses. I think the kickback has something to do with that. It's just not anything I'm interested in putting this horse through."

The Risen Star will be the first step in what Brown hopes is a progression that will have his horse at his very best come Derby Day.

"We decided to use just two preps, which is always risky," Brown said. "I thought, all things considered, like his running style, I feel like his third race of the year will be his best race. And that is a big if because there is a lot of training and racing to still overcome."

Brown's best two Derby horses have been Good Magic and Zandon (Upstart), who was third in the 2022 Derby. Does Sierra Leone represent his best chance yet?

“I won’t say that he’s my best threat yet,” Brown said. “Those two horses were really good horses to take into the race. I’d say he belongs in their group, but he’s got a ways to go to get to the point where we know he’s going to be one of the first two choices in the Derby. I think he can get there. He has the potential to do it. He’s training great and he’s the right kind of horse. We are really excited about him.”

Brown has a few other horses that could get him to the Derby. Domestic Product (Practical Joke) was second in the Holy Bull. Good Money (Good Magic) broke his maiden at Tampa Bay Downs in his lone start. Tuscan Gold (Medaglia d’Oro) is coming off a maiden win at Gulfstream. But none, at least at this point, compare to Sierra Leone.

“When they give you a horse that cost $2.3 million at the sales, yes, there’s a little bit more pressure,” Brown said. “The expectations are certainly high, being that he was a sale-topping yearling at the prestigious Saratoga sale, and rightfully so. The expectations should be high.”

Gelding him was the first step, but as Kaye watched Fire King in the mornings, she noticed how sensitive he was in the mouth. In the bay’s fifth career start early last year, she and Camejo removed most of his equipment and put him in a simple rubber bit. They told jockey Manny Franco not to mess with his face during the race. Fire King took the lead early and won wire to wire in a New York-bred maiden claimer on Jan. 8.

While Fire King was working toward that maiden win, he started to come out of his shell.

“At first he would hide in the back of the stall with his ears pinned back,” said Kaye. “I started to entice him to come to the front of the stall. I would give him balls and salt rocks and he started to come forward. Clement obviously does a fantastic job, but I only had 10 horses at this point so I was able to hang out with him all day every day. He became the biggest beggar and you had to pay the treat toll every time you walked by. He started doing goofy things. He would pick up his polos and wrap them around his head. He would destroy his toys. You couldn’t walk by with a baseball hat or it was gone. He was just so quirky.”

Kaye wasn't the only one who fell in love with him. She posted a video to TikTok showcasing a day in the life of Fire King and to her surprise, it received 330,000 views and over 62,300 likes. Nicknamed 'Fuego' by his groom Julio, Fire King continued to amuse his social media following through his hat-stealing exploits, an obsession with his "emotional support jolly ball," and his ongoing efforts to win over his stablemate, an Into Mischief filly who "cost 400,000 carrots."

"I had no idea it would take off," Kaye admitted. "I really did it to show people what kind of life racehorses had. It enlightened so many people to the sport who had a negative connotation with it before, but then realized that these horses are treated like kings."

Kaye answered questions from viewers like if Fuego ever got turned out and how they could tune in for his next race. She showed footage of Fuego relaxing in his ice boots, getting a massage and rolling around in the round pen—all things that aren't worth a glance for track regulars, but are beyond fascinating to those on the outside looking in.

Fuego's fame grew even on the backside.

"Everyone would come in the barn to see him and give him treats because he was this popular guy," Kaye said. "Even Javier Castellano came and was like, 'Oh my God, my kids are watching him on TikTok.' I took a picture of Javier and Fuego thinking, 'Are you kidding me? This guy just won the Kentucky Derby and he wants a picture with this claimer.'"

One day, the steady stream of videos with Fuego came to an end. Fire King had been claimed. He bounced from the Meadowlands to Mountaineer to Mahoning Valley, oftentimes making weekly starts but never getting to the winner's circle. Kaye kept in touch with the gelding's connections, letting them know that she had a home ready for him when his racing career was over.

On the day before Christmas Eve, she got a call from his trainer at Mountaineer. He was planning on sending the horse to Puerto Rico unless Kaye could offer up the same amount of money and have him picked up in the next 24 hours.

Fire King's co-breeder Lucas Stritsman had kept in touch with Kaye throughout the gelding's time in the Camejo barn and after. When he heard the news, he offered to pay the amount in full.

Fire King is special for Stritsman as well, being the first horse Stritsman ever bred and named after his father, who started up their family's fireplace company. Fire King raced in Stritsman's Corms Racing Stable silks until he was claimed last fall.

"It's been an adventure for sure," Stritsman said of the journey with the gelding. "I was talking to Nikki the whole time he was with Camejo. She would send me pictures and you could tell she was in love with that horse, which was great because as an owner you know he's getting taken care of. I couldn't be happier that he ended up in the right place and with the right person."

Finding a van driver that could get a horse from West Virginia to Kaye's home in New Jersey the day before Christmas Eve proved to be a challenge. After dozens of inquiries sent out and one failed attempt with a driver who committed but never showed, Kaye finally landed a van. Fuego arrived at his new home on Christmas Eve morning.

"It was the best Christmas gift," said Kaye. "He looked like he hadn't had a bath in three months, but the second the trailer arrived he had his head out the window with his ears up."

Kaye had just adopted her first horse. Even though her experience in the equine industry doesn't extend all that far back, for her it was a dream come true.

Kaye first got involved in racing in 2018, when she took on the role of assistant director of marketing at Monmouth Park. Her interest quickly sparked and she spoke with a trainer there, admitting that she had no experience with horses or racing, but he offered her a job anyways. She worked from four to eight every morning on the backside and then from nine to five on the front side.

Her passion for racing blossomed and she eventually landed a full-time job with Camejo. She worked for him for several years, spent another stint with Danny Gargan, and then returned to Camejo to run his barn at Belmont.

From the trailer, Fuego checks out his new home | courtesy Nikki Kaye

“I'd never had my own string of 30 horses and that was when HISA was coming in so I was trying to learn all these new rules, but we did well. Those 60-hour weeks were so worth that minute and 20 seconds of pure happiness and joy after a win. I owe so much to Jose and to Danny and Carol Fisher [assistant trainer to Gargan]. I wouldn't know anything without the three of them.”

Kaye recently took a step back from racing for a job as the marketing director at a large orthopedics company on the East Coast. The offer to utilize her two master's degrees was too good to turn down. Even so, she doesn't plan on leaving the sport any time soon and hopes to get involved in a bigger way again eventually.

She is currently working on a dissertation for her journalism degree examining the overall impact media has on society's perception of horse racing and she's now taking on another task of educating the public on Thoroughbred aftercare now that Fuego has returned to social media. Followers were enthusiastic about his reappearance as they were introduced to his new home and saw him trotting placidly around a riding ring. Fuego's latest success was accurately predicting the winner of the Super Bowl.

“There were so many people happy that he was back, people that were wondering where he was,” Kaye said. “I gave him a lot of time off for the first two months. We did a lot of manners and groundwork. He's super intelligent to the point where he is almost too smart for his own good. He's very nosy and curious, but he has been an angel with me on his back.”

Kaye has seen both the good and the ugly sides of horse racing and she has had her heart broken once before with a horse she hoped to adopt one day. When she was with Camejo at Monmouth, her favorite horse was Grade III winner Chublicious (Hey Chub), who had a similar personality to Fuego but tragically broke down at the quarter pole with Kaye looking on.

Nikki Kaye and Fuego | courtesy Nikki Kaye

“I wanted to take Chublicious when he was done but it didn't work out, so I think that Fuego came into my life for a reason. He was happy as a racehorse, but it was different. Now he doesn't have to be competitive and he can just relax. They call him lazy all the time at the farm.”

Kaye said that she eventually hopes to travel to Kentucky with Fuego for the Thoroughbred Makeover, competing in either hunters or competitive trail.

“It is so special to have a horse that I have such an amazing bond with,” she explained. “He is still his quirky self. He reminds me of a toddler that walks up and pokes you. We're taking our time to learn a second career and he has a spoiled life. All he does is eat, play with toys and run around his paddock all day, but he would go to battle for me, that's for sure.”

And so the horse with one maiden claiming win from 17 lifetime starts was never meant to make headlines as a racehorse, but the role he'll play as an ambassador for the sport will hopefully continue long after his final start.

MATING PLANS

presented by  SPENDTHRIFT

MATING PLANS, PRESENTED BY SPENDTHRIFT: WHISPER HILL FARM

Shedaresthedevil will be bred to Into Mischief in 2024

The TDN's popular annual series 'Mating Plans, presented by Spendthrift,' continues today in a conversation with Whisper Hill Farm's Mandy Pope.

Shedaresthedevil, 7, Daredevil--Starship Warspeed, by Congrats. To be bred to Into Mischief.

When we planned Shedaresthedevil's first mating, we chose Gun Runner because we loved the physical match and we also liked the Storm Cat and A.P. Indy in her pedigree for him. She foaled Jan. 29 and the filly is everything that we had hoped and dreamed she could be! She is a big, strong chestnut filly with great bone, a big hip and tons of quality! For 2024, she is going to Into Mischief. Shedaresthedevil's size and scope will match up well with Into Mischief, we believe. And I think we may already have Gun Runner penciled in for 2025!

Songbird, 11, Medaglia d'Oro--Ivanavalot, by West Acre. To be bred to Gun Runner.

2023 was a great year for Songbird and everyone connected to her, as she was inducted into the Racing Hall of Fame! Currently, she is in foal to Gun Runner and is going back to Gun Runner. We think her high-cruising speed will complement his, as some of his best runners are out of mares with speed. We also think Gun Runner will add a bit of scope and stretch to the foals, which would be a nice addition.

JACKIE'S WARRIOR

The first horse in the storied history of Saratoga to win a Grade 1 stakes three consecutive years.

 SPENDTHRIFT | $45,000 S&N

We have retained some fillies out of Songbird as future broodmares, and her first colt (by Curlin) sold for $1 million this past September, so this mare has a lot in the pipeline.

I'll Take Charge, 12, Indian Charlie--Take Charge Lady, by Dehere. 2024 mating undecided.

We bought her as a yearling ($2.2 million, Keeneland September), and with her amazing pedigree we always hoped and planned for her to be a long-term broodmare play. Thankfully she has fulfilled her destiny, producing Grade II winner and Grade I-placed Charge It for us, as well as selling a $1.7-million yearling (by into Mischief) this past September. She is in foal to Into Mischief on a late cover, so we have decided to see the foal and decide on her future mating at that time, with the main options being Tapit, Into Mischief, or Gun Runner.

Graceful Princess, 8, Tapit--Havre de Grace, by Saint Liam. To be bred to Curlin.

She is an important mare to us, being a Grade III winner out of Havre de Grace, who was so special to me. She is in foal to Gun Runner, and that was an easy choice with the success of Tapit mares and Gun Runner. She is scheduled to go to Curlin for 2024, both on the physical match being excellent, and the fact that he's done well with Tapit mares also, producing the likes of Cody's Wish.

Magical World, 14, Distorted Humor--Pleasant Home, by Seeking the Gold. To be bred to Good Magic.

Magical World is a mare we own in partnership with Three Chimneys Farm, and she was rested last season after having a late May foal. She is going to Good Magic for 2024, mainly because we all really liked the physical match there, since she should give plenty of size and substance to the equation. On the pedigree angle, the cross gives a 4x4 double to Danzig, which we found in three of his graded runners so far, including Kentucky Derby winner Mage.

Hard Not To Love, 8, Hard Spun--Loving Vindication, by Vindication. To be bred to Tapit.

We own this mare in partnership with Gainesway Farm. She is in foal to Curlin and is going to Tapit in 2024. As you know we love Tapit, and the only person who loves Tapit more is Antony Beck, so it was an easy choice! She also has a lovely Tapit yearling filly, which made the decision even easier.

Seeing RED?

Click on a stallion's name to learn more about them on their page on the farm's website.

Tap Gun, 9, Tapit--Quiet Giant, by Giant's Causeway. To be bred to Justify.

As a half-sister to Gun Runner, she was another of those long-term broodmare plays when we bought her as a yearling. She is in foal to Quality Road and is booked to Justify for 2024. She is a mare who really appreciates a robust stallion who can throw some size like Quality Road and Justify can do. She has a lovely Quality Road yearling filly.

Wicked Whisper, 7, Liam's Map--Zayanna, by Bernardini. To be bred to Curlin.

What we loved about this mare when we purchased her was how precocious she was as a race filly. She won first out at Saratoga and followed it up by winning the GI Frizette. She is in foal to Gun Runner and scheduled to go back to Curlin for 2024. She has a very powerful and racy Curlin yearling filly, and the cross is doing well, especially with Eclipse Award-winning Idiomatic putting an exclamation point on it! She is a lovely mare who we have high hopes for.

FRANK TAYLOR JOINS TDN WRITERS' ROOM PODCAST

Frank Taylor | Sue Finley

Frank Taylor, the director of new business and development for Taylor Made, knew that there was an acute labor shortage in Kentucky, with farms unable to find reliable help. But Taylor thought he had a solution. Identify those who were struggling with substance abuse problems, put them into a recovery program and, when they are ready, teach them horsemanship skills that can make them candidates for jobs throughout the industry. Thus, Taylor created Stable Recovery, a rehabilitation program, and the Taylor Made School of Horsemanship.

What he didn't know at the time was whether or not farms would be willing to take a chance on individuals that had been in prison and/or struggled with drug addiction. He soon found out. His programs have been embraced in the Lexington area and several graduates have landed steady jobs and have moved on to meaningful lives.

Taylor joined this week's TDN Writers' Room podcast presented by Keeneland to talk about his programs and their many success stories. He was this week's Green Group Guest of the week.

Taylor said he arrived at the idea of starting the program when confronting his own alcoholism.

"Once I did it and quit, I started feeling better," he said. "I was having more fun than I've ever had. It was that that kind of spurred me on to start the School of Horsemanship. It was going to be a 90-day program to teach the basics of horsemanship, to get people started off at, say, a groom level, either for Taylor Made or another farm. I had kind of a tough sales job. I went to my brothers and said, 'I've got this idea, I want to bring in a bunch of heroin addicts and alcoholics and felons in here to work with these horses.' They were looking at me like I had two heads. I just wanted a chance to make it work. They were reluctant because there were a lot of concerns. But here we are, 3 1/2 years into it. We have had a hiccup here or there, but not many. I really think we have changed a lot of lives. We've introduced a lot of people to the horse business and trained a lot of people. The results have been amazing."

The program has been so successful that Taylor would like to expand, but, for now, it's a matter of one step at a time.

"If we wanted to have 500 people in this program by the end of the year, that wouldn't be a problem," he said. "We need the space, money and management. The need for something like this is way beyond what we can serve at this point and always will be. It's just such a crisis and a terrible situation. It's destroying society, is destroying families. It's just absolutely one of the worst epidemics in the history of mankind. The beautiful thing is, is we have that huge problem and that we have a huge problem with labor in this country. If you blend those two together, they can help solve each other."

It's been proven that working with horses can solve all kinds of problems for people, whether that be soldiers suffering from PTSD or individuals with drug issues. Taylor knows that the horses deserve a lot of the credit for the success of these programs.

"The horses, they are like the secret sauce for stable recovery," Taylor said. "That's something we have that other recovery places don't have. I was born into the horse business and I love horses and they're my passion." Cont.

Elsewhere on the podcast, which is also sponsored by the Kentucky Thoroughbred Association, Coolmore, the Pennsylvania Horse Breeders Association, 1/ST Racing, West Point Thoroughbreds, and XBTV.com, the team of Randy Moss, Bill Finley and Zoe Cadman delved back into the Bob Baffert ban at Churchill Downs, which also extends to the GI Kentucky Oaks, which means the impressive winner of the GIII Las Virgenes S., Kinza (Carpe Diem), will be shut out. Moss agreed that the Derby week races might deserve an asterisk if Baffert's horses are all banned, but he argued that it's not too late for Churchill to change its mind and to lift the Baffert ban. The team took a look at the GII Risen Star S., to be run this Saturday at Fair Grounds and all agreed it will be by far the deepest Derby prep run so far this year.

NYRA'S O'ROURKE CHAIRS ALL-WEATHER SURFACES COMMITTEE

The New York Racing Association (NYRA) has announced the formation of an All-Weather Surfaces Committee to study the impact of various racing surfaces on equine injury rates. According to a Wednesday NYRA press release, the committee, which first met last October, will evaluate safety metrics from tracks utilizing all-weather racing surfaces, as well as study the feasibility of broader adoption of all-weather surfaces nationally.

The committee, chaired by NYRA CEO and President David O'Rourke, was formed at the request of the Horseracing Integrity and Safety Authority (HISA), as part of HISA's strategic response to several clusters of equine fatalities in 2023.

In addition to O'Rourke, members of the committee also include Keeneland Vice President of Racing Gatewood Bell, Breeders' Cup President and CEO Drew Fleming, 1/ST Racing and Gaming Executive Vice Chairman Craig Fravel, and Del Mar Thoroughbred Club President Josh Rubinstein.

“Embracing science and technology will ensure the continued success of Thoroughbred racing in the United States,” said O'Rourke. “All-weather racing surfaces can play an important role in our collective efforts to improve safety, and I thank Lisa Lazarus and HISA for the opportunity to advance this discussion among decision makers in the sport.”

David O'Rourke | Coglianesse

The committee is expected to convene regularly in the coming months and will share its findings and recommendations with HISA's Racetrack Safety Committee and with other stakeholders across the sport when complete.

“HISA is grateful to NYRA and to David O'Rourke for leading this effort, and to all the members of the committee for their dedication to equine safety,” said HISA CEO Lisa Lazarus. “This committee's work will be essential in deepening our understanding of all-weather surfaces, and we look forward to reviewing the results when complete.”

NYRA is in the process of constructing a one-mile Tapeta track to serve as the fourth racing surface at the new Belmont Park. Previously, NYRA installed a Tapeta pony track at Belmont to provide an additional training option in inclement weather, while also providing NYRA with information on the performance of a synthetic surface in the Long Island climate.

RESEARCH ON REMAINING LAND INSIDE LEXINGTON'S USB TO BE PRESENTED MAR. 5

The Fayette Alliance will release two new research studies that analyze the remaining land inside of the Urban Services Boundary in Lexington, Kentucky at an open meeting Mar. 5.

"Grow Smart: Land Use Analysis and Recommendations" and "Lexington-Fayette County Housing Growth Analysis" will be presented on Tuesday, Mar. 5 at 5:30 p.m. ET. in Lexington's Central Library Branch's Farish Theatre at 140 E. Main Street.

Expanding development outside of the Urban Service Boundary--the circle around the downtown area of Lexington--has been a contentious issue for years in the city as some fight to preserve Lexington's historic horse farms while others argue that some need to be developed in order to accommodate a growing population. Cont.

The research studies will be presented and released at an event titled "Mapped: Analyzing Land and Housing Trends in Lexington." Attendees will hear from two different urban planning and land-use experts: Stan Harvey--Director of Urban Planning and Design at Lord Aeck Sargent, and Geoff Koski--President of KB Advisory Group, a real estate and economic development advisory firm.

The first presentation, titled "Grow Smart: Land Use Analysis and Recommendations," will provide a detailed map of the land left within the Urban Services Boundary and its current zoning and acreage. The second presentation, titled "Lexington-Fayette County Housing Growth Analysis," will focus on how the community might most efficiently utilize the land and reshape development patterns to better accommodate a growing population.

WEEKLY RULINGS

WEEKLY STEWARDS AND COMMISSIONS RULINGS, FEB. 6 - FEB. 12

Every week, the TDN posts a roundup of the relevant Horseracing Integrity and Safety Act (HISA)-related rulings from around the country.

Among this week's rulings, trainer Jonathan Wong has been suspended for two years and fined $25,000 for a post-race metformin positive from last June.

Wong told the *TDN he has appealed the ruling which could now go before the Federal Trade Commission, head to federal court, or both. He also said that he would seek a temporary injunction against the ban.

Trainer Kari Craddock was issued a seven-day suspension for a post-race Methocarbamol positive. Methocarbamol is a Class C controlled medication, a first offense for which comes a possible $500 fine and loss of purse. This was Craddock's second Methocarbamol-related violation since HISA's Anti-Doping and Medication Control (ADMC) program went into effect.

Trainer Ismael Bahena has also been provisionally suspended after Bahena's trainee, Color Field, tested positive for methamphetamine--a banned substance under HISA and a ubiquitous drug of human abuse--when winning at Horseshoe Indianapolis on Oct. 30. HIWU has now brought 11 methamphetamine-related cases for adjudication since the ADMC program went into effect.

THURSDAY'S INSIGHTS: PRICED COLTS DEBUT AT GULFSTREAM

by Christina Bossinakis

Swordofhonor as a yearling | Arqana

5th-GP, $89K, MSW, 4yo/up, 7 1/2ft, 2:09pm EST

Trainer Todd Pletcher offers up a pair of seven-figure sales horses making their belated debuts. Victorious Racing LLC's SWORDOFHONOR (IRE) (Siyouni {Fr}) sports some pretty flashy credentials. The €1.5 million yearling purchase is a half-brother to the year-older Angel Bleu (Fr) (Dark Angel {Ire}), a two-time Group 1 winner as a juvenile who subsequently won last summer's G2 Celebration Mile S. at Goodwood. Consigned by Ecurie des Monceaux and purchased by Oliver St Lawrence, the bay was the second highest-priced yearling and the top-priced colt of the 2021 Arqana August Yearling Sale. His family also includes Group 1 scorers Elvstroem (Aus) and Haradasun (Aus).

The son of Cercle de La Vie (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}), sister to Group 1 winners Highland Reel and Cape of Good Hope, posted a pair of bullet works--including the most recent a 1:01 (1/5) move Feb. 8--at Pletcher's Palm Beach Downs base.

Also representing the Hall of Famer is Repole Stable and St Elias Stable's STORM READY (City of Light), a $1.05 million Keeneland September buy. Selling in Session 2 of the 2021 edition of the sale, the colt was one of eight seven-figure offerings that day. The half to GSW Biddu Duke (Bayern) posted his latest breeze at Palm Beach Downs Jan. 31, covering five panels in 1:00 3/5 (1/2). The colts will be partnered by the Ortiz brothers, the former by Jose and the latter by Irad. TJCS PPS

LAUNCH (f, 3, Omaha Beach--Spark {MSP, $119,443}, by Speightstown), third in the G3 Irish E.B.F Fillies Sprint S. last spring, kicked off her U.S. campaign with a gaudy 7 1/2-length victory at Delaware Oct. 23. Trying black-type company this side of the Atlantic for the first time in a soggy renewal of the Glitter Woman S. at Gulfstream Jan. 7, she finished a good second behind TDN Rising Star Into Champagne (Into Mischief). Installed the 5-2 second choice while getting Lasix for the first time here, she took charge soon after the start, held a solid advantage throughout, and despite the best efforts of favored Roswell (Into Mischief) late, was able to hold on for a neck victory. Out of a full-sister to Kentucky Derby hero Monarchos, Spark produced her last recorded live foal, a filly by Authentic, in 2022. This represents the family of GI Met Mile winner and sire Silver State. Sales history: $50,000 Ylg '22 KEESEP. Lifetime Record: GSP-Ire, SP-US, 10-2-2-3, $101,760. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by FanDuel TV.

IN ORDER OF PURSE:

5th-Gulfstream, $70K, Msw, 2-14, 3yo, f, 1mT, 1:35.34, fm, nk EXPATRIATE (f, 3, Cairo Prince--Exclude {GB}, by Include) went off the 7-2 second choice after firing a four-furlong bulletat Payson in :48 2/5 (1/67) Feb. 3 followed by a maintenance move of :50 3/5 (20/28) Feb. 9. Hustled to the leading group from her far outside draw, she was floated wide into the first turn before settling in fourth as Fluid (Blame) cut out a :22.81 quarter with favored Candy Landy (Candy Ride {Arg}) in hot pursuit. Ranging up on the outside of those rivals following a half in :47.94, the Chad Brown trainee reached even terms with her rivals turning for home, inched into a clear advantage midstretch and had enough left in the tank to fend off stablemate Positive Carry (Ire) (Sea The Moon {Ger}) by a neck at the wire. The $150,000 KEESEP yearling purchase is a half to Lady Scarlet (Union Rags), GSW, $307,530. This is the family of two-time Canadian Horse of the Year L'Enjouleur and Canadian champions La Voyaguese and Medaille d'Or. Dam Exclude, who produced a colt by Volatile in 2022, was bred to Constitution for the current season. Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, $42,000. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by FanDuel TV.

TRUMPETS (f, 3, Neolithic--Summer Embrace, by Winslow Homer) was runner up to Karaya (Bucchero)--winner of her last two starts--when facing similar company Dec. 23. Sent off the 4-5 choice to go one better, she took the lead early and led throughout, drawing off to win by 5 3/4 lengths over Retail Therapy (Blame). Dam Summer Embrace is a half-sister to Puerto Rican Champion Imported 3-year-old Analyze Your Life (Overanalyze). Sales history: $8,000 Ylg '22 OBSOCT. 7th-Tampa Bay Downs, $32,000, Msw, 2-14, 4yo/up, 1 1/16mT, 1:40.33, fm, neck.

GOING CONCERN (GB) (g, 4, Kingman {GB}--Newton's Night {Ire}, by Galileo {Ire}), sent off the 6-5 choice for this unveiling, hesitated a beat at the start and was shuffled back to the rear through a speedy initial quarter in :21.96. Starting to work his way up approaching the far turn, the gelding appeared locked and loaded rounding the home turn, but was in desperate need of some running room down on the inside. Moving best of all late, he was stranded for a moment as Legitimize (Justify) cut to the inside for his run, momentarily hindering the favorite's forward momentum. Armed with nerves of steel, Antonio Gallardo sent the bay right on through, however, bulling his way a hard-fought neck score over Legitimize.
