

POST-ENTRY SCREENING: LIKE HANDICAPPING A RACECARD

Ryan Thompson

by Dan Ross

Tim Grande, the California Horse Racing Board's (CHRB) chief official veterinarian, remembers sitting among the first panel of experts charged with screening horses for elevated risk of injury even before they could be entered to race.

"If an entry came across the racing office's desk, we had to give it approval before it could be accepted," said Grande, of the then new addition to the regulatory furniture mandated by the California Governor's office in the wake of the 2019 Santa Anita welfare crisis. "It wasn't particularly practical with just the labor involved and it dragged out the entry processes."

Since then, this panel's focus has switched to screening horse for risk after they've been entered (more on this in a bit). While this panel has been just one of a suite of tightened welfare and safety protocols implemented since 2019, it's a key element experts point to when explaining just how the state has managed to significantly shrink its equine fatality numbers over the past five years.

Indeed, California's post-entry screening model is one researchers from McKinsey identified during last week's Jockey Club Welfare and Safety summit as something of a blueprint for how best to sift through the entries to single-out those at elevated risk of harm. Cont. p3

ELITE BRINGS DIVERSE, QUALITY CONSIGNMENT TO FASIG-TIPTON HORSES OF RACING SALE by Stefanie Grimm

No matter the time of year or the venue, ELITE Sales knows how to bring a good horse to auction. Names like dual champion Monomoy Girl (Tapizar), who topped the 2020 Fasig-Tipton November sale at a cool $9.5 million, or another dual champion in Tepin (Bernstein), who posted the second-highest price of the 2017 Fasig November sale--behind only Songbird (Medaglia d'Oro)--at $8 million, have passed through the Elite consignments in recent years. Still racing are the likes of multiple graded stakes winner Newgrange (Violence), along with 2023 Fasig-Tipton July Horses of Racing Age grads and stakes winners Power In Numbers (Girvin) and Catiche (Arrogate).

Tracks that use a similar approach--what the researchers coined the "AAA" tier tracks--have a 30% to 40% lower fatality rate than tracks with lesser post-screening protocols. But AAA tracks constitute only about 10% to 15% of all racetracks in North America.

The "AA" tracks are those where the regulatory vets might pull only a few risk factors when assessing horses, and might have access to an incomplete suite of health and performance histories. These amount to 25% to 30% of all tracks in the nation.

Then there are the "A" tracks where the regulatory vets might look only at PPs when assessing risk of injury pre-race, and where post-entry examinations might not take place at all. These account for between 55% to 70% of all tracks.

The idea of identifying risk in horses is nothing new. For years, researchers have understood how factors like age, sex, exercise and veterinary history can all play a part in a horse's increased likelihood of getting injured.

McKinsey's researchers determined how horses with lay-up periods of between 31-60 days are 29% more likely to suffer a fatal injury. Horses previously on the vets' list are at a 34% higher risk of fatal injury. Horses four and older making their first start are 48% more likely to suffer a fatal injury than an average horse.

The trick for regulators, however, has been just what do with this knowledge...

California

Five years on in California, Grande now uses four main sources of information as he assesses each entered horse. Its past performances. Its full regulatory exam record, including any out-of-competition exams. Its vets' list history and its full medical records.

Grande screens them for dozens of primarily "short-term" risk factors. A class-drop, for example. A missed workout. First start back from being on the vets' list. Coming of a lay-off, or coming back off a quick turn-around. In other words, "horses that ran last week that's right back in," he said.

After combing through these reports, Grande writes summaries for nearly every horse entered. "A first-time starter that's never raised a flag, never had a joint injection or anything of that nature might not appear on the list, but the bulk of the horses do," he said, likening the process to a punter handicapping a card.

Grande will then deliver these summaries to the full entry panel for their final review. In addition to Grande, this panel typically comprises a steward, another regulatory veterinarian, quite frequently the CHR's equine medical director and, when possible, an association vet.

Though every card is different, Grande estimates that on average, roughly a quarter of the horses entered will be flagged by the panel for some kind of additional scrutiny prior to the pre-race exam.

In an ideal world, said Grande, every horse would be checked three or four days out, and then again the morning of the race. But with staffing problems, "that's not very practical at the moment," he said.

Occasionally, a horse's profile leaps off the page, prompting an immediate scratch from the panel. But such events are happening less and less in California, said Grande.

"You would expect over time for those kinds of instances to subside," he explained. "The trainers, the veterinarians, everyone's aware now of how the panel works."

To do this work, Grande sometimes burns the candle at both ends. Indeed, CHR's equine medical director Jeff Blea describes how Grande's summaries might arrive in the panel's inboxes at all kinds of moonlit hours.

"It depends on the field size. It depends on how quickly the overnight is generated. It depends on whether I have to do a second track," said Grande, when asked how long the process takes.

"Even with 65 to 70 horses, you're spending a bit of time on each horse's record. But we've been doing it for so long, we have got a good database on each horse now," he added. "I can't imagine if I had to go cold-turkey every time, as though I didn't know anything about each horse."

The residual value from this work can't be overestimated, Grande said.

"It keeps the regulatory examining vets familiar with the horse population. It helps in a lot of ways," he added. "Even in the investigation of an injury or a catastrophic injury, all that information is important."

Nationwide

At last week's summit, Sarah Hinchliffe, a regulatory veterinarian with the New York Racing Association (NYRA), identified several areas of improvement in their evolving approach to scrutinizing runners, including the extra regulatory eyes on the track of a morning.

"Watching morning training has been a huge help to us in identifying horses that are of concern and preventing those injuries during training, particularly turning horses back that aren't sound," said Hinchliffe, adding how a decrease in equine injuries has correlated to a decrease in human injuries as well.

Hinchliffe also singled out for mention the ability for regulators to see a horse's medical records—an option that has been broadly expanded under HISA, thanks to a new online portal that in many jurisdictions has replaced a system built around printed hard-copies.

Previously, even in those jurisdictions where regulatory vets received treatment records there were often gaps, such as on horses shipping in from other states. In some jurisdictions, regulatory veterinarians had no access to treatment records.

"Now, when you have a horse that you're concerned about, you can go back and you can delve a little deeper," said Shari Silverman, a former regulatory veterinarian for the Pennsylvania Racing Commission and now a veterinary liaison for HISA.

And what are the most valuable insights these medical records proffer?

“Horses getting multiple joint injections into a single joint on a limb—not a set of joints, but a single joint over time,” she said.

“When I first started full-time at Parx, I was given an assignment by my predecessor of going through the medical records and pulling out all the intra-articular injections. I had developed a spreadsheet for this use all the way back in 2014. So, it's a decade now we've been using that in our risk assessment. It's just one piece of the picture, but it's huge,” she said.

“When you're looking at a horse and the horse is jogging sound, but you're flexing a limb and it's uncomfortable on that joint, now you know if this joint has been injected, when the joint was injected,” Silverman said. “You're seeing a reaction on that pathology. It certainly carries a lot more weight in your mind.”

Another red flag? “A horse that had an orthopaedic surgical intervention in the past, even a chip,” said Silverman. “Everyone talks about a chip, ‘oh, it's no big deal.’ But a chip happens for a reason, be it a conformation flaw or wear and tear. Once that happens, in my mind that puts the horse at a higher risk that it's going to happen again.”

The advent of HISA's racetrack safety requirements has inevitably come with teething troubles, however, especially in lesser-resourced jurisdictions not equipped with the sorts of rich and ready data that officials in places like California have easy access to. On top of that, up and down the country, commissions face a dearth of qualified veterinarians willing to join their teams.

“The resources available in some jurisdictions are significantly different than others,” said Will Farmer, Churchill Downs equine medical director, last week. “To be able to take regulations and rules and be able to implement them meaningfully across a wide spectrum of racetracks so that it's impactful for all of our horses is a big challenge.”

Washington

Ron Friedman, the Washington State Racing Commission's (WSRC) equine medical director, alone screens horses entered to race at Emerald Downs. He uses a variety of risk factors. If he determines a horse needs extra veterinary scrutiny before the race-day exam, they'll undergo a separate examination and diagnostics, if necessary.

All told, the commission employs two state vets. There are no association vets at Emerald Downs. Friedman has a small pool of three reliable veterinarians he can call on if required. He's lucky.

“It’s very difficult to find additional staff,” Friedman explained. “The biggest reason is that the commission does not have the funds to match the increasing cost of veterinarians. I think the average relief vet compensation right now is approximately $1,100 a day. Our commission could not afford that.”

The way Friedman describes the advent of HISA is as something of a mixed bag. On the plus side is an overall reduction in equine fatalities at HISA-governed jurisdictions.

Emerald Downs | Reed and Erin Palmer

Last year, the equine fatality rate in Washington State was 1.05 fatalities per 1000 starts--noticeably lower than the national average of 1.32. The only year the state has maintained a better fatality rate was in 2020, when it had zero race-day fatalities.

While HISA holds the potential to streamline the way regulators approach post-entry screening protocols, however, right now the new federal program “has actually made it more difficult to do,” said Friedman. One of the key problems, he added, lies with individual horse medical records.

Prior to HISA going into effect, Friedman received these records directly, tailored for Friedman's main areas of interest, he said. This included local blocks during lameness exams, previous vet listings, X-rays and ultrasound exams, and intra-articular corticosteroid injections, especially repeated injections into the same joint within a short timeframe.

(Here, Friedman noted how his concerns about intra-articular injections are mitigated by the new much stricter joint injections rules, set to go into effect July 8).

Now, these medical records must be accessed through the online HISA portal, and the process of wading through this digital database to zero in on the most pertinent information is time-consuming and laborious, said Friedman.

What would majorly streamline the process, said Friedman, would be if HISA generated individual reports for each horse entered to race that includes a variety of information like vet's list histories and drops in class.

HISA and [The Jockey Club's software] InCompass have this information, said Friedman, "but they are not able to generate that report currently."

Friedman also described other time-consuming hurdles with the current system, which eat into his day. He pointed to the cumbersome bureaucratic processes for adding and removing horses from vets' lists, especially if they cross certain state lines. His remarks about the additional paperwork mirror comments made at last week's summit.

"I don't think people understand or appreciate the volume [of paperwork] that a racetrack practitioner goes through every day," said Chip Johnson, a private veterinarian in Central Kentucky.

"The amount of paperwork really has been substantial," Friedman agreed. "The data entry has been marked. And that's in addition to the other information I maintain here."

At the same time, Friedman is encouraged by an application HISA is currently working on to track high speed furlongs. This builds from the work of UC Davis' Sue Stover. Over the years, Stover has identified an association between a horse's exercise history and an increased likelihood of catastrophic injury, along with the effect of chronic mechanical loading--also known as cyclic loading--and sports injury.

"I think what would be really useful would be to have it combined with the 'in-today' list," he said, describing high-speed furlong data as "among the major risk factors we can act upon."

Help on Its Way?

HISA is currently trailing a Palintir Technologies-built AI model that uses 44-risk factors to assess a horse's potential increased risk. A daily report is generated on every horse entered to race. This report assigns a number between 0 and 44 depending on the number of individual risk factors flagged by the system.

Though still in its beta-testing phase, the technology already shows promise as a useful regulatory aid, said Silverman.

"When you've got a track that has staffing challenges, this is going to be another staff member who is going to raise red flags. Then the regulatory vet can go back and look at this red flag and say, 'is this real? Is this something I need to look at?'" Silverman said.

"The machine isn't going to take over for the boots on the ground veterinarians," Silverman added. "They know their horses. They know their trainers."

California is one of the places the system is being trialled. Grande is using it to see how it correlates with his own assessments.

For the system to make a significant dent in the regulatory process, said Grande, it would be programmed to assess the 44 risk factors in combination, evaluating each one according to its relative importance to an individual runner before affording that horse a weighted risk assessment.

“How do the risk factors work together? Obviously, if a horse hasn't raced in 60 days, I won't be shocked to see he has a gap in his workouts. So, there are those kinds of links,” explained Grande.

“But there are other ones, too, that fit with a profile of concern. A horse hasn't run in 60 days. His previous race he ran second for a $50,000 tag, and now they have him entered for $12,500. And he's missed workouts. And he's gotten joint injections. Instead of being just a one-plus-one- plus-one-plus-one for risk factors, that to me is an exponential increase of risk,” said Grande.

“It's going to be a long-term process,” said Grande, describing the likely evolution of this AI system. “And you'll still need that human analysis part of it.”

Indeed, the human factor is an inescapable throughline in an issue with ample room for subjectivity. When does a horse's unusual way of going become subtle lameness? When does a necessary scratch become regulatory excess?

Regulators from across the country describe the marked culture shift of horsemanship over the past few years, from an environment where the "one more run" mentality has been pervasive to a place where trainers are now more loathe to roll the dice.

The process has been difficult, however. Ego, fear and resentment can prove a volatile cocktail. And regulatory veterinarians have often found themselves in the crosshairs of a lot of the frustrations that trainers voice as they adapt to a new regulatory world.

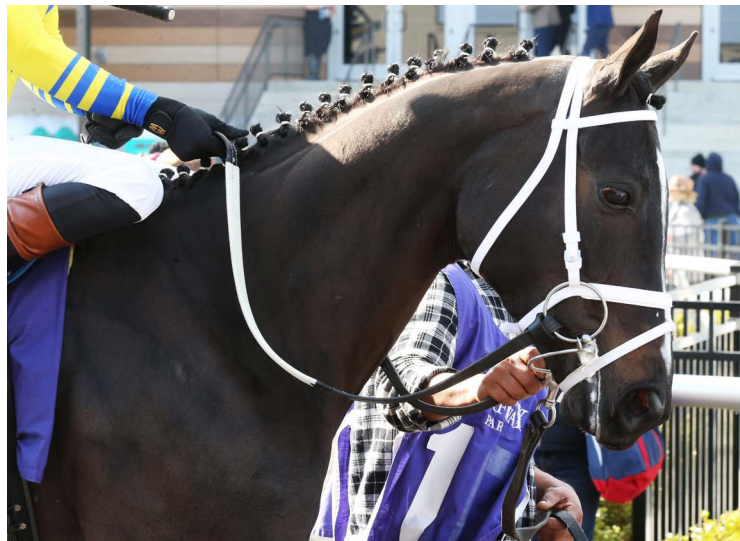

Blea pointed to “low hanging fruits” that he called “elusive.” One would be better coordination between attending and regulatory vets. “That would make things so much better,” he said.

“And then secondly, we're all doing the same thing,” said Blea. “We just need to wrap our arms around that and we all need to help each other out instead of shooting each other in the foot.”

Elite Brings Quality to Fasig-Tipton (cont. from 1)

Just two months ago, Dana's Beauty (Not This Time) co-topped the Keeneland April Horses of Racing Age Sale when selling to John Stewart's Resolute Racing for $450,000 just before winning the Ouija Board Distaff Stakes in May. The list of grads reads like a “who's who” with success still occurring daily on the track and in the breeding shed. A new group stakes its claim next week as Elite brings a diverse and quality group of horses of racing age to Fasig-Tipton Monday.

Stakes winner and Elite grad Dana's Beauty | Coady Media

“I think an important component of a HoRA consignment is variety,” said Elite's Katelyn Jackson. “We want to be able to service a wide range of buyers and give them the opportunity to inspect horses at all levels. Elite's July draft features horses with all conditions remaining, allowances horses, some are starter eligible, and we have two stakes-winning 3-year-olds. It's a really well rounded group of horses.”

Topping the group is Reasoned Analysis, a 3-year-old son of Upstart (hip 465) who provided a timely update when taking April's Listed Bay Shore Stakes at Aqueduct before out-running his odds to finish fourth behind Book'em Danno (Bucchero) in the GI Woody Stephens Stakes on the Belmont undercard at Saratoga June 8.

“Both of his lifetime best Ragozin and Thoro-Graph figures show that he has graded-stakes caliber talent within his division,” Jackson said. “As a 3-year-old dirt colt, there are a plethora of age-restricted stakes that he can target over the rest of the 2024 racing season.”

Horses on an upward trajectory are poised to be the most appealing to buyers Monday, Jackson said, noting that, while a strong pedigree never hurts, HoRA sales are all about letting track results do the talking.

“What’s most important is recency and in-form results,” she said. “Horses that come to the sale off of lifetime best speed figures or that are trending upward are generally the most well received by buyers. With that said, we do have some fillies with a bit of pedigree and some residual black type such as [Busher Stakes runner-up] Asset Purchase (Dialed In) (hip 500).”

Reasoned Analysis wins the Bay Shore | Coglianesse

Indeed, there is something for every buyer on offer as also among ELITE’s consignment are promising maidens Lake Superior (Quality Road) (hip 435), Mount Fuji (Quality Road) (hip 448), Paris Surprise (City of Light) (hip 458), Public Assembly (More Than Ready) (hip 464), Special Justice (Justify) (hip 472), Stage Presence (Speightstown) (hip 474), Strategic Decision (Good Magic) (hip 476), Tirupati (Mitole) (hip 485) and Utopian (Curlin) (hip 490).

Added to the catalog as supplements earlier this week were Ziti (Fr) (Tornado {Ire}) (hip 501), undefeated Lake Abanakee (Central Banker) (hip 503), recent maiden winner Smooching (Mendelssohn) (hip 505) and Party On Girl (Ire) (Awtaad {Ire}) (hip 512).

“The buying pool at [this] sale has been quite strong in years past,” Jackson continued. “There are always domestic agents looking for horses that might fit the Del Mar ‘Ship and Win’ program and, of course, you’re also looking ahead to the lucrative purses at Kentucky Downs later this summer. There has also been excellent international participation from agents buying on behalf of Middle Eastern clients. Two of our top horses from last July [Power in Numbers and Rebellious Stage] went on to have excellent results in Saudi Arabia during their winter carnival.”

“And from a seller’s perspective, the Fasig-Tipton July HoRA sale has been a great place to trade in-form racehorses,” Jackson continued. “Owners are typically looking to capitalize on their offering’s recent results in order to make way for their incoming crop of 2-year-olds. And as a buyer, summer meets are about to kick off around the country, so it provides them the opportunity to reload their stables with in-form horses.”

The Fasig-Tipton July Selected Horses of Racing Age Sale begins Monday at 3 p.m. The following day, Fasig-Tipton hosts its July Sale of Selected Yearlings beginning at 10 a.m.

SAVE THE TREES AIMS HIGH IN DWYER

by T.D. Thornton

The outside-drawn gelding whose change-of-plans entry made it a foursome in Saturday’s GIII Dwyer S. at Aqueduct has quite a bit going for him despite being ranked as the longest shot at 4-1 on the morning line.

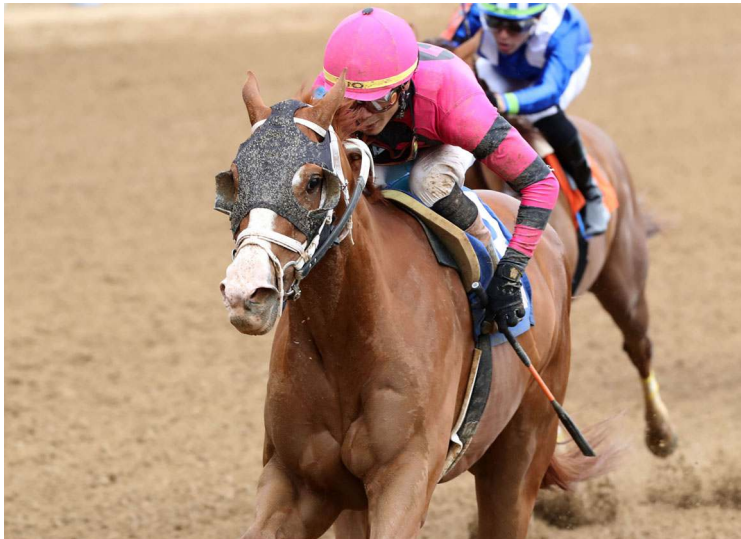

The cleverly and elegantly named Save the Trees (by Preservationist out of the Forestry mare Canopy Lane) sports a 2-for-2 record, an adversity-overcoming, off-the-pace style, and a $335,000 auction price that was third-highest at Keeneland’s Apr. 26 Horses of Racing Age (HORA) sale conducted after the final race of the spring meet.

That’s an eye-catching HORA tag for a gelding who hammered for $23,000 at KEESEP and didn’t debut until Apr. 19 of his 3-year-old year.

The chestnut with the big white blaze got no true betting support in that first career start at Keeneland 2 1/2 months ago, going off at 12-1 for trainer Wayne Mackey and the estate of Brereton C. Jones, who died last September.

The gelding had an awkward start in that six-furlong maiden allowance, was last by 15 lengths for a good portion of the trip, and still could see 'em all at the quarter pole.

But all the while Save the Trees was building serious momentum, and despite being widest off the turn and seven lengths in arrears at the eighth pole, Keeneland announcer Kurt Becker began to pick up on the wave as it crested into a winning move.

Save the Trees | Coady Media

“Save the Trees is making an incredible rally!” Becker enthused, punctuating his usually reserved race call with emphatic astonishment. “Save the Trees broke absolutely last! Passed everyone down the stretch to win for [jockey] Luan Machado!”

Machado was hand-riding Save the Trees at the end of that three-quarter length victory (74 Beyer Speed Figure). The race has since yielded three other next-out winners.

One week after that score, Airdrie Stud consigned Save the Trees to the HORA sale on behalf of the Jones estate.

Harvey Diamond, a retired Louisville physician who is the founder and racing manager for the Skychai Racing syndicate, had trainer Mike Maker submit the spare-no-expense winning bid.

“He’s a beautiful horse, and he ran just an unbelievable race to break his maiden first time out at Keeneland,” Diamond told TDN Thursday. “That was kind of a ‘Wow!’ race, and we were impressed. One of my partners just loved him so much, was going to be willing to go to whatever [price] to get him. I think he has a lot of class, and he likes to win, obviously.”

Now racing for a partnership that includes Skychai, Paradise Farms, David Staudacher, and Hot Pink Stable, Save the Trees was the 1.43-1 favorite in start number two, a $50,000 starter-allowance at Churchill Downs June 9.

Going six furlongs under Jose Ortiz, Save the Trees rated near the back and rallied into an early-speed setup with a relentless, five-wide drive. Again not fully extended under the wire, the gelding won by 2 3/4 lengths (79 Beyer).

“He stumbled out of the gate that very first race,” Diamond said. “That ended up being a key race. In his second race, he broke better out of the gate. He stayed with the field and moved when he needed to. I understand it was a field of $50,000 starters, but it was a pretty good field. The purses are pretty good there, so we get tough horses at Churchill.”

Earlier this week, Maker entered Save the Trees in the 1 1/16-miles $250,000 Iowa Derby, which is also on Saturday. But Diamond said drawing the second-outermost post in that 11-horse field made committing to the Dwyer a viable Plan B.

The Iowa Derby would have been the two-turn debut for Save the Trees. The Dwyer’s purse is $50,000 less, but it offers graded-stakes status and is a one-turn mile that might mesh better with the gelding’s progression arc considering he’s stretching out from two sprints.

“It was a case of how far you’ve got to travel, number one,” Diamond said. “Number two, we drew the 10 hole out at Prairie Meadows, and that was not the best spot to be out there. I think the Dwyer, even though it’s a very tough field, it’s only four horses, [and] favorable to be on the outside there, I guess.”

Irad Ortiz, Jr. has the mount.

The rest of the Dwyer field, in morning-line order, is the 6-5 Domestic Product (Practical Joke), who was 13th when losing a shoe and grabbing a quarter in the GI Kentucky Derby and subsequently second in the $150,000 Pegasus S.; the 8-5 Billal (Street Sense), a two-time winner who is 0-for-4 in stakes but owns the highest Beyer in the field (93); plus the 7-2 Hades (Awesome Slew), who upset the GIII Holy Bull S. back in February and was most recently third in the Pegasus.

Trained by Jose D'Angelo on behalf of Soldi Stable, the juvenile earned a trip to Royal Ascot with a win in the Royal Palm Juvenile Stakes at Gulfstream Park in his racetrack debut May 11.

Gabaldon | Lauren King

"Gabaldon is everything you look for in a racehorse," D'Angelo said. "He is fast, classy, and loves his job. His precocity and mindset make him one of the best 2-year-olds I have ever had in training. We are excited to see what the future holds for Gabaldon."

Entries for the Inglis Digital USA July Sale remain open through July 8. Bidding will open July 12 at 2 p.m. ET and will close July 17 at 2 p.m. ET at www.inglisdigitalusa.com.

NYRA CONTENT NO LONGER AVAILABLE ON TVG/FANDUEL

A contractual impasse between New York Racing Association and TVG/FanDuel will result in the elimination of all NYRA content from TVG/FanDuel wagering platforms, effective immediately, NYRA announced Thursday morning. As a result, pari-mutuel wagering and live video from the ongoing Belmont at the Big A spring/summer meet are not currently available on TVG/FanDuel.

"In its role as a not-for-profit corporation franchised by New York State, NYRA's mission is to conduct world-class racing for the benefit of the state's economy while growing the sport and creating opportunities for horsemen and breeders to compete for robust purses throughout the year," NYRA said in its announcement. "To fulfill those goals, NYRA will continue negotiations with TVG/FanDuel to increase funds flowing to the sport and its stakeholders in New York."

"NYRA provides the racing content that fuels the profits of out-of-state ADWs like TVG/FanDuel," said Tony Allevato, NYRA Chief Revenue Officer. "NYRA must prioritize the overall health of the sport and broader industry here in New York and we will continue negotiations to seek an equitable resolution so that our racing is widely available nationally."

The FanDuel Group released a statement that read, "We have not yet been able to agree to terms to renew our wagering agreement with the New York Racing Association. As a result, we will not be carrying NYRA's content starting today, Thursday, July 4th. While we hope to have this content available again soon, we cannot agree to new proposed terms that are substantially inconsistent with our prior agreements. We understand and regret that this will be an inconvenience to our customers. We have made, and will continue to make, substantial investments in horse racing and we remain very committed to our track and horsemen partners."

TVG/FanDuel has offered wagering on NYRA races since the company first launched its ADW in 2000. The FanDuel Group is the largest processor of legal sports betting and wagering on horse racing in North America.

"New York's horse owners are deeply invested in making the NYRA racing product the best in the country," said Tina Bond, President, New York Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association. "We staunchly agree that fair compensation for that investment is absolutely imperative. If the New York Thoroughbred industry thrives, we all benefit."

"NYRA is working to broaden the economic benefits flowing to New York's horse racing industry, and our membership supports these efforts in every way," said Najja Thompson, Executive Director, New York Thoroughbred Breeders. "The funds generated by ADWs carrying NYRA support breeding farms throughout the state, and we stand shoulder to shoulder with NYRA."

NYRA Bets is the official wagering platform of Belmont at the Big A. Available to horseplayers nationwide, the NYRA Bets app is available for download on iOS and Android at NYRABets.com.

In addition, wagering on the Belmont at the Big A spring/summer meet is available nationwide via Caesars Racebook, BetMGM and other advance deposit wagering platforms.

The Belmont at the Big A spring/summer meet continues through July 7 before live racing shifts upstate for the summer meet at Saratoga Race Course.

America's Day at the Races presents daily coverage and analysis of the Belmont at the Big A spring/summer meet on the networks of FOX Sports. For the complete broadcast schedule, visit <https://www.nyra.com/aqueduct/>.

WATER ISSUES FORCE ELLIS PARK TO CLOSE TO GENERAL PUBLIC

Ellis Park's opening-day card was conducted without fans Thursday after the track was closed to the general public due to water issues affecting the frontside of the racetrack and the facility remained closed Thursday night with a decision on Friday's opening still to be made.

"In the best interests of our guest experience and safety, we made the difficult decision this morning to conduct today's race card without patrons," General Manager Matt Pressley said Thursday. "I can't say enough about our staff here at Ellis Park and volunteers within the Henderson community for helping us hold live racing today. While we are disappointed to miss sharing part of opening week with our fans, we will continue to share updates and look forward to opening the track to guests again as soon as possible."

On Wednesday evening, strong storms hit the racetrack, causing a temporary power outage to the grandstand that affected the water supply. Once power was restored, the water levels were insufficient to operate the facility, which will not reopen to the public until water levels return to normal.

Stonestreet Stables' Emery inhaled pacesetting Mystic Lake in the final strides to earn her first graded victory in the GIII Victory Ride Stakes at Aqueduct Thursday. The 3-5 favorite sat off the pace as Mystic Lake was pressed by Halina's Forte through fractions of :21.72 and :44.38. Emery loomed a threat three wide approaching the lane, but Mystic Lake skipped clear and looked home free in upper stretch only to have the favorite find another gear late to get up to win by 3/4 lengths.

"Short field, I was a little worried about the pace scenario, but both the two speed horses that I thought would go wound up sitting right in front of us," said winning rider Tyler Gaffalione. "We were able to track them. When I got to the turn, I just kind of let my filly out a bit and she just kept building off of that. Coming into the stretch, the filly on the inside [Mystic Lake], she kicked home nicely, but my filly really dug in and finished the job well today. All the credit goes to [trainer] Brad [Cox] and his team."

Flavien Prat, aboard Mystic Lake, was happy with the filly's runner-up effort.

"She ran a game race," Prat said. "She is quick. She was doing well all the way around. She gave me a really good run turning for home. It would probably be as far as she wants to go. She ran well."

Emery | Susie Raisher

Emery, a first-out winner at Saratoga last August, was fourth behind champion Just F Y I (Justify) in the GI Frizette Stakes. She resurfaced with a 5 1/4-length optional claimer win at Keeneland Apr. 19 and was coming off a 3 1/2-length tally in the seven-furlong Leslie's Lady Stakes at Churchill Downs June 9.

“She has a great mind and she broke her maiden at Saratoga last year first time out and had never breezed at Saratoga,” Cox said. “She handled all of that well. I really liked her a lot, and the Frizette last year just wasn’t her day. She came out of it and had a break afterwards.

“We’ve always thought a lot of her and Stonestreet always allows you to do the right thing by the horse. Patience paid off today and we’re very proud of what she’s accomplished. We’re looking forward to hopefully going on to bigger and better things.”

Of a potential next start for Emery in the Aug. 3 GI Test S., Cox said, “It’s possible. We’ll talk it over with the Stonestreet team and watch her first and foremost. There’s a good shot she’ll be getting on a van in a few days and heading to Saratoga.”

Pedigree Notes:

Multiple stakes-winning Athena has an unraced 2-year-old filly named Athena's Secret (American Pharoah) who sold for $250,000 to Tommy Town Thoroughbreds at last year's Keeneland September sale. Stonestreet Stables purchased the mare, in foal to Improbable, for $130,000 at the 2022 Keeneland November sale. She produced a filly by the late sire last year and a filly by Good Magic this spring.

Emery's third dam, Artful Pleasure, produced Grade I winner Peeping Tom (Eagle Eyed).

Emery is the 106th worldwide graded winner for the stalwart More Than Ready, who died in 2022.

$2.4 MILLION ON OFFER AT COLONIAL DOWNS FOR VA-CERTIFIED RUNNERS

During its nine-week 2024 meet, Colonial Downs will offer more than $2.4 million in non-stakes purses to horses who are Virginia Certified and the track's first condition book features 46 Virginia-restricted races. Any horse that maintained residency in Virginia for at least a six-month consecutive period prior to Dec. 31 of its 2-year-old year qualifies.

“We often hear from owners and trainers who did not know their horse qualifies for our Virginia Restricted races,” said Gary Palmisano, Executive Director of Racing for Churchill Downs. “The rules are unique to what you find in other states in that the groundwork to become eligible is done early in a horse’s career, so horses claimed or bought at auction may in fact be eligible unbeknownst to the current connections. I would just encourage trainers and owners to double check their eligibility so that they can take advantage of this fantastic opportunity.”

To check on a horse's eligibility, click here. The list is sorted by trainer and can be searched by horse's name, dam's name and date of birth.

Created in 2016 by the Virginia Thoroughbred Association, the Virginia Certified program incentivizes horsemen to raise and train their Thoroughbreds in the Commonwealth. In a recently conducted economic study, it was found that the program has generated $86.2 million in economic benefits for the state.

“What this has done is save our industry’s infrastructure in Virginia,” said Debbie Easter, executive director of the Virginia Thoroughbred Association. “Our farms were going away. Our training centers and our farms that raise young horses were going away. We were losing veterinarians, blacksmiths, everyone you need for the horse industry. We designed this certified program with hopes of bringing 400 horses to Virginia each foal crop. It is bringing more like 800 to 900. It’s been a huge savior to our farms.”

The Virginia Certified program has awarded $14.6 million to owners since 2016. The Virginia Owner’s Purse Bonus awards owners of Virginia-bred and Virginia-sired horses a 50% purse bonus for horses finishing first through fourth in all open races. When a Virginia-Restricted horse wins an open company race, the Virginia Developer’s Purse Bonus offers up to a 25% purse bonus to that horse’s developer (the owner of the horse when it makes its first lifetime start).

“Our farms are hiring people, they’re making capital improvements, they’re able to raise their rates,” Easter said. “Virginia used to be one of the largest breeding states in the nation, but when we began this program, we were down to about 100 foals a year. In these seven years that we’ve been registering certified horses, we’ve gotten over 5,000 horses in our program. We’ve put the same amount of certified horses on farms in Virginia as the breeding program has over the last 20 years. These are the beautiful things about what we’re doing.”

Those 5,000 and counting Virginia Certified horses are eligible to enter in the Virginia Restricted races at Colonial Downs, and the purses are run for 15% more than the open company races.

Opening day at Colonial Downs is July 11.

HEADLINE NUMBERS FIRST TO LAST IN AQUEDUCT 'RISING STAR' DEBUT

Headline Numbers | Coglianese

Klaravich Stable's Headline Numbers (Gun Runner) became the latest to impress from the family of breeder Happy Alter's Withmom'sapproval (With Approval) with an effortless last-to-first victory at Belmont at Aqueduct Thursday. The 8-5 favorite, settled at the back of the field down the backstretch. She rushed up rapidly while four wide on the far turn and took charge into the lane before skipping effortlessly clear down the lane to score by 11 3/4 lengths and become the latest 'TDN Rising Star.'

Headline Numbers, a $325,000 KEESep yearling, has a 2-year-old full-brother named Strategic Focus, who was also purchased by Seth Klarman's Klaravich, which purchased him for $500,000 at last year's Keeneland September sale. Her dam, Curlin Mistress produced a colt by Authentic this year.

Curlin's Mistress is a full-sister to three-time graded stakes winner Curlin's Approval, who was bred, co-owned and trained by Alter, and a half to multiple graded-placed Apologynotaccepted (Fusaichi Pegasus), who was herself tabbed a 'TDN Rising Star' while breaking her maiden in her debut as a 5-year-old. The mare went on to finish second in the 2017 GII Fleur de Lis S. among three graded placings.

Curlin's Approval was represented by a $1-million Into Mischief filly at the 2022 Fasig-Tipton Saratoga sale and by a $725,000 Into Mischief colt at last year's Keeneland September sale.

Alter bred and campaigned Headline Number's second dam Withmom'sapproval, as well as third dam Wonderful Mom.

Mouffy | Susie Raisher

The well-traveled Mouffy, who was appearing at her ninth different race track, scored her first win since last August in the Ellis Park Turf Stakes. During a productive winter, she garnered graded placings over Santa Anita's turf course. Last raced at Churchill Downs on May 3, she produced a rare sub par performance when eighth, despite being sent off at 4-1, over a rain-softened turf course in the GIII Modesty Stakes. Training forwardly for her return over Keeneland's main track, she faced a quartet of foes on Aqueduct's firm turf and was sent off as the even money favorite. Rating kindly for jockey Frankie Dettori, who was riding her for the third consecutive time, Mouffy bided her time behind a solid pace set by the 9-1 Moonage Daydream (Candy Ride {Arg}) in :23.23, :47.66 and 1:12.03. Swung four-wide for the stretch run, she displayed a good turn of foot to get past Lady Beth in the final furlong and found enough to hold the belated bid of Midnight Mile safe.

"From a pace scenario, that was exactly what we were hoping for," said trainer Jonathan Thomas. "[Dettori] rode her to perfection like he does, and I'm just thrilled with the result. It looked like the ground might have slipped out from her a little bit [at the top of the stretch]--I think it's pretty dry."

Thomas was also quick to give credit to the racing office.

"I have to give credit to Andrew Byrnes [NYRA stakes coordinator]. He called me last week and said this would be a nice spot for her, so I appreciate it."

Mouffy is a daughter of the GSP Truly Together, who won three of her six career starts for George Strawbridge's Augustin Stables. Her second dam was the MGISW Forever Together ($2,957,639), winner of the GI Breeders' Cup Filly and Mare Turf in 2008 and that season's champion turf mare. Truly Together has an unnamed yearling filly by Quality Road and recently had a Constitution colt.

Also Ran: Barksdale, Chryso Alogo. Scratched: Alwaysintomischief, Joe Shiesty, Vote No.

Bear River, looking for his third straight win, went wire-to-wire to earn the first stakes win of his career. The chestnut broke sharply from his rail draw and grabbed the early lead. Pressed through a quarter in :22.10, he was headed by favored Barksdale (Street Sense) on the bend, but regained the lead into the stretch. He pulled away with a furlong to run and remained clear to the wire despite drifting late.

CATCH A WAVE (c, 3, Curlin--Harmonize {GISW, $827,860}, by Scat Daddy) came away a narrow winner in his debut going 1 1/16-miles at Tampa in March before closing to be a close-up third in a 1 3/16-mile allowance at Keeneland Apr. 26. Stretching to 11 furlongs for his latest over this course May 27, the colt came home an even fourth. Getting blinkers off for this return over course and trip, the 9-5 choice settled in sixth from his wide berth as Indianquest (Nyquist) cut out an initial quarter in :22.42. Drafting wide through a :49.58 half, the colt continued to bide his time in an improved third down the backstretch. With Brees (Flatter) kicking clear exiting the backstretch, Catch a Wave launched his own move and gradually closed in on the free-running front runner. Taking aim down the center of the stretch, Catch a Wave overtook the pacesetter midstretch and gained the bob at the wire. The victory marked the fifth victory on the afternoon for jockey Flavien Prat. The half to MGSW & GISP Integration (Quality Road, $606,800), is out of GI Del Mar Oaks heroine Harmonize. The 11-year-old mare is also responsible for a juvenile filly by Nyquist and a yearling colt by Gun Runner. She produced a Flightline filly earlier this term. THE NEW MILLION: FROM ARLINGTON TO COLONIAL DOWNS

Set Piece en route to winning last year's Arlington Million at Colonial Downs | Coady Photography

By Bob Nastanovich

In 1981, Arlington Park's president Joe Joyce created the Arlington Million, a mile-and-a-quarter race on turf intended to raise the focus on Chicago racing. Soon after, in 1983, highly-decorated U.S. Army WWII veteran and businessman Richard L Duchossois purchased the track and substantially raised its profile.

At the time, European-based racing connections were mostly strangers to American shores. Aside from the successful exploits of American oil company executive Nelson Bunker Hunt and his illustrious France-based trainer Maurice Zilber, European racehorses had cut little ice Stateside since 1969, the year in which trainer Bernard van Cutsem sent Karabas over from Newmarket to take the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Park.

When the third-ever Arlington Million was run in the summer of 1983, the new hallmark of Chicago racing and Duchossois's first at the helm had the third-richest purse in all of racing and featured the legendary U.S. turf champ John Henry, an eight-year-old who had won the inaugural Million two years previously. JAPAN CUP AMONG AUGUSTE RODIN OPTIONS, LEAVING CLASSIC TEST TO CITY OF TROY

The G1 Japan Cup at Tokyo Racecourse on Sunday, November 24 has been identified as a potential end-of-season target for Auguste Rodin (Ire) after he got his four-year-old campaign back on track with victory in the G1 Prince Of Wales's Stakes at Royal Ascot.

A four-time winner at the top level as a three-year-old when landing the Derby, Irish Derby, Irish Champion Stakes and Breeders' Cup Turf, Auguste Rodin was unable to add to those victories in two starts earlier this year, first trailing home last in the G1 Dubai Sheema Classic at Meydan in March and then proving no match for White Birch (GB) (Ulysses {Ire}) when filling the runner-up spot in the G1 Tattersalls Gold Cup at the Curragh.

However, any concerns that Auguste Rodin's talents might be on the wane were erased at Ascot where he gained the sixth Group/Grade 1 success of his career in comfortable fashion, always doing enough to beat French raider Zarakem (Fr) (Zarak {Fr}) by three quarters of a length. Cont. p7

Tolomeo, an Irish-bred trained in Newmarket by Luca Cumani, provided a 38-1 shock to the U.S. betting public when he slipped through an opening on the far side rail under Pat Eddery to defeat the venerable John Henry by a neck.

Tolomeo's conquest of John Henry changed European viewpoints and initiated the dawning of an era of widespread international participation seeking to capture Chicago racing's biggest prizes: the Secretariat Stakes for three-year-olds, the Beverly D. Stakes for three-year-olds and older fillies and mares, and the Arlington Million for three-year-olds and up. The European influence on these races partly led to the track being renamed Arlington International Racecourse in 1989.

The Colonial Downs grandstand | Coady Photography

In 1994, Criquette Head got the ball rolling for the Beverly D. when Hatoof, who went on to be named U.S. Champion Female Turf Horse that year, defeated two-time defending U.S. Champion Flawlessly in a vintage renewal. In 1996, the John Oxx-trained Irish starlet Timarida sandwiched a Beverly D. win between Group 1 wins versus male horses in Germany and her native country. There was more to come as European-trained distaffers took the race five more times with South African-bred Crimson Palace (2004), I'm A Dreamer (2012), subsequent U.S. Champion Dank (2013), Euro Charline (2014) and Santa Barbara (2021) all prevailing.

Starting with Ciro's win in the 2000 Secretariat, Aidan O'Brien has sent a record-setting quartet of colts to win the race. That group is led by Highland Reel, who won the first of his seven Group/Grade 1s in the 2015 renewal. Cont. p4

But clearly, the showpiece was the Million, and routinely, acclaimed European runners, bolstered by generous travel incentives and the standout purse, targeted the race. Since Tolomeo's unexpected triumph, ten invaders, including representatives from England, France, Germany and Ireland, have emerged victorious in the main event.

One of those winners was the John Hammond-trained French horse Dear Doctor, who defeated a star-studded field in 1992 under an excellent ride from Cash Asmussen. In addition to defeating celebrated foes like Golden Pheasant, Exit to Nowhere, Quest for Fame, and Marquetry, Dear Doctor nosed out Sky Classic, a Canadian-bred who was later named that year's U.S. Male Turf Champion.

Recently, Hammond recalled, "It was a race I had always wanted to try and win, it had kudos and a little stardust for us Europeans. Plus, the racecourse was run by the best man in the business, Dick Duchossois."

He continued, "Dick told me that his orders to his troops were that the whole place had to be so clean that you could eat off the loo floors. It just about was. He had a sign on his desk that said, 'Do not expect what you didn't inspect.' So true."

Of his 1992 hero, Hammond said, "I was quite attached to him [Dear Doctor]. There was no bid on him as a yearling as he was a tall, gangly creature with offset knees. Curiously, he became more correct as he grew and matured. He had a wonderful turn of foot which I have always liked in horses. It

Sadly for Hammond and countless others, Arlington International Racecourse closed following its 2021 season and, soon after, the property was sold by Churchill Downs Incorporated (CDI) to the Chicago Bears who had planned to build a new football stadium there. Later, the NFL franchise shelved that idea.

CDI ran the famed trio of Arlington races at Churchill Downs in 2022 and, after acquiring Colonial Downs in 2023, made the New Kent, Virginia track their new home. This year, they'll be run on August 10. The Secretariat Stakes and Beverly D. Stakes are Grade II races with $500,000 purses, and the Arlington Million is a Grade I worth, appropriately, $1,000,000 in prize-money. The races have no nomination fee and nominations close on July 24.

CDI's executive director of racing Gary Palmisano Jr said, "The turf course at Colonial Downs is 1 1/8th miles around and nearly 180-feet wide, so it offers wide, expansive turns unlike many American tracks. Given Colonial's summertime meet, the Bermuda grass is really able to thrive and take hold, offering the horses excellent footing."

When asked about attracting European-based runners, he reported, "Colonial Downs is actively recruiting throughout Europe for horses to come compete in Virginia. We have a relationship with Adrian Beaumont and the IRB and they work hard to help spread the message of Colonial Downs. We also had a partnership with The Jockey Club and Ascot to have some two-way race programmes that offer horses competing at the highest level the opportunity to ship for these races."

Palmisano Jr concluded, "Anyone interested in nominating or discussing travel incentives can reach out to myself at Gary.Palmisano@kyderby.com."

OP/ED: TIME WILL TELL IF FLUTTER VETO IS ACTUALLY A GOOD THING FOR RACING

By John Berry

At the time, one doesn't know if a minor skirmish will turn out to have been the opening salvo in a protracted war or merely a here-today-gone-tomorrow storm in a tea-cup. Regarding British racing's latest contretemps, we can only guess what will follow; but it is likely that the unexpected decision by Flutter (the parent company of several major bookmaking firms including Paddy Power and Sky Bet) not to take bets on Wednesday's meeting at Bath is merely the start of a major shake-up of the sport's finances.

Flutter's decision ended up being reversed before racing started following contact from lawyers representing Bath's owner Arena Racing Company (ARC) so that the betting firms eventually accepted bets on the races at SP, albeit without offering their own prices.

Formerly, the main source of funding for British racing came from a levy paid by bookmakers via the Levy Board, calculated initially as a percentage of turnover and more recently as a percentage of profits. This levy remains but nowadays is dwarfed by the media rights payments which betting firms (and others) pay for showing the films of the races, the copyright of which is (contentiously) held by the racecourses rather than by those whose horses appear in the films.

There are two intermediaries who fill gap the between the racecourses and the betting firms. These arrange the deals with the bookmakers and collect the money, which they hand over to the racecourses minus whatever commission they pay for themselves. The figures are closely guarded but estimates of how much is paid per race go up as high as £35,000, although obviously the sum received by the racecourses is lower than the total paid by the betting industry. Cont. p6

In recent years, two major gripes have developed. One is held by those who provide the runners in the races, ie owners, trainers, jockeys and stable staff, who justifiably feel that too small a percentage of what the racecourses receive is allocated to prize-money. The other is held by the bookmakers, who feel that the deals which they have agreed are being constantly undermined by the dilution of the product for which they are paying. In other words, the pressure (which largely comes from racecourses) for ever more race-meetings and races, allied to a continued under-investment in prize-money, has led to an ongoing situation of more races containing smaller fields, which in turn means that the pictures which they are buying are becoming less and less useful to them. In short, the product is being diluted but the price paid for it remains the same.

On Tuesday, Flutter decided that its firms were likely to do so little business on the Bath races that it couldn't justify paying the fixed price for the pictures of the races, so it would not buy them and would not take bets on the races. ARC's lawyers intervened to point out that Flutter was contractually obligated to buy the pictures so the decision ended up being reversed, but that does not change the overall situation. The contract will in time come up for renegotiation and renewal, and Flutter's dissatisfaction remains.

What does this mean for the sport in the future? The obvious answer might be that it is bad news because it is likely to lead to reduced media rights payments which might in turn translate to reduced prize-money. However, that might not necessarily be the case.

Earlier this year, irritated by repeated calls from racing professionals for some transparency over the racecourses' use of their income from media rights payments, ARC boss Martin Cruddace, seemingly frustrated at what he saw as outsiders sticking their noses into his business and telling him how to run it, vented his frustration by saying that "the fixation on media rights is economically illiterate". That comment has not aged well because it is now apparent that media rights payments are a major concern not only among racing professionals but also among those who pay the money, ie Flutter and the other betting organisations. It is said that he who pays the piper calls the tunes, so Cruddace will not be able to keep brushing queries aside and media rights' details will not be able to be kept out of sight and out of mind indefinitely.

On Wednesday, a spokesman for Flutter stated, in answer to questions from the Racing Post, that "we (Flutter) will continue to seek innovative ways to understand how our significant investment can have the greatest impact on growing UK racing over the longer term.

"The industry needs to have a conversation about media rights given total payments from operators stand at more than double the horserace betting levy - and there is little transparency over how much of that funding flows back into this great sport."

'Horsemen' have been concerned for a long time that too many racecourses appear to have been favouring short-term profit over investment in the sport (via prize-money as well as other ways of promoting racing's long-term health) to ensure that the 'racing product' remains appealing. So far, racecourses have been able to shrug any queries aside. Now that a major payer of media rights money has come out and echoed these concerns, the matter can no longer remain unaddressed indefinitely. That may turn out to be good news for racing. Only time will tell.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

GELDINGS COMPROMISE THE PATTERN

It is time BHA race planning and the TBA conduct a review of the increasing number of pattern races won by geldings. Their findings should be presented to the International Grading and Race Planning Committee (IRPAC).

The number of stallions at stud in the UK has now decreased to an alarmingly inadequate level. The choice of sires and sire-lines available to breeders has become chronically polarised. The increasing incidence of geldings winning so many pattern races is just exacerbating an already desperate situation that breeders find themselves facing and highlights the paucity of colts/prospective stallions retiring to stud.

Geldings are undoubtedly less complicated to train than colts/full horses for too many reasons to list here. In order to encourage owners and trainers to race more colts, should they be given some sort of incentive to do so? This could either be through a greater distribution of prize-money to winning colts and less to geldings. A more complicated option, might be for geldings to carry a penalty in all pattern races to reflect an easier individual to train.

Geldings by even the most expensive stallions in Europe are of little or no long-term consequence to the breeding industry. Are there any better suggestions out there to resolve this urgent conundrum?

EUROPEAN NEWS

Connections are now looking forward to the rest of the season with the son of Deep Impact (Jpn)--the late stallion who memorably won the Japan Cup back in 2006.

Considering future targets for Auguste Rodin and star three-year-old City Of Troy (Justify), trainer Aidan O'Brien said, "They both have different options for the second half of the season and Auguste Rodin could be a Japan Cup horse.

"He has won at the Breeders' Cup already and maybe the lads might do that and maybe City Of Troy could be a horse for the Classic. They like to play all their cards differently to suit their horses and at the same time they love watching racing and going racing, so they try to spread them out."

Auguste Rodin was a notable absentee from the confirmations for Saturday's G1 Coral-Eclipse, as expected leaving the path clear for stable-mate City Of Troy as he tries to become the first Derby winner since Golden Horn (GB) in 2015 to follow up at Sandown. Instead, Auguste Rodin is likely to make his next appearance in the G1 King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes at Ascot on Saturday, July 27, despite having disappointed in the same race in 2023.

"I suppose the Eclipse did come under consideration, but the lads make the plans about what they would like to do with them," O'Brien said of the decision to miss Sandown with the four-year-old.

"Auguste Rodin won over a mile and a half last year and is an older horse. He's had three runs now and two runs before Ascot. Ascot was his first big-race target of the year we felt and there was always the possibility that if it did go well we would go back to Ascot for the King George."

Del Mar Could be City Of Troy's First Taste of Dirt

O'Brien also nominated the likeliest targets for City Of Troy during the second half of the season, with prestigious middle-distance races at York and Leopardstown among the options on the table for his next race should everything go to plan at Sandown.

"I suppose the leap after this race would have to be either the Juddmonte International [at York on Wednesday, August 21] or the Irish Champion Stakes [at Leopardstown on Saturday, September 14]," said O'Brien. "I would imagine the lads would be looking at those races, without knowing or discussing what they are thinking.

"I would hope we keep him racing in this part of the world for as long as we can and I just feel he is going to be a very important horse to European pedigrees if we can keep him to this part of the world." Cont. p8

City Of Troy | John Hoy/The Jockey Club

On the prospect of City Of Troy lining up in the GI Breeders' Classic at Del Mar on Saturday, November 2, O'Brien added, "We've had horses just beaten in the Classic before, Declaration Of War and Giant's Causeway, and they never went over for a dirt race before that. We took them to Southwell for a gallop and I know the surface has changed there now, it's Tapeta and a bit different to Polytrack.

"I would hope if the Eclipse went well, it would be another race and if we decide to go to America then maybe we give him a day out at Southwell or something. None of that is written in stone what the lads are thinking, but that's what is going on in our heads at the minute."

CITY OF TROY FACES SEVEN IN THE ECLIPSE

by Tom Frary

Ballydoyle's Derby-winning TDN Rising Star City Of Troy (Justify) will face seven rivals in Saturday's G1 Coral-Eclipse Stakes at Sandown following Thursday morning's confirmation stage. While the self-titled "clash of the generations" is missing key representation among the older brigade after it was announced that White Birch (GB) (Ulysses {Ire}) would be absent from the line-up, the four other 3-year-olds preparing to take on the long odds-on favourite include Jeff Smith's smart Ghostwriter (Ire) (Invincible Spirit {Ire}) and trainer Clive Cox is hopeful of a bold show.

"I think we are all realistic about what we saw in the Derby, which was a supreme performance," he said. "We are highly respectful of that, but we feel that a mile and a quarter at Sandown is the best route for Ghostwriter and just hope that conditions remain on the drier side." Fourth in the G1 2,000 Guineas and G1 Prix du Jockey Club, Ghostwriter may not have had his ideal conditions until now and his trainer is happy that he has the right material for this 10-furlong test. "He's a colt we've always held in high regard and he was an admirable two-year-old, when he was unbeaten and he finished off with a very good win in the Royal Lodge Stakes. I still think there's more to come," he added.

"His fourth in the Guineas was another commendable effort and that form has been franked by the Hannon colts Rosallion and Haatem. They finished just in front of him at Newmarket and have flown the flag for the Guineas since in Ireland and at Royal Ascot. We hoped he'd deal with what we thought would be just slightly easier ground in France, but the times were reflective of proper soft ground and I think it just took a little bit of his punch away from him."

Richard Kingscote will renew his partnership with Ghostwriter, while Jeff Smith also has the Andrew Balding-trained filly See

The Fire (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}). David Fish's Dancing Gemini (Ire) (Camelot {GB}), who was second in the G1 Poule d'Essai des Poulains and sixth in the Derby, re-opposes from the Roger Teal yard along with Kieran Shoemark on board for the first time. Sean Levey will ride the Brian Meehan-trained G3 Hampton Court Stakes winner Jayarebe (Fr) (Zoffany {Ire}) for Iraj Parvizi.

The field is completed by Al Riffa (Fr) (Wootton Bassett {GB}), Stay Alert (GB) (Fastnet Rock {Aus}) and City Of Troy's stablemate Hans Andersen (GB) (Frankel {GB}).

BREEDERS' CUP STAR UNQUESTIONABLE JOINS HANNON YARD

Grade I winner Unquestionable (Fr) (Wootton Bassett {GB}) has moved to the yard of Richard Hannon, according to Al Shaqab Racing's Ali Begley. The news was reported on the Nick Luck Daily podcast on Thursday morning.

The 2023 GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf victor was formerly with Aidan O'Brien at Ballydoyle. He raced for Al Shaqab, Coolmore and Westerberg until the start of the month, and now is solely raced by Al Shaqab.

"After Ascot, Sheikh Joaan has bought 100% of the horse and he has moved over to Richard Hannon's," Begley said on the podcast. "Obviously, Aidan has done brilliantly with him, but now that the Coolmore team haven't got a percentage of him, we've moved him over to Richard who is really one of our principal trainers. We've had a lot of success with him and he [Unquestionable] moved over there at the beginning of this week. Richard was excited to have him and he's just settling in there now.

"He's in every big race there is at the moment from seven furlongs to a mile and a quarter. He's got entries in all of those races." Cont. p9

She added, “The Qatar Goodwood Festival is very important to Sheikh Joaan, so it might be that he runs in something like the [G2] Lennox [Stakes on July 30], but we’ll let him settle in at Richard’s first and sit down with the team and Richard and make a plan going forward.”

At two, the son of Strawberry Lace (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) was placed at listed level at first asking before breaking his maiden second up near the end of May. He then ran second, and fourth, respectively, to Bucanero Fuerte (GB) (Wootton Bassett {GB}) in the G2 Railway Stakes and G1 Phoenix Stakes in July and August. Sent to France, he was only a length second to subsequent Classic scorer Rosallion (Ire) (Blue Point {Ire}) in the G1 Prix Jean-Luc Lagardere on Oct. 1, before regaining the winning thread at the Breeders’ Cup at Santa Anita last November. In two starts at three, Unquestionable has been fourth twice—both to Rosallion who is also trained by Hannon—in the G1 Irish 2000 Guineas, and the G1 St James’s Palace Stakes in May and June.

Hannon holds a strong hand in the 3-year-old miling division, as, besides Unquestionable and Rosallion, he also trains Haatem (Ire) (Phoenix Of Spain {Ire}), who was runner up to Rosallion in the Irish Guineas, before taking the G3 Jersey Stakes at Royal Ascot.

10-MILLION MARK REACHED FOR THIRD YEAR IN A ROW AT ARQANA’S SUMMER SALE

For the third consecutive year, Arqana’s Summer Sale broke the €10-million barrier by gross, with 326 lots (67%) marked as sold from 488 offered in Deauville.

Buyers, more selective than in 2023 when the sale boasted an 83% clearance rate, paid €10,711,000 across the three day stand. However, the 2024 catalogue was bolstered by an additional 113 horses compared to the 2023 version. The average closely tracked last year’s edition as well at €32,856 (-3%), while the median dropped 19% to €16,000. Thursday’s session, which featured breeding stock, added €1,142,500 to the overall aggregate, with 61 lots marked as sold from 89 through the ring (68%).

A pair of fillies from the Wertheimer et Frere consignment showed the way on the final day, with lot 618, the unraced Little Dreamer (Fr) (Siyouni {Fr}), knocked down to Langlais Bloodstock and Christophe Bridault for €100,000 to top the third day’s trade. A half-sister to the G3 Prix de Flore heroine and G1 Prix Vermeille third Ligne d’Or (GB) (Dansili {GB}), the 3-year-old filly is a granddaughter of fellow Flore victress Louve (Irish River {Fr}).

“She’s really magnificent and moves very well,” said Victor Langlais after signing for the relation to multiple group winner, G1 Prix Ganay second and sire Loup Breton (Ire). “She comes from a great family, she’s a daughter of Siyouni and her dam is by Galileo (Ire), a cross that works very well. She has been bought for a partnership between Philippe Thirionet and Christophe Bridault. We have always had great success with our purchases from the Wertheimers. She will be covered early next year, with the aim of selling her offspring afterwards.”

Odette Fau, bidding on behalf of Jean-Marc Angles, snapped up the second dearest lot, Eurasienne (Ire) (Frankel {GB}) (lot 609), for €85,000. A three-time starter, she is out of G1 Prix Marcel Boussac victress Indonesienne (Ire) (Muhtathir {GB}), and is a half-sister to two black-type horses led by G3 Prix d’Aumale third Bahasa (Ire) (Siyouni {Fr}).

Outside of the Wertheimer draft, Haras de la Beauvoisiniere’s Garden Of The Gods (GB) (Kingman {GB}) (lot 638) caught the eye of Witold Miedzianowski for €80,000. Cont. p10

The unraced filly is carrying her first foal by Ten Sovereigns (Ire), who sired his fourth stakes winner Usdi Atohi (Ire) in the Listed Tipperary Stakes on Wednesday. Her dam, Phaenomena (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}), is responsible for two-time Japanese Group 2 winner King Of Koji (Jpn) (Lord Kanaloa {Jpn}) and G3 Prix Cleopatre heroine Harajuku (Ire) (Deep Impact {Jpn}). Phaenomena made €720,000 through the Goffs ring last year when selling in foal to No Nay Never to Prospect Partnership during the November Sale.

Arqana chairman Olivier Delloye and managing director Freddy Powell said, "Overall sales were close to €11 million, which is a very respectable result. The market did not keep pace with the increase in supply, but good profiles sold well in all categories. We saw some good prices, such as Mambonumberfive (Fr) (Born To Sea {Ire}) (€450,000), Charlus (Ire) (Churchill {Ire}) (€315,000), the 2-year-old by Too Darn Hot (GB) out of Formidable Kitt (GB) (Invincible Spirit {Ire}) (€210,000) and the 2-year-old store by Zarak (Fr) out of Missy Tata (Fr) (Astarabad) (€155,000), to name but a few."

KHAADEM'S SISTER MOQADAMA TOPS TATTERSALLS ONLINE

The first U.S.-based horse to sell on the Tattersalls Online platform, Moqadama (Ire) (Dark Angel {Ire}) (lot 101) duly topped the July Sale, when ended on Thursday.

Andrea Brereton of Fortune Bloodstock, bidding online, secured the 6-year-old mare for 160,000gns post-sale from the consignment of Castleton Lyons for an unnamed client. In foal to 2015 American Triple Crown hero American Pharoah, the bay is a full-sister to dual G1 Queen Elizabeth II Jubilee Stakes hero Khaadem (Ire) and stakes winner Log Out Island (Ire).

"Obviously the Khaadem update was a huge positive for the family," said Brereton, who was bidding from home. "My client really loves American Pharoah and the opportunity to breed something by him also attracted us. The depth of the mare's pedigree caught our eye with a predominantly turf pedigree and the plan is to bring her back to the UK to breed from."

Added Brereton of the ease of the Tattersalls Online platform, "It gives the vendor the chance to really 'strike while the iron is hot'. With the update from Khaadem, it was such a fantastic opportunity to put her in an online sale while everyone is still buzzing off his back-to-back Group 1 victories at Royal Ascot. From a purchaser's point of view, the opportunity to see a mare like this as a standout in the catalogue allows time for that focus. It was an excellent opportunity for the market and brings another dimension to buying top quality thoroughbreds."

Sam Hawken (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) (lot 109), from Richard Hannon's East Everleigh Stables, hammered for 105,000gns on the bid of Hurworth Bloodstock. The 3-year-old son of the two-time group-placed Perfect Angel (Ire) (Dark Angel {Ire}) has a win and a placed effort from five starts. He is rated 88 on the Flat. Cont. p11

RACING TO SCHOOL COMPLETES NINTH YEAR OF UNDER STARTER'S ORDERS PROGRAMME

Stradivarius parades for local schoolchildren at the National Stud as part of the Under Starter's Orders programme | Racing to School

A group of over 300 local primary schoolchildren was welcomed to Newmarket's July Racecourse last week for the finale of the popular Under Starter's Orders programme.

The initiative, started in 2015, is an integral part of Racing to School's educational programme and is made possible through the generous support of Newmarket Racecourses, Jockey Club Estates and Godolphin.

Racing to School's programme manager Ollie McPhail said, "The raceday is a fantastic finale to the three-part programme local schools participate in and has given pupils the opportunity to apply the knowledge gained from their experiences at Dalham Hall Stud and the Horseracing Museum in a real life setting of a busy raceday. We are delighted to have completed a successful ninth year of this popular programme."

DAUGHTER OF DARYAKANA FOLLOWS IN HER STEPS AT CLAIREFONTAINE

14.50 Clairefontaine, Debutantes, €22,000, 3yo, f, 12fT
DARYLAKHA (IRE) (Lope De Vega {Ire}) arrives at Clairefontaine for her debut 15 years on almost to the day that her dam Daryakana (Fr) (Selkirk) was unveiled here in the same contest. Three months later successful in the G2 Prix de Royallieu and by the end of the year the G1 Hong Kong Vase heroine, she has since proved a stellar broodmare for The Aga Khan by producing Shamardal's G1 Prix Ganay-winning sire Dariyan (Fr), the dual graded-stakes scorer Devamani (Fr) (Dubawi {Ire}) and the G2 T.v.Zastrow Stutenpreis winner Darkaniya (Fr) (Frankel {GB}). Francis-Henri Graffard has booked Dorian Provost for the homebred, whose eight rivals include Godolphin's Moonglade (Ire) (New Approach {Ire}), an Andre Fabre-trained daughter of the G2 Rockfel Stakes winner and G1 1,000 Guineas runner-up Lucida (Ire) (Shamardal).

HOW THEY FARED

15.00 Great Yarmouth, Mdn, £9,950, 2yo, 6f 3yT

Godolphin's Shadow Of Light (GB) (Lope De Vega {Ire}), kin to dual Group 1-winning sire Earthlight (Ire) (Shamardal), shaped with promise and dominated the closing stages of this debut to register a one-length win.

16.10 Haydock, Nov, £10,000, 2yo, 7fT

Godolphin's 260,000gns Book 1 acquisition Olympus Point (Ire) (Earthlight {Ire}), a three-parts brother to last season's first-crop sire sensation Blue Point (Ire) (Shamardal), held every chance in the straight inside and lack of experience was a telling factor as he succumbed to his twice-raced stablemate Cavallo Bay (GB) (Pinatubo {Ire}) by a half-length.

HANDCUFFED (GB) (f, 2, Dark Angel {Ire}--Make Fast {GB} {MSP-Eng}, by Makfi {GB}), sent off the well-backed 13-8 favourite, travelled easily in the pack until asked to close by Oisin Murphy passing halfway. Finding the front under hands and heels with half a furlong remaining, the homebred half-sister to the G2 July Stakes winner Tactical (GB) (Toronado {Ire}) asserted to beat the Sangster-owned fellow debutante Angelica Bay (Ire) (No Nay Never) by 1 1/2 lengths. Alongside Tactical, who also captured the Listed Windsor Castle Stakes and Listed European Free Handicap, the dual listed-placed dam is also responsible for last year's Listed Ripon Two Year Old Trophy runner-up Works Of Art (Ire) (Zoffany {Ire}). A daughter of the G3 Oh So Sharp Stakes scorer Raymi Coya (Van Nistelrooy) related to the useful pattern-race performers Teresa Mendoza (Ire) (Territories {Ire}), Fayathan (Ire) (Mehmas {Ire}) and Raise You (Ire) (Lope De Vega {Ire}), her yearling colt is by Showcasing (GB) while she also has a filly foal by Cracksman (GB). Taking closer order in the long home straight, the 11-2 chance made continued headway to tackle the front rank at the quarter-mile marker and was ridden out to deny stablemate Olympus Point (Ire) (Earthlight {Ire}) by a half-length after a ding-dong duel. NEW FLOODLIGHTS, EXPANDED TURF SERIES ANNOUNCED BY BAHRAIN TURF CLUB

An expansion of the Turf Series was announced by the Bahrain Turf Club on Thursday, as well as the installation of floodlights ahead of the 2024-25 season.

The Bahrain Turf Series, which was launched in 2021, will now comprise of 12 races worth a total of $1 million, with a further $80,000 available in bonuses.

The programme will start on the later date of December 20 and run until March 7, with an additional two handicaps, each worth $100,000, set to be run at the season's finale, where the feature event is the King's Cup.

The extension of the Bahrain Turf Series means that all the premier races in the second half of the season now fall within the dates of the international programme. This makes it easier for horses to follow the path taken by last season's break-out star, Isle Of Jura (GB) (New Approach {Ire}), who graduated from Bahrain Turf Series handicaps to pattern races when winning the Crown Prince's Cup and the King's Cup, both of them holding Listed status.

His Highness Shaikh Isa Bin Salman Bin Hamad Al Khalifa, chairman of the Rashid Equestrian & Horseracing Club, said, "I am pleased to announce both an expansion of the Bahrain Turf Series and the introduction of floodlit racing, a bold initiative that will elevate the spectacle of racing in Bahrain to a new level and enable our season to continue to flourish.

"For the first time, our most prestigious races, including the Crown Prince's Cup and the King's Cup, will all fall within the Bahrain Turf Series calendar. The move, coupled with the new floodlights, provides more flexibility to the race programme, and is intended to make racing in Bahrain an even more attractive and compelling proposition to international visitors."

The 2024 running of the Kingdom's most valuable race, the $1-million G2 Bahrain International Trophy, will take place on Friday, November 15 at the Rashid Equestrian & Horseracing Club. Entries close at noon on Wednesday, October 2.

SAUDI RACING RETURNS WITH NEW 2024 TAIF SEASON

Racing in Saudi Arabia returned on Thursday with the start of the summer season from Taif. A total of 351 races will take place across 39 race meetings from King Khaled Racecourse, which has an altitude high enough to ensure cool temperatures suitable for racing during the summer months.

September's King Faisal Cup, run over 1,600 metres for Purebred Arabians, has been upgraded to international Group 3 status ahead of the new season, meaning it will be the only Group 3 for Purebred Arabians run on dirt in the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) region.

An increase in handicaps is another feature of the new campaign. There will be a total of 120 handicaps (up from 79) during the season which runs for 13 weeks until Saturday, September 28.

His Royal Highness Prince Bandar bin Khalid bin Faisal, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Equestrian Authority, said, "The King Faisal Cup being upgraded to international Group 3 status is a great success and a sign of international recognition of the strength of racing in Saudi Arabia. The Cup was created only four years ago and promoted to Listed level two years ago, so to now be an international Group 3 is impressive."

Speaking further on the developments of racing in Taif, His Highness said, "One of our strategic objectives is to improve the level of competition, so we're very pleased to have significantly increased the number of handicap races."

Former American trainer Jimmy Jerkens is also looking forward to the start of the Taif season.

"It's easier [than last season]," he said. "There are a couple of two-year-olds that have come in and there's a three-year-old that they've bought that I'm excited about, a horse called Tireless (Not This Time). He only won one race back home for [Todd] Pletcher but he was a $850,000 yearling. I think he's the ideal horse for Saudi, because he's three and he's only run four or five times. If he takes to it here, he might really be a star."
