THE SARATOGA Q AND A: DALE ROMANS

by Tim Wilkin

Trainer Dale Romans, 57, has been as much a constant at Saratoga Race Course as hand melons and chicken from Hattie's. This is the 32nd straight year that Romans has spent his summer at the Spa. He sat down with Tim Wilkin to talk about life, his disappearing waistline and his questionable choice of an actor to play him in the Dale Romans story.

TDN: You look a lot different this year. How much weight have you lost?

Dale Romans: It has taken a couple of years, but I've lost 180 pounds.

TDN: What was your maximum?

DR: It was 385. Now, I'm 205. I'll tell you when it started. I haven't told anyone this story. I got COVID and I was in the hospital in Miami in 2020. They came back with about five sheets of paper with everything that was wrong with me. A light went off. I knew I had to do something. I had a lot of friends that had gastric sleeve surgery and they were pushing me to do it. I went ahead and did it. Best thing I ever did. I feel like I'm aging in reverse.

WITH RECORD SETTER INFORMED PATRIOT, HOULIHAN BACK HOME AT TAYLOR MADE

by Katie Petrunyak

Getting Informed Patriot (Hard Spun) from Horseshoe Indianapolis to the sales ring at Fasig-Tipton in less than 48 hours was going to be quite the juggling act, but Hunter Houlihan and the rest of the Taylor Made team managed to keep all the balls in the air and then finish with a flourish when the late supplement to the Fasig-Tipton July Selected Horses of Racing Age Sale came out as a record-breaking sales topper.

The morning that Informed Patriot was set to run in the GIII Indiana Derby, Hunter Houlihan, a Thoroughbred advisor for Taylor Made Farm, shot a good luck text to owners Kirk and Judy Robison. That message was followed up with a congratulatory text a few hours later when the full-brother to GI Breeders' Cup Dirt Mile victor Spun to Run finished a well-fought third.

DR: Yup. I even started playing golf again. I wasn't able to play for 10 years.

TDN: Too heavy.

DR: That's right. Couldn't swing a club. Now, I'm playing every day. One day I played 45 holes.

TDN: Walking?

DR: (laughs). No, I won't ever get to that. I started getting healthier and the next move was to quit drinking. Quit acting like a fool all the time. In September, I went into a rehab for 12 days and have not had a drink since Sept. 25. I am the healthiest now since I was 20 years old.

TDN: If you could train one horse from history and it can't be Secretariat, who is it?

DR: Seattle Slew. I was nine years old when I went to my first Kentucky Derby and it was Seattle Slew in 1977 and I fell in love with him. When he got sick, I called the farm and wanted to go see him before he died. I went up to see him, they brought him out for me, I went to pet him, and the son of a gun bit me.

Seattle Slew bit me. One of my claims to fame. He didn't like me as much as I liked him.

TDN: Correct me if I am wrong, but I am going to say your most satisfying win ever was Keen Ice beating Triple Crown winner American Pharoah in the 2015 Travers.

DR: That is the most historic win. Miss Mindy on Feb. 15, 1988 was as excited as I have ever been. Maiden, $3,500 at Turfway Park. It was my first winner.

TDN: If there was a movie made on your life and you could pick the actor to play you, who are you picking?

DR: It used to be John Goodman. Now, it would be George Clooney.

TDN: Really.

DR: Why not? It's my movie.

TDN: If you could have dinner with three people, living or dead, who would they be?

The next morning, the Robisons called Houlihan to ask what he thought of offering Informed Patriot at the sale the following afternoon. After trainer Steve Asmussen and Mark Taylor were brought into the discussion and all were in favor, Informed Patriot was put on a van bound for Lexington by Sunday afternoon.

The biggest challenges were still ahead as Houlihan raced to get the word out on the new supplement with less than 24 hours before the sale was set to start. Meanwhile, there were still questions surrounding how the colt would vet and how he would present to buyers in the few hours of showing on Monday morning before the sale began.

"Luckily when he got off the van we all knew we were in good shape," recalled Houlihan. "He was almost dead correct. He had maybe a little more stretch to him than your typical Hard Spun, but at the same time he had that Hard Spun neck and shoulder to him. He was a very nice horse."

A nice horse with a resume to match. In addition to the 3-year-old's second graded-stake placing in the Indiana Derby, which brought his lifetime earnings to just under $350,000, Informed Patriot also earned a win in the Bathhouse Row Stakes earlier this year.

The colt was the last horse to go through the ring Monday, but there was plenty of demand waiting for him. Representing HRH Prince Saud bin Salman Abdulaziz, agent Ibrahim Rachid won out with a $1.55 million bid-- a record figure at the July Sale.

"We knew that we had a couple of people locked onto him going into the ring, but we never thought $1.55 million," said Houlihan. "That was huge. We were on the phone with Kirk and Judy afterwards and they were over the moon."

The successful sale was a victory in more ways than one for Hunter Houlihan, who started working for Taylor Made in 2006 and, after a brief hiatus away from the farm for several years, has just recently returned to his role as Thoroughbred advisor.

A native of Winchester, Kentucky, Houlihan got his start in horse racing as a college student working part-time as a translator for the track chaplain at Keeneland.

As a 20-year-old spending his afternoons playing ping-pong in the jocks' room with the likes of Jerry Bailey and other famed riders, it wasn't long before Houlihan was hooked.

After a stint working at the track for D. Wayne Lukas, Houlihan got his foot in the door at Taylor Made in 2006 as an office runner. He spent the next decade with the farm, eventually working his way up to Director of Research and then Thoroughbred advisor.

In 2017, he stepped down at Taylor Made to take on a different role within in the Thoroughbred business, but left soon after when COVID hit. In 2021, he reached out to Taylor Made about rejoining their operation. He started out in his former position as the Director of Research, but eventually returned to the role of Thoroughbred advisor in April of this year.

For Houlihan, returning to Taylor Made was like coming home. "One of our mottos is, 'With us, you're family' and you just really feel that," he explained. "It's a family feeling in the office. The Taylor and the Payne families are some phenomenal people to work with and to work for. Any time anybody needs literally anything, the whole team is there."

Houlihan enjoyed plenty of success over his early years at Taylor Made. Through his relationship with King of Prussia Stable's Ed Stanco, he was responsible for bringing in 2013 GI Kentucky Oaks victress Princess of Sylmar (Majestic Warrior), who sold for $3.1 million with Taylor Made at the 2014 Fasig-Tipton November Sale.

Even though he wasn't gone for all that long, when Houlihan returned to the same role at Taylor Made after a seven-year hiatus, he had to learn to adjust to the market's ever-increasing demand for recent form. Informed Patriot's swift turnaround from the track to the sales ring was just the latest example.

"I think the difference now is I'm literally hunting every day instead of during different seasons," he said. "It's less of a seasonal kind of sales cycle and now we are all hunting every day. The landscape has undoubtedly changed. It is 1,000% a different beast. Everything is so 'now' and everything can be done so quickly.

"If you factor in these Fasig-Tipton Digital sales, there's basically one every month now. Racehorses are trading at an all-time high. You can now turn them over every month. Especially with companies like Fasig-Tipton or Keeneland that are so willing to work with you, when you do get a big update and you can get a horse in so late to the sales, people are paying a premium for horses with recent form that they think can go on. If we have a client's horse run big, we say hey, strike while the iron is hot."

SAVVY SHOPPER MCPEEK KEEPS FINDING TOP-LEVEL WINNERS

by Mike Kane

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. - Minutes after trainer Kenny McPeek signed the $40,000 purchase ticket for a yearling filly sired by Fast Anna (Medaglia d'Oro) he told its breeder, Judy Hicks, that he would earn $1 million with her.

Turns out that McPeek was right with his bold prediction about his now 3-year-old star, who was eventually named Thorpedo Anna. With five wins and a second in six career starts, the daughter of the Uncle Mo mare Sataves, has already earned $1,705,663. Most of that purse money came from victories in the GI Kentucky Oaks and the GI Acorn that carried her to leadership of her division and into the top 10 of the NTRA's weekly national poll.

She will be the heavy favorite to add to her bankroll Saturday in the $500,000 GI Coaching Club American Oaks at Saratoga Race Course.

Thorpedo Anna gave McPeek, 61, his first victory in the Kentucky Oaks. The next day, Mystik Dan (Goldencents) delivered him his first GI Kentucky Derby win. He is the first trainer to sweep both races in the same year since Hall of Famer Ben Jones in 1952.

McPeek has longstanding reputation for identifying prospects at sales and acquiring them at bargain prices. He purchased 10 of the 14 millionaires he has trained at public auction. The most expensive was Tiz the Bomb (Hit It a Bomb), who sold for $330,000, while McPeek's first national standout, 1995 GI Kentucky Derby runner-up Tejano Run (Tejano), cost $20,000 and earned $1,66,842. He bought GI Preakness winner and champion Swiss Skydiver (Daredevil) for $35,000. She earned $2,216,480 on the track and sold for $4.2 million as a broodmare prospect.

Though he did not train them, McPeek bought two-time Horse of the Year and top sire Curlin (Smart Strike) for $57,000, Einstein (Brz) (Spend a Buck), who earned $2,945,238, for $50,000 and four-time Grade I winner Casa Creed (Jimmy Creed) for $105,000.

Thorpedo Anna drew McPeek's attention at the 2022 Fasig-Tipton Kentucky Fall Yearling Sale. She was Hip #20 on the first day of the sale, Oct. 24.

"I just thought that physically she was a beast," he said. "Other than maybe she's a little offset in one leg, she's gorgeous."

While McPeek focuses on appearance over pedigree, he said that Thorpedo Anna sold for a very moderate price for a championship-caliber Thoroughbred due to her breeding.

"That was because of the sire. Fast Anna hadn't produced anything," he said. "She's just another level of anything he's ever produced. But she really looks like an Uncle Mo. She's out of an Uncle Mo mare. That's the difference."

Grade I-placed Fast Anna sired five crops before he was euthanized in 2021 due to the effects of laminitis.

Hicks thought so much of the filly that she foaled and raised at her Brookstown Farm that she approached McPeek at the sale and asked if she could buy into the partnership. He agreed and she is a co-owner with Brookdale Racing, Mark Edwards and Magdalena Racing, which is operated by McPeek's wife, Sherri. McPeek's confidence level in his ability to pick out horses at auction prompted him to change his business model.

"Today, I no longer charge commission. I get 10% equity at the hammer," he said. "My reward only comes if I buy a good horse. Otherwise, I'm paying bills like the other 90%."

After graduating from the University of Kentucky with a degree in business administration, McPeek took out his training license in 1985. His first winner was a horse owned by his father. Six years later, he saddled his first stakes winner. Out of necessity, he taught himself how to scout for talent.

"I didn't have a lot to work with in the beginning, so I created a system to sort them and I still use the same system today," he said. "I don't do anything different than when Roy Monroe gave me a $6,000 budget because I found that if you squeeze them down and you focus in on the athlete the pedigree doesn't matter. When they head to the winner's circle nobody was saying, 'Oh, that one doesn't have any page.' It doesn't matter."

McPeek bought Tejano Run in 1993 for Monroe. The colt secured the trainer's first two graded stakes wins the next year and finished 2 1/4 lengths behind Thunder Gulch (Gulch) in the Derby. In 2000 with She's a Devil Due (Devil His Due), McPeek picked up the first of his five Alcibiades wins, all with fillies he purchased at auction. That summer, he made what he considers one of the most important buys of his career: Take Charge Lady (Dehere) for $175,000.

"Take Charge Lady had no black type in her first three dams when I bought her," he said. "Today, she is a Blue Hen. So, you're trying to beat the market to the punch. You want to buy before that mare gets hot or that family gets hot. That's really what I'm trying to do, beat the market to the punch."

*Grade I winner

Note: Some in this group were handled by other trainers, but McPeek selected them for owners he was representing.

During her career Take Charge Lady won 11 of 22 starts, earning $2,480,347 in purse money. She sold for $4.2 million as a broodmare in foal to Seeking the Gold. The resulting foal was Charming, who later produced Grade I millionaires Take Charge Brandi and Omaha Beach. Two of her other foals were Grade I winners Will Take Charge (Unbridled's Song) and Take Charge Indy (A.P. Indy).

In the Take Charge Lady years, he also had the graded stakes winners Repent and Harlan's Holiday in his care.

In 2005, McPeek stepped away from training and his assistant Helen Pitts took over the stable. One of the yearlings he purchased at the Keeneland September sale that year as a bloodstock agent was Curlin. The colt started his career with Pitts, but was purchased and turned over to Steve Asmussen. He earned over $10 million at the races and has had a long run as top sire. McPeek believed what his eyes told him and picked the colt up for a pittance.

"Curlin had the body of a Greek god," McPeek said. "When he walked out as a yearling, he looked like a 4-year-old. The only thing is, is he had an ankle on him the size of a grapefruit. His left front ankle. He'd had surgery and the surgery site had gotten infected and inflamed. He was almost unpresentable as a yearling. But everything else was there, so you bought him just because you thought you could deal with the ankle. In time the ankle was fine. But he was just a complete Greek god as a yearling."

McPeek ranks Rattle N Roll (Connect) as an important buy at $210,000 in 2019. He has won seven stakes, five of them graded, and earned $1,732,141 for Lucky Seven Stable. Despite his rise to prominence as a trainer who has won all three of the Triple Crown races and a total of 27 Grade I's, McPeek has not wavered from his approach to the sales.

"I work an auction with a clear mind. I don't even look at the book," he said. "I just look at horses. If a horse is bringing more than I think it's worth then I will walk away because you've got to have some return on investment for people. The ones that fall through for the modest prices that I think are the physicals then we snatch all those up. Then we will do it again. Same pattern."

McPeek laughed as he described how his investors react when he is buying horses at auctions.

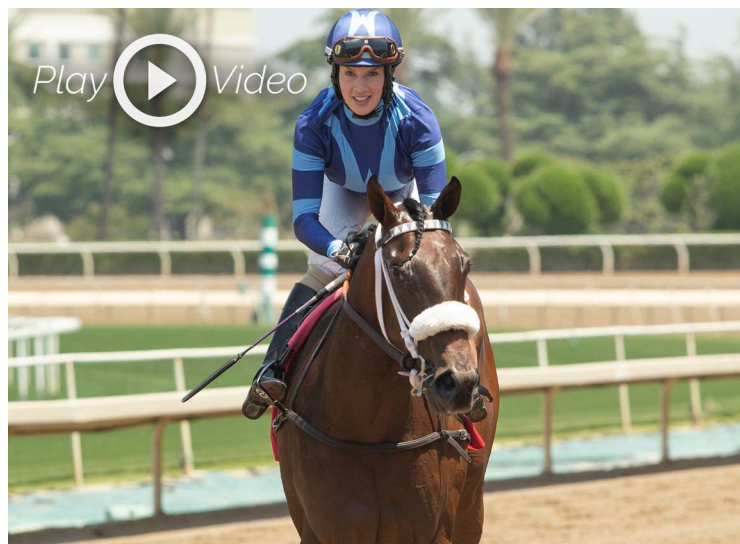

"Any time that I sign a ticket for probably under $100,000, my phone blows up." he said. "I've got a great base of clients. Some wonderful people."

McPeek said his process of shopping for value while searching for graded-stakes bodies, is something of a chess match.

"Of course, if I spend a client's money wisely, they're more likely to buy more," he said. "We all know it's a very difficult game."

THE BORN IDENTITY: 'BREAK THEM TO BE HORSES NOT RACEHORSES' by J.N. Campbell

Rider Emily Ellingwood straightened Night Beacon (Spun to Run) for her stretch run, then banked the young filly for the gallop out. All the while she allowed her mount--who moved like a western pleasure horse--to feel the ground beneath her during what was becoming a regular workout late in 2023.

But it wasn't a nicely-groomed all-weather surface the pair were traveling over. No, the terrain was undulating and severe. Among the flora was fauna which included snakes and coyotes. There's no renovation break amid the rock and earth here. True, the harrowed dirt of Arcadia was not far off as the crow flies, but it seemed a world away.

Night Beacon's training track at Whittier Narrows near Los Angeles, California, with its ravines and embankments, was therefore something different.

Having a yearling start a career in this fashion is all part of trainer Ryan Hanson's plan--a forward-thinking memo regarding a horse's born identity.

"The idea is simple," Hanson said. "What we need to be doing is break them to be horses, not racehorses."

Conventional wisdom in the 21st century tells the postmodern trainer that they should begin to put a saddle on a yearling in the early fall and then proceed to teach them about the rigors of daily life around the oval and in the stable.

Sure, turning them out into a field, watching their every move while they're in their stalls and seeing to their needs becomes part and parcel of the rhythms of everyday life.

Clocking times and the coming of the 2-year-old sales become like sand through an hourglass as the calendar flips.

Under these old methods, plans for life events like becoming an off-track Thoroughbred (OTTB) can be procrastinated and are an impediment to progress. And so it goes, why think about the distant future when the target is the track and then ultimately the breeding shed?

Channeling the film Jerry Maguire--fewer clients, more personal attention--Hanson's own training memo tries to look beyond a Thoroughbred's current condition in the here and now. He and his team are about building blocks, which if constructed properly, have a major influence on the life of a horse after their racing career is over.

"We used to go with a plan, but what we learned is that they are around the track all the time," he said. "Going to a place like Whittier Narrows allows them to grow and mature at their pace, instead of ours."

Hanson's approach to breaking a horse, how to 'condition' them and finally get them to the track could have a reverberative effect on the sport. His unique take could also be the key to building soundness and longevity.

First though, you should know that Hanson operates a stable of roughly 40 head and competes primarily at Santa Anita, Los Alamitos and Del Mar. You probably have heard of his wife,

Night Beacon at Whittier Narrows | Michelle Yu

Michelle Yu, who is prominent on several networks providing handicapping analysis and interviews. She's an accomplished horseman in her own right and, just like Ellingwood, integral to the operation.

"Michelle is really the boss of this outfit," said Hanson. "We do everything ourselves and it is a sun-up to sundown effort, which never stops. Christmas Day, holidays, we are just in constant motion, but there just is nothing like a nice day and being with these horses."

Hanson, who is a fourth-generation horseman originally from Idaho, has spent his whole life around equine athletes. His story is distinctive because he might be the only Thoroughbred trainer in North America to first be a champion chariot racer. You aren't going to find this ambitious and hard-working fellow in a three-piece suit gabbing with the clients. His uniform, as he describes it, is dirty blue jeans paired with a ball cap. He can steer a Thoroughbred as well as anybody and his parents instilled in him a work ethic that shows.

"My parents taught hard work, and that is what Michelle and I are all about," he said.

Hanson's program places a strong emphasis on the horse getting to be just that, a horse.

When yearlings are sent to him, they don't go to the track immediately, rather, he specifically keeps them away in order to foster some important qualities. It is a deposit on their future.

The breaking of Night Beacon is a case in point. Yu suggested to the owner of WSS Racing, Bill Simon, that he find a son or daughter by Gainesway freshman sire Spun to Run (by Hard Spun). Out of Stormandaprayer, Night Beacon was selected by Jared Hughes for Simon and taken home for $45,000 at the 2023 Keeneland January Sale. The short yearling filly was then turned out in Kentucky through the summer before she headed to Hanson in California that September. Her breaking in a corral went smoothly.

“She was a pleasure to break and we started her from the ground, line drove her,” said the trainer. “By mid-November she was being ridden every day with a western saddle and Emily [Ellingwood] helped guide her over logs and sometimes we would go two at a time, while sometimes it's just a single.”

Built like a competitive trail event for an OTTB, Hanson's module is more like a Montessori school where each pupil is an individual. Paths of varying degrees of difficulty allow horses to build different strengths in their legs. Hanson, Yu and Ellingwood rotate mounts, especially if one in the string needs some special attention.

When she was ready, Night Beacon took to the river bottoms, went knee deep into water and learned to pick up her feet on the trails at Whittier. The course which is about a mile and a half includes deep sand at different junctures and is coupled with steeper points, which provide a nice set of challenges.

“She's [Night Beacon] just one of those fillies who never missed a beat, never needed to slow down and was always training forward,” Hanson said.

The trainee became comfortable in her own skin, so when it was time to transition to the track at Santa Anita, the process was a smooth one in late February.

Ellingwood took Night Beacon for her first registered workout going a furlong Mar. 9. Regular drills followed and the juvenile broke her maiden on debut by 2 3/4 lengths going 4 1/2 furlongs with her regular rider aboard in Arcadia May 10, which handed her first-crop sire his first winner of his career.

“Night Beacon has always been a pack leader,” said Ellingwood. “I always enjoy breaking babies and working with them before they head to the track. Taking them on the Whittier trails allows them to develop a natural confidence as they experience different surfaces. I think that it definitely helps with their development. I even own one who was trained like this and they had such a great foundation for their next job in life.”

Since her graduation, Night Beacon has set her sights on the GIII Sorrento Stakes at Del Mar Aug. 10. Her works have continued to be steady and to form. No matter what the filly accomplishes on the track, Hanson has instilled in the daughter of Spun to Run skills that will last the rest of her life.

“You have to have a ton of patience to do this kind of training, but it's our responsibility to let them be horses first,” Hanson said.

There is nothing easy when it comes to breaking yearlings and preparing them to race or for the auction ring. With aftercare and an OTTB's future in mind though, Ryan Hanson and his team are committed to letting a horse be a horse.

When it does come time for them to retire from the track, the foundation is ready for them as they begin to adjust to their next career. That is why breaking them to be horses and training them on the trails allows their born identity to flourish.

PREAKNESS WINNER SEIZE THE GREY CONFIRMED FOR THE JIM DANDY

Seize the Grey | Sarah Andrew

Over the course of the past week, D. Wayne Lukas had indicated that it was very likely that GI Preakness winner Seize the Grey (Arrogate) would stay put and run in the GII Jim Dandy Stakes at Saratoga July 27 rather than ship to the Jersey Shore for Monmouth's GI Haskell Stakes one week earlier. Gainesway Farm announced that it had secured the breeding rights in the Classic winner last week.

“Since the breeding rights have gotten involved with this horse, there’s so much more involvement in far as the bonus’s and incentives are concerned, so the Jim Dandy and Travers makes more sense,” Lukas told DRF Tuesday. “And we don’t have to travel. I kind of like that too.”

In his penultimate move prior to next week’s Jim Dandy, the grey worked six furlongs in 1:11.90 over Saratoga’s main track Tuesday. In his latest start, the colt finished seventh in the GI Belmont Stakes at Saratoga June 8.

“I didn’t care too much for the way he ran on the main track in the Belmont,” Lukas told DRF. “They tell me it was a lot deeper and looser that day, but it’s much tighter now that they got the water in it. So I was really pleased to see the way he moved over the track today. His action over it this morning was excellent.”

He added, “Anytime you break 1:12, that’s serious. Especially in the morning with an exercise rider. We were pleased. I think we got what we needed. We’ll get another work in at Oklahoma before the Jim Dandy and move forward off of this. I feel good about it.”

NYRA BETS TO MANAGE NEW JERSEY HORSE RACING ONLINE AND MOBILE SYSTEM

NYRA Bets will act as the managing vendor of New Jersey’s online and mobile pari-mutuel account wagering system for horse racing under an agreement signed by Darby Development, acting as agent of the New Jersey Sports & Exposition Authority.

Under the agreement, all account wagering platforms will have the opportunity to enter the New Jersey market, provided those entities gain the approval of NYRA Bets, Darby Development and the New Jersey Horse Racing Commission. As a result, New Jersey residents will soon be able to choose among multiple account wagering platforms.

“This is a win for the patrons in New Jersey, allowing them to have choices for the first time as to which site they prefer to wager with,” said Dennis Drazin, Chairman and CEO of Darby Development. “It’s another step in our ongoing effort to make the racing experience in New Jersey as fan-friendly as we possibly can.”

Pending the approval of the New Jersey Racing Commission, NYRA Bets will coordinate with online/mobile/sportsbook operators to establish a launch date later this year.

“We are pleased to usher in a new era for horseplayers in New Jersey,” said Tony Allevalo, President of NYRA Bets. “As the sports betting market continues its rapid evolution, the expansion of NYRA Bets into New Jersey will benefit consumers by increasing competition. It’s a win for New Jersey, for horse racing and for NYRA Bets.”

NYRA Bets is the official advance deposit wagering platform of the New York Racing Association. Launched as a national ADW in 2016 and currently available to customers in 36 states, NYRA Bets provides fans the opportunity to wager on tracks worldwide from anywhere at any time. The NYRA Bets app is available for download today on iOS and Android at NYRABets.com. Darby Development is the operator of Monmouth Park, as well as the OTWs in Hillsborough and Woodbridge. 4NJBets, operated by TVG, will continue as an online and mobile wagering site in New Jersey as usual without disruption of service.

NYTHA CONTRIBUTES $25K TO SUPPORT CORNELL EQUINE

The New York Thoroughbred Horsemen’s Association (NYTHA) has made a contribution of $25,000 to support the development of Cornell Equine. The cross-campus program, rooted in Cornell University’s scientific research clinical care and education, and based at the Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine, aims to advance equine health and education through enhanced collaboration amongst interdisciplinary teams.

“We are so grateful for the support of NYTHA in helping us bring Cornell Equine to fruition,” says Dr. Mandi de Mestre, professor of equine medicine with the Baker Institute for Animal Health and Department of Biomedical Sciences, College of Veterinary Medicine. “This gift will support us to take the first steps in leveraging the exceptional breadth of skills of leading Cornell faculty to tackle novel research questions in equine health and safety and build leadership capacity for the future.”

“A coordinated equine program will also bolster the University’s efforts to recruit and retain the best veterinary students into equine practice through enhanced and coordinated access to educational opportunities, faculty support, and industry.”

Tina Marie Bond, president of NYTHA, added, “The College of Veterinary Medicine has a long-standing history of driving research and clinical results that have had lasting impact on the Thoroughbred industry and equine health and care. We are pleased to be able to support the college as it builds upon this legacy.”

The gift will support Cornell Equine’s first phase of development, in which a new, two-way communication platform will be launched to invite horse owners, trainers and veterinarians to discuss their most pressing issues, ultimately guiding future research and education programs. The platform will enhance dissemination of research results to deliver benefits nationally to equine management and clinical services. This initial phase of the initiative is underway, and it is anticipated to be available to the equine field at large by the summer of 2025.

IN ORDER OF PURSE:

1st-Horseshoe Indianapolis, $39,680, Msw, 7-16, 2yo, f, 5f, :58.71, gd, 5 lengths.

DON'T MISS OUT (f, 2, Gormley--Nitta Yuma, by Quality Road) was adding blinkers here following a runner-up effort over a sloppy track and trip in her July 5 debut. The 3-1 shot broke sharply from her outside post and bore in, jostling rivals to her inside, including favored Winter Waves (Frosted) who was shuffled back to last. Don't Miss Out quickly opened a clear advantage while taking the field through an opening quarter in :22.45. She extended her advantage down the lane and won by five lengths. Seven Anns (Coal Front) closed for second.

Winter Wave never got on track after the troubled beginning and checked in sixth. Fernando De La Cruz, aboard the beaten favorite, lodged an objection against the winner, but the stewards made no changes.

Nitta Yuma has a yearling colt by Elnaawi and a weanling filly by Shagaf. Co-breeder Bruce Murphy purchased the mare, with Don't Miss Out in utero, for $9,500 at the 2022 Keeneland January sale. Click for the Equibase.com chart. Lifetime Record: 2-1-1-0, $34,080.

6th-Horseshoe Indianapolis, $32,000, Msw, 7-16, 3yo/up, 6f, 1:10.39, gd, 1 1/4 lengths.

METALHEAD (g, 3, Tonalist--Danzig Girl, by Hard Spun), sent off at 6-1, was outfooted in the early going as a pair of rivals battled through an opening quarter in :21.90. The dark bay gelding rallied three wide approaching the stretch as the half went up in :44.72 and reeled in pacesetter Sweet as Sin (Candy Ride {Arg}) in deep stretch before pulling away to score by 1 1/4 lengths.

Metalhead was a $150,000 Keeneland September yearling purchase by the Lothenbach Stables of the late Bob Lothenbach last fall and was purchased for $26,000 at the Fasig-Tipton Digital Lothenbach Dispersal of Horses of Racing Age Sale in February. Danzig Girl has a 2-year-old filly by American Freedom, who sold for $19,000 at the Fasig-Tipton Midlantic May sale, and a yearling colt by Tacitus. She was bred to Speaker's Corner last year. The winner's third dam is multiple Grade I winner Jersey Girl (Belong to Me). Click for the Equibase.com chart. Lifetime Record: 1-1-0-0, $19,200. MEET THE FRENCH-BASED IRISHMAN GUNNING FOR IRISH OAKS GLORY

Gavin Hernon: bidding for Irish Oaks glory with Dare To Dream
Scoop Dyga

By Brian Sheerin

The irony is not lost on Gavin Hernon. Less than a decade after he elected to launch his training career in France rather than his home country in favour of more opportunities, the Irishman will return to home soil to at the Curragh on Saturday with leading claims of making the Classic breakthrough when his star filly Dare To Dream (Fr) (Camelot {GB}) lines out in the Juddmonte Irish Oaks.

Described by the soon-to-be 32-year-old trainer as the best horse he's ever had through his hands, Dare To Dream has been trained with the Curragh Classic in mind for the guts of a year now.

The daughter of Camelot boasts course experience after finishing third in the G3 Staffordstown Stakes at two and, following a luckless fifth in the Prix de Diane at Chantilly when last seen, Dare To Dream can be backed at odds of 8-1 for the Group 1 contest.

"She's in flying form--I don't think I've had her this well all year," Hernon said. "Now it's just a question as to whether she is good enough but I think she has some pretty solid formlines to her name. I think she has been crying out for a-mile-and-a-half and was just unlucky in the Prix de Diane where she got trapped down the rail." Cont. p3

MAKING WAVES: SHAMARDAL'S AMERICAN LEGACY

by Heather Anderson

In this series, the TDN takes a look at notable successes of European-based sires in North America. This column is highlighted by the victory of Godolphin's Cinderella's Dream in the Belmont Oaks.

Slipper Fits For Godolphin Miss

Flawless in her first four starts in England and Dubai prior to a seventh in the G1 QIPCO 1000 Guineas, Cinderella's Dream (GB) (Shamardal) handed breeder Godolphin and Charlie Appleby a victory in the GI Belmont Oaks Invitational Stakes during the final days of the Belmont at the Big A meeting (video).

The winner of the Jumeirah 1000 Guineas at Meydan in March, the bay is the second foal out of the late Espadrille (GB) (Dubawi {Ire}), whose latest produce is the juvenile filly Blue Laced (GB) (Farhh {GB}). Cont. p5

"Alexis [Pouchin, jockey] thinks that she'd have been in the first four at least had she not met the traffic," Hernon added. "We go there crossing our fingers and hoping for a big run.

We're excited about her chances and I do think she has taken a good step forward from the last day. That seems to be quite typical of this pedigree as well--they seem to just get better and better throughout their three-year-old careers."

Not only has the Chantilly-based handler done a fine job in nurturing Dare To Dream's talent, but Hernon can also be credited for sourcing the filly for just €67,000 at the Arqana October Yearling Sale from leading vendor Monceaux.

Recalling that transaction, he said, "Her owner, Dun Lee, used to have a mare in Normandie. He would send me that mare's progeny every year but all they had to do was have a look at the gallop before they'd run into problems. I asked him if he would let me buy him a foundation mare instead and, with this filly's pedigree, sire and physique, I thought she fit the bill quite nicely. She was quite an athletic-looking filly as a yearling. She wasn't one of those bigger Camelot models, she was very athletic with a good hip.

"We took our chance and she showed us that she had a lot of class from the get-go. I probably could have run her in May or June as a two-year-old but we gave her the extra time and ran her in August just because the Montjeu (Ire) can come out in her mentally. So we took our time with her and I think it's paying dividends. Dun's dream was to have an Oaks runner at Epsom. We've come close to buying him that--we could have gone there, but I didn't think it was the right thing for her at that stage of her career. Even though that was his dream, he was very cool about not going to Epsom, and he is a great owner to have in the yard."

HELLO YOUUMZAIN

BY KODIAC

TWO NEW WINNERS!

BURN TO SHINE wins the Prix de la Côte d'Émeraude in good style over 1400m at Saint-Malo.

STORMY DONALD et GOOD SPEED finished 1st and 2nd respectively in the Prix Kenway over 1600m at Vichy.

Congratulations to their connections!

Hello Youmzain is the leading sire of 2yos in France by number of winners.

"Obviously the Irish Oaks has been at the forefront of our minds for a very long time," he added. "That's why she made the journey over there last year for the Group 3 Staffordstown Stakes, just so she would get the experience of travelling, and she came through that very well."

Hernon, whose family own Castletown Stud in County Cork, was born to work in racing. His father, Joe, works as a manager for Coolmore at Castlehyde, so his life has been a soundtrack to horses. But Ireland was seen as a closed shop when Hernon first set his sights on becoming a trainer. Hence why the move to France came about. Having spent time working with giants of the game like Jim Bolger, Andre Fabre and Nicolas Clement, he set up on his own in 2018 and hasn't looked back.

He explained, "I decided at the age of 16 that I wanted to become a trainer. I was working with Jim Bolger at the time. I suppose I had dreams of becoming a jockey but mother nature took over! But from there, I just thought that Ireland was ultra-competitive with one race meeting a day so, for a young lad like myself starting out, it was going to be very difficult to get up and running. With England, the prize-money situation was off-putting, but there were no such worries on that front over here in France.

"I just thought there was a lot of opportunity for young people over here and spent time working with Andre Fabre and Nicolas Clement. I did a stint in America as well before setting up here in 2018. It's gone well and we've had a couple of Group winners, a couple of listed winners, but still waiting for that breakthrough Group 1. It is pretty special to go back to Ireland—having left there thinking we couldn't be competitive—with a live chance in a Classic. It would be amazing if it came off."

An Irishman based in France, Hernon boasts a broad diaspre of owners—all keen to have a taste of what France has to offer. Prize-money is the greatest lure, along with premiums, and the trainer shared how an increasing number of international owners have been picking up the phone in recent times.

He said, "The majority of my owners are based outside of France. That ranges from America, to Hong Kong, England and Ireland. It's growing all of the time and people are starting to wake up to the benefits of racing in France. It's lovely when you buy these horses as yearlings and hope that they bring you to Classics but the reality is that seventy five per cent of horses operate in the lower grades. France is the one country where an average horse can pay its way. That changes the game." Cont. p5

Paying the way is not something that Hernon has to worry about with Dare To Dream. Asked if the Irish Oaks contender is the best horse he has been associated with to date, Hernon replied, "I'm based in Alain de Royer-Dupre's old yard in Chantilly and, funnily enough, Dare To Dream lives in Chaquita's old stable. We've known that [she's the best he's trained] for a while. Everything comes very easily to her. She just takes her work brilliantly and came out of the Diane bucking and everything. She didn't even lose a pound. When you have a yard of 40 horses, when you have a horse as good as Dare To Dream in the string, she stands out. It's very exciting to have one as good as her."

LAVA STREAM AND HANALIA ADDED TO 18-STRONG LIST OF IRISH OAKS ENTRIES

Ribblesdale Stakes runner-up Lava Stream (Ire) (Too Darn Hot {GB}) has been supplemented for the G1 Juddmonte Irish Oaks at the Curragh on Saturday, along with course winner Hanalia (Ire) (Sea The Stars {Ire}).

Trained by David O'Meara, Lava Stream was rated just 74 at the start of the season, but she has since been successful in a handicap at Doncaster and a Listed contest at Goodwood before faring best of the rest behind Port Fairy (Ire) (Australia {GB})--the ante-post favourite for Saturday's Classic--at Royal Ascot.

Beaten just a neck on the last occasion, Lave Stream is now set to test the waters at the top level for the first time at the Curragh, having been supplemented at a cost of €50,000 on Tuesday by owners Elwick Stud.

"We just thought with the Ribblesdale form being so strong and the winner of the Ribblesdale being favourite for the Irish Oaks, we may as well take our chance," said stud manager Gary Moore.

"There's only a couple of Oaks you want to win. This is one of them and you're able to take on three-year-olds rather than waiting to take on older fillies in the Yorkshire Oaks next time.

"She goes on any ground--the ground won't bother at all. Even if she gets placed it would be amazing, for the stud, for David, for everyone. We're hoping that we're going over there with a fighting chance."

The addition of Lava Stream and Naas Listed winner Hanalia takes the number of possible runners in the Classic up to 18. Paddy Power make Port Fairy their 11-4 favourite to provide trainer Aidan O'Brien with an eighth win in the race, with the Willie Mullins-trained Lope De Lilas (Ire) (Lope De Vega {Ire}) next in the betting at 4-1 as she prepares to carry the Wathnan Racing colours for the first time.

David Menuisier's G1 Oaks third War Chimes (Fr) (Summer Front), Port Fairy's stable-mate Content (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) and Gavin Hernon's G1 Prix de Diane fifth Dare To Dream (Fr) (Camelot {GB}) are other notable contenders, while Paddy Twomey is looking forward to saddling Purple Lily (Ire) (Calyx {GB}) after she stayed on to finish fifth in the G1 Irish 1,000 Guineas.

"Purple Lily has been trained very much with the Irish Oaks in mind and we're looking forward to Saturday with her," said Twomey.

"It's a step into the unknown [over a mile and a half], but her overall form is very good and the filly she ran against over a mile and a quarter [Ezeliya] ended up the top of generation in Epsom. I think there's every chance she'll stay."

LOS ANGELES SPEARHEADS BALLYDOYLE'S ST Leger BATTALIONS

Aidan O'Brien dominates the entries for the G1 Betfred St Leger, which takes place at Doncaster on Saturday, September 14.

Of the 25 entries, O'Brien is responsible for no fewer than 14 of them, headed by G1 Irish Derby hero Los Angeles (Ire) (Camelot {GB}) and the unbeaten Jan Brueghel (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}). They could be joined at Doncaster by two of the stable's Royal Ascot winners in G2 Queen's Vase scorer Illinois (Ire) (Galileo {Ire})--last seen filling the runner-up spot in the G1 Grand Prix de Paris--and Port Fairy (Ire) (Australia {GB}), who heads the betting for Saturday's G1 Irish Oaks following her victory in the G2 Ribblesdale Stakes.

Los Angeles held off the the David Menuisier-trained Sunway (Fr) (Galiway {GB}) at the Curragh and that rival could be in opposition once again on Town Moor, while Deira Mile (Ire) (Camelot {GB}), who was one place behind Los Angeles when finishing fourth in the G1 Derby at Epsom, could have a second tilt at Classic glory for Owen Burrows.

The twice-raced Vanish (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) is another possible runner for the Burrows yard, while G2 King Edward VII Stakes third Royal Supremacy (Ire) (Make Believe {GB}) and Wild Waves (Ire) (Crystal Ocean {GB}) could both line up for Andrew Balding. Cont. p8

Ancient Wisdom (Fr) (Dubawi {Ire}), who had Royal Supremacy back in second when running out an impressive winner of last week's G3 Bahrain Trophy at Newmarket, is another standout contender for Charlie Appleby, but an absentee is his stable companion Arabian Crown (Fr) (Dubawi {Ire}), who has not been seen since winning the G3 Classic Trial at Sandown in April.
