

YOU STILL DON'T RESPECT DORNOCH? THAT'S YOUR PROBLEM, NOT HIS

Dornoch | Sarah Andrew

The Week in Review by T.D. Thornton

Dornoch (Good Magic) didn't get much respect heading into the GI Belmont Stakes, and his bandwagon wasn't exactly overburdened with supporters after his 17-1 victory over 'TDN Rising Star' Mindframe (Constitution), either.

On Saturday at Monmouth Park, bettors let the winner of the third leg of the Triple Crown go as the tepid 3.4-1 third choice in the seven-horse GI Haskell Stakes, believing with 4-5 certainty that a now-more-experienced Mindframe wouldn't, for a second straight race, allow Dornoch to claw back the lead in deep stretch like he did six weeks ago at Saratoga.

Yet that's exactly what happened. The colt with the higher perceived potential again yielded to the rival who was believed to have already peaked.

Beyond producing the same one-two result, there were enough tactical similarities between Dornoch's 1 1/4-length score over nine furlongs at the New Jersey shore and his half-length win over 10 furlongs at the Spa for the headlines to term the Haskell a "repeat" of the Belmont. But that's an oversimplified analogy that again shortchanges Dornoch in the respect department.

SARATOGA NOTEBOOK: MCPEEK SAYS HE WILL MAKE TRAVERS DECISION ON THORPEDO ANNA SATURDAY

by Tim Wilkin

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. – A final decision on whether or not 'TDN Rising Star' Thorpedo Anna (Fast Anna) will run against the boys in the $1.25 million GI Travers Stakes will be made on Saturday.

That's the deadline trainer Kenny McPeek put on himself Sunday morning, the day after his 3-year-old filly dominated the GI Coaching Club American Oaks, winning by 4 1/2 lengths.

"We are going to take the week, get her back on the track Wednesday, and I will make a decision Saturday," McPeek said, sitting in his office at the Oklahoma Annex Sunday morning. "We have to look at her every day and make sure she is going into it as well as she can because she will have to be." Cont. Pg. 6

Dornoch's lack of gravitas within the 3-year-old pecking order is nothing new. As a full brother to 2023 GI Kentucky Derby winner Mage, this $325,000 KESEP colt debuted at Saratoga last summer with outsized—and perhaps unfair—expectations.

He lost his first two starts, broke his maiden as a 6 1/2-length, favored winner at Keeneland, then prevailed in a pair of Grade II stakes in which he was widely deemed to have been the beneficiary of the competition either committing late-race blunders or not showing up at all.

In April, Dornoch flubbed his final Derby prep, then beat only half the field in the Derby itself.

But the star of trainer Danny Gargan's barn has since rebounded with back-to-back Grade I wins, eclipsing his big brother's post-Triple Crown career arc and establishing Dornoch as a no-drama, no-quit grinder.

Dornoch still doesn't resonate as a "Wow!" colt. But he is now firmly established as a speed-centric stayer who punches back well above his weight when accosted.

Randy Hill, Luis Saez and Jayson Werth celebrate Dornoch's win in Saturday's GI Haskell Stakes | Sarah Andrew

That's a dangerous combination entering the second half of a season in which a number of A-list contenders in the older male dirt route division have earned their reputations based on flash and panache, yet are light in terms of consistency and reliability.

Last Dec. 2, Dornoch won the nine-furlong, GI Remsen Stakes at Aqueduct by outgunning five rivals for the lead, taking mid-race pace pressure, swatting back several fresh challengers on the far turn, then brushing the inside rail in the stretch before re-surg-ing late to snatch back the lead from 'TDN Rising Star' Sierra Leone, a $2.3-million Gun Runner colt who would end up being the next-out winner of the GI Risen Star Stakes and the eventual second-favorite in the Kentucky Derby.

At the time, the popular narrative was that even though both colts lost focus through the lane, Dornoch supposedly prevailed only because the lugging-in Sierra Leone wasn't fully cranked for prime time in only his second career start.

Over the winter, Gargan, who admitted Mage's little brother had a tendency to "goof off," expressed a desire to teach Dornoch how to settle and rate from off the pace. He thought that opportunity would come in the colt's next start, the Mar. 2 GII Fountain of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream. But that race was decimated by four late scratches that left the race void of speed, and Gargan called a last-minute audible, telling jockey Luis Saez to instead send Dornoch straight to the front per usual.

Dornoch ended up administering a straightforward wiring over four weak rivals at 1-5 odds. Here too, his performance was panned, because he didn't beat any contenders of consequence and his Beyer Speed Figure took a one-point dip off the 91 he had earned in the Remsen.

Gargan still wanted to see how Dornoch could handle coming from a bit farther behind, and even though many trainers wouldn't think of trying so drastic a tactics change in a final race before the Kentucky Derby, Gargan instructed Saez to do just that in the Apr. 6 GI Toyota Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

Saez had a hard time trying to keep his colt under wraps around the first turn, and Dornoch, pelted with dirt kickback while hemmed midpack at the rail for most of his trip, then only had mild response and ran up on the heels of a rival when asked for late-race response. The winner, Sierra Leone, blew by in upper stretch and Dornoch ended up a punchless fourth.

Gargan then admitted he had made a mistake, and vowed to let Dornoch revert to doing as he liked out of the gate, which meant rolling to the lead in the Derby and taking the field as far as he could on the front end.

Then the post position gods intervened and buried Dornoch in the dreaded one hole, a gate placement in the 20-horse Derby that has not produced a winner since Ferdinand in 1986.

On the first Saturday in May, Dornoch got bumped and brushed at the break, then never settled while pinned inside. He launched into a decent bid coming free from cover on the far turn, then checked hard when a hole in the pack of contenders closed turning for home. He had some mild interest in upper stretch but encountered more roughhousing, and Saez didn't hammer on Dornoch when it became apparent tenth place was the best he'd be able to attain in the Derby.

If you looked at Dornoch's chances in the Belmont Stakes through the lens that he had been forced well out of his comfort zone in two consecutive races after not getting much out of that cakewalk win in his first start at age three, you were rewarded with that juicy 17-1 overlay in Saratoga's truncated (from 12 furlongs to 10) version of the third leg of the Triple Crown.

From post six in the Belmont Stakes, Dornoch put outside pressure on rail-drawn GI Preakness Stakes upsetter Seize the Grey (Arrogate), took over on the far turn, then was under siege and under the whip at the head of the lane with Mindframe drawing dead aim.

Admirably and somewhat unexpectedly, Dornoch dug in and sparred hard, while Mindframe came unglued for a few strides and couldn't seal the deal. Mindframe re-rallied belatedly in the shadow of the wire, but Dornoch had built up enough of a cushion to win by a diminishing margin.

By capturing the Belmont, Dornoch had beaten both the winners of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness—Mystik Dan (Goldencents) and Seize the Grey—plus his arch-rival, Sierra Leone (who was third), and the up-and-coming Mindframe.

Yet the betting public still believed Dornoch had more to prove in the Haskell, emphatically backing Mindframe to odds-on favoritism while installing 'TDN Rising Star' Timberlake (Into Mischief) as the second choice off a nearly four-month layoff.

Mindframe | Sarah Andrew

Dornoch broke alertly from post one while Mindframe stumbled and was bumped coming out of gate six. The stutter-step start alone was not Mindframe's undoing, as Irad Ortiz, Jr. recovered him well enough to place Mindframe fourth down along the inside. But the difference in their breaks enabled Dornoch to establish command without pressure through an opening quarter in :23.32, and once the field sorted itself out onto the backstretch run, Saez expertly backed down the second quarter-mile split to a waltzing :24.76.

Quickening to :23.97 for the third quarter, Dornoch got double-teamed three-eighths out, first by Timberlake and then the full-of-steam, four-deep Mindframe. Timberlake edged in front only for an instant, but Mindframe powered past with what looked to be the winning Haskell move 2 1/2 furlongs from the wire.

Mindframe held that lead to the three-sixteenths marker through a fourth quarter-mile split of :25.23, yet Dornoch cut the corner closest to the rail under stern right-handed encouragement and simply wouldn't give up.

At the same time that Dornoch was responding to all-out rousing, Mindframe was still being hand-ridden, and as he drifted out to the five path, Mindframe disengaged like a ship adrift.

Ortiz resorted to belated stick work on alternating sides, but his efforts yielded more lateral movement than forward progress from Mindframe.

Dornoch kept Mindframe at bay through a final furlong clocked in a moderate :13.03.

So how fast was Dornoch's Haskell? The answer depends upon whether you prefer raw final times or Beyer Speed Figures, which take into account class-related par times while also factoring in how the track was playing on that particular day.

Dornoch's final time of 1:50.31 was the slowest Haskell since Authentic ran 1:50.45 in 2020. In fact, the only other sub-1:50 clocking in the past decade was when Dornoch's sire, Good Magic, stopped the timer in 1:50.01 in 2018.

But Dornoch's assigned Beyer of 103 equates to the fastest figure for the Haskell since American Pharoah ripped through nine furlongs with a 109 Beyer in 2015.

Thorpedo Anna has won six of seven career starts by a combined 36 1/4 lengths. A filly has not won the Midsummer Derby since 1915 when Lady Rotha did it. The last filly to try the Travers was Wonder Gadot (Medaglia d'Oro), who finished 10th in 2018.

McPeek could keep Thorpedo Anna against fillies and run her in the $600,000 GI Alabama Stakes Aug. 17. That race, like the Travers which is a week later, is 1 1/4 miles.

"She would get a five-pound weight break (Thorpedo Anna would carry 121 pounds in the Travers), would run for twice as much if we would run in the Alabama," McPeek said. "I have to look at the speed figures, who the possibles are (for the Travers)."

McPeck said that Dornoch (Good Magic) who won the GI Haskell Stakes Saturday, would be the Travers favorite. But the idea does intrigue him of having Thorpedo Anna try the colts.

He said that since Thorpedo Anna crossed the finish line in the Coaching Club American Oaks, he has been asked about the Travers “about 80 times.”

“That’s fine,” he said. “She would be talked about in terms of Genuine Risk and Ruffian and Winning Colors ... Rachel (Alexandra) and Zenyatta,” he said. “That is rare air that we are flirting with. Maybe she needs a challenge; she really hasn’t had one.”

Dornoch Back In Saratoga, Travers The Next Goal

Just before 11 a.m. Sunday, GI Haskell Stakes champion Dornoch (Good Magic) was back in Saratoga. He vanned back from the Jersey Shore and trainer Danny Gargan was right behind in his car.

Gargan was gushing the day after Dornoch beat 'TDN Rising Star' Mindframe (Constitution) to notch his second consecutive Grade I. He won the Belmont Stakes at Saratoga last month. He has three wins in five starts this year and is five for nine for his career.

And, right now, he is the best 3-year-old colt in the nation.

“I think he can win every time he runs,” Gargan said at the barn, “but I have always thought that. You know that.”

The next goal is the $1.25, GI Travers Stakes at Saratoga at the end of the month. Before that, Gargan said, Dornoch will be taking a side trip to GMP Farm in nearby Schuylerville where he will have Hyperbaric Oxygen Chamber therapy, a procedure that delivers increased amount of oxygen to injured tissues.

“He has a skin disease,” Gargan said. “This is the best way to clear it up.”

INCENTIVE PAY GIVES BROWN FIRST 2-YEAR-OLD WIN OF THE MEET

Gargan said his runner will be at the farm until Thursday and then be back at his barn where he will be pointed to the Travers. Gargan said he anticipates Dornoch will have two works before the Midsummer Derby. The first will be 15 or 16 days from the race, the second seven or eight days.

“We aren’t going to do anything crazy,” Gargan said. “We’ll keep working him half miles in 48 and change. This is a special horse.”

Before Dornoch ever ran, Gargan made the bold statement that the horse would be the best he ever trained. Dornoch is backing his trainer up now.

In the Haskell, it looked as though Mindframe was going to blow right by Dornoch at the top of the stretch but it was not to be. Under Luis Saez, Dornoch dug in and refused to lose, winning by 1 1/4 lengths.

“It looked like Mindframe was going to win by five or six (lengths),” Gargan said. “He has a tendency to wait on his competition; he does that in workouts and that’s why people think he gets outworked sometimes,” Gargan said. “When horses come to him, that’s when he really starts running. If someone wants to run real fast, he will run real fast with them.”

Dornoch is owned by West Paces Racing LLC, R.A. Hill Stable, Belmar Racing and Breeding LLC, Two Eight Racing LLC and Pine Racing Stables.

The group will have some fun as they prepare to watch Dornoch go for his third straight Grade I and cement a championship.

“I think we have one of the best horses in the country right now,” Gargan said. “If he stays healthy, he is going to be tough in the Travers.”

Pletcher Turns The Page; Getting Fierceness Ready For Jim Dandy

On Saturday, Hall of Fame trainer Todd Pletcher watched Mindframe, the 4-5 favorite, finish second to Dornoch in the GI Haskell Stakes at Monmouth Park.

Sunday, he was getting 'TDN Rising Star' Fierceness (City of Light) ready for the $500,000 GII Jim Dandy Stakes at Saratoga on Saturday.

Just after 7 on Sunday morning, Fierceness and exercise rider Danny Wright worked four furlongs in :49.61 (61/135) on the main track. They worked in company with stablemate Marche (Mitole), who has one career start.

“He is a good breeze horse,” Pletcher said of Fierceness while standing outside his office at the Oklahoma training track. “He did what he always does. We were not looking to do a whole lot six days out, just keep him happy.”

Fierceness hasn’t raced since finishing 15th as the favorite in the GI Kentucky Derby May 4. Before that, he had been brilliant in the GI Florida Derby, winning by 13 1/2 lengths.

Pletcher was not going to go down the road towards the GI Travers with Fierceness. He and owner Mike Repole have both said that the colt needs more time between races than most horses. The Travers is four weeks after the Jim Dandy. That might not be enough.

“I don’t want to get ahead of myself right now,” Pletcher said. “We are trying to win the Jim Dandy and we will assess his performance in there and see how he comes out of it. I don’t want to make predictions to where he is going after that yet.”

Repole, still stinging from Mindframe’s 1 1/4-length loss to Dornoch in the Haskell, isn’t going to beat the drums for the Travers either. He wants to see what Fierceness does Saturday.

Fierceness | Sarah Andrew

“You can only run the Travers at the end of August when you are a 3-year-old,” Repole said by phone Sunday. “Without even seeing the Jim Dandy, it’s not even in my mind. Has he proven that he runs better with breaks? Yeah. We expect a huge race (Saturday), but we don’t have to get it. We know this game.”

Mindframe, who Repole co-owns with Vinnie and Teresa Viola’s St. Elias Stables LLC, has two wins and two seconds in his short career. His other runner-up performance came in the GI Belmont Stakes at Saratoga last month.

He did not drift as badly in the Haskell, but it was enough that Pletcher and Repole are thinking about maybe making an equipment change.

“We will consider it,” Pletcher said about the possibility of adding blinkers. “Look, the winner was good. We were second and I don’t think our horse made any big mistakes. Irad (jockey Ortiz Jr.) felt that when he got to the front, (Mindframe) lost focus a little bit. We talked about it (equipment change) but I don’t like to make decisions immediately after a race.”

Pletcher said that the Travers is still “in play” for Mindframe.

“We have not lost confidence in the horse,” he said. “We just need to improve that little bit.”

HOW SPENDTHRIFT GOT DORNOCH: A Q&A WITH NED TOFFEY

by Bill Finley

TDN: What is it about Dornoch that makes him a good stallion candidate?

NT: He's obviously got a great pedigree and he's a very talented horse. We always thought he was a really talented horse. They tried to rate him in the Blue Grass and he got wiped out from the one hole in the Derby. The luster went off him a little bit. He's now come back and shown what he truly is. He's a horse that when you put him in a race, he likes to engage other horses. I've always likened him to a kid who just loves to compete. He's out there playing but when you go to compete with him that's when he shows his talent and his toughness and competitiveness. He was a very nice horse as a 2-year-old and as an early 3-year-old. In the last two races he's re-established what he's able to do. He's a big, beautiful, classy-looking animal. With that pedigree and with his looks, that made him a no-brainer as stallion prospect. When he won the Belmont, we felt like it was time to try to get something done on him. This was a good deal for both sides and we're thrilled he's coming to Spendthrift.

TDN: Can you give us a time line on how and when the deal was struck?

NT: It was after the Belmont. Every stud farm is watching all these races. (Spendthrift owner) Eric Gustavson asked the question, if they win the Belmont, who would we go after? We named a few horses and he was one of them.

TDN: He will be one of the first sons of Good Magic to go to stud. How much did you take into account how well-bred he is?

NT: Puca has established herself as a heck of a mare. Curlin is a phenomenal sire. You worry about trying to stand the son of a younger stallion. But we felt that Good Magic has established himself now to a level where it's very appealing to stand a son. The sire line has been so good and Good Magic is establishing himself as a very nice stallion. That he is the sire was certainly a plus.

TDN: Spendthrift has been very aggressive lately and has not been afraid to go after any stallion. What is the mantra at Spendthrift right now?

NT: Early on, if you look at some of our success, it was really shaped by Malibu Moon and, more recently, Into Mischief. These were horses who started at a very low level before rising to the highest levels of the sport. That has shaped a lot of what we've done. We realize a good stallion could come from anywhere, but the reality is, with the way the market has evolved over the last 10 to 15 years, everybody's filter has gotten a little finer, so far as the yearlings they'll buy, the pedigrees they'll buy, the individuals they will buy and then who will they breed to. The commercial market is a huge factor in shaping the decisions we make. We understand that nobody knows where the best stallions are going to come from. But it's safe to say that what a stallion needs to be successful is opportunity. And opportunity comes from breeders being willing to breed to a stallion. What breeders are willing to do and what range they'll play in is what has caused our shift so far as playing at a higher level. Into Mischief was a struggle. So was Malibu Moon, who started as a regional horse. Those are horses that would struggle even more today. People are so discerning now so far as what they'll buy and who they will breed to and that's really what has formed a lot of our thinking. We recognize that there are breeders at all levels of the market and there are good horses that come from all levels of the market. We've always tried to have horses that fit a variety of price points. We'd like the breeding game to work for all breeders at all levels. That is very important to us. It is realities of the market have caused us to shift to a higher end horse.

RAGING SEA A TORRENT IN SHUVEE VICTORY

In a race that changed dramatically when expected speed Venti Valentine (Firing Line) stumbled to her knees not once but twice out of the gate, it was Raging Sea (Curlin) who took advantage and pulled away late to win the GII Shuvee Stakes at Saratoga Sunday.

A talented juvenile who hit the board in both the GI Darley Alcibiades Stakes and the GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies, Raging Sea struggled to regain form as a 3-year-old, contesting mostly optional claimers at Keeneland and Saratoga before ending her season a winner back in graded company when she defeated 'TDN Rising Star' Julia Shining (Curlin) in the GIII Comely Stakes at Aqueduct. Back in April as a 4-year-old, she stayed on track with a strong win in the GIII Doubledogdare Stakes Apr. 19 and most recently ran fourth in the GI Ogden Phipps Stakes on Belmont Day at Saratoga June 8.

Raging Sea | Coglianes

The 8-5 second choice found herself in a nice spot towards the front as Venti Valentine stumbled out of contention just to her inside in the opening strides. Enjoying a rail-hugging trip into the backstretch, Raging Sea opted to take back just a bit and let 7-1 shot Misty Veil (Tonalist) handle the tempo through fractions of :23.94 and :48.91. Never far off the rail or the lead, the Chad Brown runner had the door swing wide open for her off the turn as Misty Veil drifted out a touch and took full advantage, cutting the corner and opening up with only 7-5 favorite Shotgun Hottie (Gun Runner) making up any ground into her lead late.

“There was a lot of commotion inside with the two [Venti Valentine] and the one [Shotgun Hottie], so I think Flavien just [had] another brilliant ride and decision to take the initiative,” said Brown. “Our horse on paper could’ve been last early, she is not a front-running horse, but he got ahead of the one, which I think was the key decision that first turn which took that horse out of her preferred running style. So, in the context of almost a match race maybe between the two on class, being positioned ahead of that horse was really a big advantage from that point forward.”

Brown noted that the GI Personal Ensign Stakes Aug. 23 at Saratoga could be a next start for Raging Sea.

“It could be. The way she ran today, it would be a big step up for that but she’s always knocking on the door in those Grade I’s and there might be one with her name on it.”

Pedigree Note:

One of 105 stakes winners for Curlin, Raging Sea is out the unraced Storm Cat mare Stormy Welcome, a mare who sold first for $1.6m as a yearling at Keeneland in 2007 and then again for $600,000 as a broodmare to Reynolds Bell at KEENOV in 2015. From 8 foals to race, Stormy Welcome has produced five winners including MSP Welcoming (Tapit) who herself is responsible for MSP Reconcile (War Front). Readers will recognize third dam Weekend Surprise, a daughter of Secretariat, as Broodmare of the Year and the dam of the late, great A.P. Indy (Seattle Slew) along with MGISW Summer Squall (Storm Bird) and a host of other graded stakes winners. Stormy Welcome's last foal is a yearling filly by City of Light.

SIERRA LEONE CONTINUES JIM DANDY PREP FOR BROWN

'TDN Rising Star' Sierra Leone (Gun Runner) breezed a solo four furlongs Sunday in :49.73 over the Oklahoma training track for trainer Chad Brown in his final work before Saturday's GII Jim Dandy Stakes. NYRA clockers noted an opening quarter-mile in :25.25 and a gallop out in 1:02.68, 1:14.93 and 1:28.92.

"He did super," said Brown. "He's in a nice rhythm. He's been working solo on the training track - I'm liking it. He galloped out with good energy. That's just what I'm looking for six days out."

Sierra Leone was third last out in the GI Belmont Stakes to Dornoch (Good Magic) who returned July 20 to win the GI Haskell Stakes at Monmouth Park.

"He's at a stage of his development where it was something to transition into," Brown continued. "I'm very flexible in training them and observing where they are in their development. For right now, at this point of his campaign, it's working for him taking him out of company for a little bit. He's very fit and I'm just looking to bring him to the race healthy and focused."

The GII Jim Dandy Stakes will serve as a prep for GI DraftKings Travers Stakes Aug. 24 at Saratoga.

Joining Sierra Leone in the Travers will be undefeated stablemate Unmatched Wisdom (Cairo Prince) who won the Curlin Stakes July 19.

"I think he's earned his right," Brown said. "If all the horses in this division stay healthy, it's shaping up to be a really strong edition of the Travers, so he's going to have to step up considerably but he's undefeated and he has good positional speed. I think his best races and his best numbers are ahead of him. With that said, if he moves forward, he could be in it."

Ways and Means (Practical Joke), another Brown-trained 'TDN Rising Star', also got a prep in over the Oklahoma track for the GI Test Stakes Aug. 3.

"She's in a nice rhythm breezing by herself," Brown said. "After that big win here - a confidence-building allowance race Belmont week - she's really where I need her to be fitness wise and now it's just some maintenance coming into the Test. She'll have one more work and that might not be a big field, but that will be a strong field and she'll really have to show her best."

TRAINER WAYNE CATALANO CELEBRATES 3,000 CAREER WINS SUNDAY

Trainer Wayne Catalano celebrated his 3000th career win Sunday when 4-year-old gelding Alilnalot (Tapiture) won race four at Ellis Park, a $30,000 maiden claimer. Catalano, who began his training career in 1983 following a successful riding career, has seen over 15,000 horses start under his name including the likes of GI Qatar Racing Breeders' Cup Sprint winner Aloha West (Hard Spun) and dual Breeders' Cup winner Stephanie's Kitten (Kitten's Joy).

"I've been waiting on this one a long time," said Catalano after the milestone Sunday. "I got to have my family here today and it means the world to me."

VIRGIN COLADA DELIVERS BIG KICK TO GIVE RESOLUTE A NOTABLE VICTORY by Mike Kane

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. – Add Virgin Colada (More than Ready) to the Resolute Racing's burgeoning list of firsts. So, so many firsts in its first season of racing. With her huge finish in the stretch in the seventh race Sunday at Saratoga Race Course, Virgin Colada got to the wire first, a half-length in front of Running Away (Gun Runner) in the 1 1/16-miles maiden special weight contest for 2-year-old fillies and was promptly tabbed a 'TDN Rising Star.' She won her, yes, first start in 1:44.32 and paid $11.20 as the 9-2 second choice in the field of 10.

John Stewart, who launched Resolute Racing in a major way last year with a slew of bloodstock purchases, made his first trip to the Saratoga winner's circle following a maiden race. It won't be his last. He broke his personal Spa maiden last month as the co-owner with Merriebelle Stables of Didia (Arg) (Orpen), winner of the GI New York Stakes during the Belmont festival.

Virgin Colada, trained by Chad Brown, earned a place on the Resolute Racing honor roll as the stables' first winner from a yearling auction buy. She was acquired for $110,000 at the Fasig-Tipton October Sale. Although the 2-year-old ridgling Mensa (Complexity) prevailed in the Victoria Stakes at Woodbine Friday, Resolute bought him for $740,000 after he had already broken his maiden.

"She's our first 2-year-old that we purchased and put into the system," Stewart said. "It's really exciting for us. It's only our second that has made it to the track, so we're excited to get this win. She looked really, really good. We have a lot of confidence in Chad, so we expect great things from her."

Stewart said he was part of the Resolute team that identified the filly as a prospect it wanted.

"Just the way that she looked and we liked her pedigree," Stewart said. "She kind of ticked those boxes for us and then she's come along nicely and developed. She's a really nice physical, and she's got a real quick turn of foot, which you saw that in the stretch there."

Virgin Colada | Coglianesse

Starting from the inside under Flavien Prat, Virgin Colada stayed near the rail well off the pace of :24.19, and :49.74, near the back of the field. She began to move toward contention in the second turn, but was still eighth, some 3 1/2 lengths back entering the stretch. Prat moved her out to the middle of the lane and she produced her winning move, which was a tad sharper than fellow-closer Rare Art's (Munnings), to overtake Running Away.

"When she turned it on, she passed six or seven horses there and had to be real patient as well," Stewart said. "It was really nice to see that and it topped off a nice weekend for us."

With "nice," Stewart was understating Resolute's weekend results. In roughly 51 hours, Mensa picked up the victory at Woodbine, Pounce (Lookin at Lucky) won the GIII Lake George at Saratoga Saturday and Misty Veil (Tonalist) was third in Saratoga's GII Shuvee Stakes a couple of hours before Virgin Colada went to the gate on the inner turf course.

Virgin Colada--named for Stewart's cocktail of choice because he does not drink alcohol--was the stable's eighth winner from 31 starts, all in 2024. The first seven wins were in stakes.

Stewart, a native Kentuckian who founded the private equity firm MiddleGround Capital, has not eased quietly into the Thoroughbred business, though his first purchase was a single horse at the 2022 Keeneland September sale. Last year, he spent $25 million on bloodstock in under 10 weeks. He purchased the Shadwell Shadayid Stud in Midway, Ky, for his base of operations.

"I had one horse in September and I have 130 horses now," he said. "I've got 43 in training; 28 2-year-olds."

Meanwhile, Stewart has continued to grow his stable.

"I have 23 yearlings already before the season starts," he said.

Stewart said Resolute will be a player in the Fasig-Tipton Saratoga Sale in August.

"I've already been through the catalogue, and have my eye on five or six that we are going back with us, for sure," he said. "Then we'll be opportunistic on some others. Just trying to strategize going through the sales season. I like to participate. But also, we just got our farm up and running. I've just got to like balance out, on the team, how much resources that we need."

Stewart said Virgin Colada fits into what he expects from a stable loaded with grass runners.

"About 80% of my program is turf because I really want international competition," he said. "You're going to see me take some of these best horses. My first thought when Pounce won yesterday was 'Australia.' I want to take some really good ones. I want to compete on an international scale. I want dirt for the Classic races, because those are important to us, but you're going to see us be really concentrated on the turf."

Less than a year after boldly launching his ambitious racing venture, Stewart was having his picture taken at Saratoga with a debuting 2-year-old, the first Resolute baby to win. The significance of that moment late on a sunny Sunday afternoon in July wasn't lost on him.

"Here's the thing: everything I'm doing it's the first time for me for everything," he said. "It's my first year in the program. Before this race I think we were 18th on the leading owners on stakes races already and we don't even have half of our crop running. The back half of this year, I think we're going to do some really special stuff."

VIRGIN COLADA SCOOPS UP 'TDN RISING STAR' BADGE AT SARATOGA by J.N. Campbell

Saving her best kick for the final stretch, first-time starter Virgin Colada (More Than Ready) mounted a strong charge down the lane to graduate and earn a 'TDN Rising Star' badge at Saratoga Sunday afternoon.

The filly, who debuted as a 9-2 shot, saved every bit of ground while at the rear of the field until the top of the lane. She launched her bid down the center of the course and sailed confidently past the competition to win by a half-length. Pacesetter Running Away (Gun Runner) was second.

Her unraced dam's second registered foal, Virgin Colada has an older full-sister in Ready for Action. Episcopal is also responsible for a yearling colt by Twirling Candy and she produced a filly by Jack Christopher May 3. This dam is herself a half-sister to GI Runhappy Travers Stakes hero Catholic Boy (More Than Ready).

Virgin Colada is the 18th 'Rising Star' for her late sire, More Than Ready.

CASALU NAMED 'TDN RISING STAR' AT SEASIDE OVAL FOR FRESHMAN SIRE

CARACARO by J.N. Campbell

Casalu | Benoit

Freshman sire Caracaro collected the first 'TDN Rising Star' trophy for his case when his daughter Casalu sailed home a debut winner Sunday afternoon at the Del Mar.

Spotlighted in the Sunday edition of TDN's Summer Breezes and Racing Insights, the Three Amigos-owned juvenile, who went off at sixty cents on the dollar, was looking to make good on a bullet workout she posted at Santa Anita July 8 when she went four furlongs in :46.40 (1/54).

The heavy favorite blazed out of the gate and clearly announced her presence with authority up the backstretch. The bay heard some hoofbeats around the far turn, but entering the lane her jets kicked in and she strode home a 5 1/2-length winner over Oveta's Hobby (Army Mule).

Casalu zipped a quarter-mile in :20 2/5 before selling for $775,000 at this year's OBS Spring sale. The filly was bred and sold by Rafael Celis, who campaigned Caracaro in partnership with Lucas Noriego's Top Racing.

Out of an extended female family which includes sire Yankee Gentleman (Storm Cat), the winner is a half-sister to Twirled (Twirling Candy), SP, $267,984. Key d'Oro is responsible for a yearling colt by Vekoma.

Casalu, one of 49 foals of racing age for her freshman sire (by Uncle Mo), is his fourth worldwide winner. Caracaro's third came in Russia on Saturday.

QUIET ON THE BOARD, NYQUIST FIRST-TIMER IMMERSIVE WINS SPA MAIDEN

by Bill Finley

On paper, there was a lot to like about Immersive (Nyquist) in Sunday's ninth race at Saratoga, a six-furlong maiden for 2-year-old fillies. She is by the top sire Nyquist, owned and bred by Godolphin and trained by Brad Cox. With those credentials, a short price might have been in order, but somehow the bay went off at 10-1.

Looks like the bettors got this one wrong.

After a perfect stalking trip under Manny Franco, Immersive won by two lengths and paid $22.80. The running time was 1:12.60 for the six furlongs.

Immersive | Chelsea Durand

“It’s important to any first timer, you need to break good and need to be able to give them a clean trip,” Franco said. “That was perfect. She got into a good rhythm. When those two horses were in front of me, I thought I had a chance. She came running when I asked her. Sometimes when you hit her, you have to be careful. It’s hard for me because there is a lot of adrenaline and I want to win the race. Sometimes, in races like this you have to be gentle with the horse.”

Spun Candy (Hard Spun) and Laughing Lady (Practical Joke) vied for the early lead while Immersive stalked the pair from third.

The Mark Casse-trained Salted (Tapit) was second and Spun Candy held on for third. Salted stumbled at the start and soon thereafter lagged behind the field. Considering her trip and how she closed in the stretch, she ran a winning race.

The winning dam is Gap Year (Bernardini), who won two of eight career starts while earning $124,990. She’s had five foals with two horses to race and now two winners. The other is Takingtimeoff (Curlin), who won a maiden special weight race at Delaware Park.

9th-Saratoga, $100,000, Msw, 7-21, 2yo, f, 6f, 1:12.60, ft, 2 lengths.

IMMERSIVE (f, 2, Nyquist--Gap Year, by Bernardini), let go at 10-1, chased the early pacesetters through a quarter in :22.76 and rolled up challenge pacesetter Spun Candy (Hard Spun) as the half went up in :46.48. She put that game foe away in deep stretch and pulled away to win by two lengths. Salted (Tapit) closed late to nip Spun Candy for second. Gap Year, a daughter of Grade I winner Dubai Escapade (Awesome Again), produced a filly by Street Sense this year and was bred back to that stallion.

Ellis Park Stages A Pair of Juvenile Maidens

Some of the most highly anticipated races during the summer racing season are the 'baby' races during the boutique meetings at Saratoga and Del Mar and at Ellis Park, which attract its fair share of high-priced offspring from a variety of top national outfits. Summer Breezes highlights debuting 2-year-olds at those meetings that have been sourced at the breeze-up sales earlier in the year, with links to their under-tack previews. To follow are the horses entered for Sunday at Saratoga, Ellis Park and Del Mar:

He pulled his way to the lead along the rail midway on the turn and skipped clear down the lane.

Since making the move to Richard Baltas's shedrow, Ag Bullet's 2024 campaign has included a win in the Wishing Well Stakes in late February and another score in the GIII Monrovia Stakes in early April--both down the hillside course at Santa Anita. Shipping to Louisville, the filly was a well-beaten ninth in the GI Churchill Distaff Turf Mile on the Derby undercard.

Back on the California turf scene, the 7-5 choice took command passing the grandstand for the first time. Making all the fractions through the backstretch and around the far turn, Ag Bullet rocketed further clear past the eighth pole.

"I really think that she's relaxing more now," said Baltas. "Down the backside her ears were up and when she was coming around to the quarter pole her ears were up and she was flipping them back and forth. She was waiting for him to call on her and she answered the question. She was running away from them here and she got it all her own way. I was just glad she kicked home."

The winner's dam produced a filly by Classic Empire who is now a 2-year-old and she foaled a colt by Mendelssohn last year. Noble Grey was bred unsuccessfully to Army Mule for this past term. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by FanDuel TV.

Sparkle Blue came from just off the pace to earn her second win in the Big Dreyfus Stakes Sunday at Laurel. The heavy favorite was under a snug hold while sitting just off the early leaders into the first turn and down the backstretch. Let loose at the top of the lane, she pounced to the lead at midstretch and inched clear while in tight quarters to the wire.

"She's very professional and Jorge [Ruiz] rides her with a lot of confidence. I thought he was in a great spot," said winning trainer Graham Motion.

With no one intent on the lead, the 5-1 shot was in front in the early strides, but was taken in hand and was well-held while taken off the pace heading up the backstretch. Crying out for racing room at the top of the lane, Bran found a seam late and powered clear to win by one length over Sumter (War Front), who had a nose on Packs a Whalop (Creative Cause) in third. Making her third U.S. start, the 7-2 shot was put under a hold to settle in midpack through an opening quarter in :24.56 and a half in :49.23. Asked for run approaching the stretch, the chestnut filly bound into contention six wide at the top of the lane and stormed clear to win by 3 1/4 lengths. Sixteen Arches (Ire) (Mehmas {Ire}) got her nose in front of Gypsy Woman (Ire) (Cotai Glory {GB}) for second in the Irish-bred trifecta and a one-three finish for sire Cotai Glory. ATITLAN (c, 3, The Factor--Armanda {Ger}, by Acatenango {Ger}) was moving to the lawn following a well-beaten seventh-place finish in his six-furlong debut over the main track at Santa Anita May 27. Dismissed at 35-1, the bay colt settled near the back of the pack and was jostled by an outside foe entering the first turn. He cut the corner into the lane, weaved through traffic at midstretch and darted to the inside of pacesetting favorite Middleburg (Tapit) as the wire loomed to just get a head in front of late-closing Broheim (Not This Time) on the wire. Middleburg was a neck back in third. Fausto (Mastery) was cut off and clipped heels at midstretch. He was caught by the outrider after the race and walked off the track.

The stewards ruled Old Nine (Ire) (No Nay Never) instigated the interference and disqualified him. Atitlan is a half-brother to Astronaut (Quality Road), MGSW & GISP, $519,860. Overlooked as a 20-1 shot here, the chestnut settled towards the rear of the field heading into the first turn. Gilded Edge was on hold along the rail up the backstretch, but her situation did not improve as she was boxed in behind a wall of horses at the top of the lane. BREAKFAST WITH HARRY SWEENEY - ONE OF IRISH RACING'S GREAT PIONEERS

Harry Sweeney: the master of Paca Paca Farm at the Crown Plaza hotel in Chitose | Brian Sheerin

By Brian Sheerin

Harry Sweeney is one of Irish racing's finest exports. A qualified vet, he has been based in the Far East for 35 years, where he operates from the world renowned Paca Paca Farm as well as holding the position of President at Darley Japan.

From big-money pinhooks to sleepless nights after some frightening losses, breeding Japanese Derby winner Deep Brilliance and how he engineered a plan to be granted a Japanese owner's licence, Sweeney makes for a fascinating and entertaining Q&A.

The Marco Polo of Irish racing sat down with Brian Sheerin for breakfast following the Select Sale in Japan.

How do you reflect on the JRHA Select Sale?

I was reasonably pleased-- wasn't elated. I mean, it certainly wasn't the bonanza of last year for Paca Paca. Traditionally, we used to assess this sale in sumo terms. There is a term we commonly refer to in Japan that relates to sumo. It's when a mid-ranking wrestler would set out to win more bouts than he lost in a 13-day tournament. Then they were happy. That's called kachi-koshi. That is our bar for Paca Paca going into any sale and we achieved that.

TDN RISING STAR BABOUCHE GOES TWO-FOR-TWO IN THE ANGLESEY By Sean Cronin

Juddmonte's Babouche (GB) (Kodiac {GB}--Pavlosk, by Arch) attained 'TDN Rising Star' status with a five-length rout going six furlongs at Cork in her June 14 unveiling and stepped forward to justify 13-8 favouritism in Sunday's G3 Jebel Ali Racecourse & Stables Anglesey Stakes at the Curragh.

The Ger Lyons trainee was bumped at the break and raced three lengths off the leader as Treasure Isle (Ire) (No Nay Never) set a searching tempo up front. Powering forward once past halfway, she was shaken up to launch her challenge approaching the final furlong and was driven out in the closing stages to withstand the late charge of 'TDN Rising Star' Camille Pissarro (Ire) (Wootton Bassett {GB}) by a half-length.

"She's a filly we've always liked and has a temperament to die for," said Lyons. "She's become more switched off since she ran in Cork. It's okay winning the way she did in Cork, but we learned nothing because she did it all on her own." Cont. p8

We had seven foals in the sale--one was consigned under a slightly different name--and we sold four. You have to be reasonable and, even with the weak exchange rate, the Baaeed (GB) foal sold for £275,000. For a foal of just three months old, that is fantastic business. There won't be many foals by Baaeed who sell for more than that at Tattersalls in December so I have to be pleased. However, when you look at what that same exact foal might have made had he been offered by Northern Farm for example, there is a little bit of a difference. But Northern Farm has a huge brand and the market appreciates their brand. Do you know the way they were selling Aston Martin cars on the sales complex? Well, some of my fellow breeders will be driving Aston Martins after the sale. I will be driving a Toyota Land Cruiser. But a Toyota Land Cruiser is still a very fine car and it suits me better. And do you know what? I feel privileged and lucky to have it.

Can that be frustrating?

Of course it can be frustrating but I have been here for 35 years so I accept it. And you might look across and question things but Japan is still a very good place to make a living so I am happy. This is a very special market, the Select Sale especially, and certainly Northern Farm is extremely dominant. You don't need AI to work that out. But even AI would be confounded by the scale of the dominance. But, listen, Northern Farm has invested heavily in its broodmare band and everyone working there works very hard so they deserve a lot of the success they are enjoying. While other farms might begrudge that success, I don't, because a rising tide lifts all boats. But I have been selling at the Select Sale since day one and I have seen good days, I have seen bad days and I have also seen brilliant days. I am reconciled with it. It's not the pressure that it used to be. Our kids are grown up and we've paid for their education. My farm is also paid for so it's not the do-or-die scenario of continuing in business or going bankrupt like it used to be.

Does that change how you operate? With less responsibility you can essentially take more risk.

We can take more risks, of course. But you sleep a bit better when doing so. Cont. p4

Can you tell me about some of those sleepless nights? There were times when you bit off a lot.

There were good years and bad years. When the market crashed in 2008, that Select Sale was an absolute disaster for us. A wipeout. I think we had 12 foals in the sale and we sold just one. We had four young sons at the time. I can remember we had planned a holiday in Indonesia and Borneo shortly after the sale. I can remember being in the middle of the jungle in Borneo, deep inside the rainforest and thinking, 'I am in some hole right now'. I was in deep--I was deeply fud. That's all I could think of on that holiday and there was some sort of poeticness to the whole thing as, here I was in the middle of the jungle cut off from civilisation when, in business, I was in the biggest hole I had ever found myself in.

How did you get out?

I worked hard. Worked really, really hard.

A lot of well-known horses in Japan, America and even in Europe were born and raised in Paca Paca. Even last year's St Leger winner Continuous (Jpn) is a graduate of yours. That must give you a lot of pleasure.

We have a lot of good clients and it's great to see them doing well. Maybe we don't deserve some of the accolades because, here in Japan, there is a clear distinction between the mare's owner and where a foal is born. Oftentimes, it's the farm at which a racehorse was born that receives the accolades. The racing papers carry the breeding farm, but that is not the breeder. So, if Brian Sheerin for example has a mare at Paca Paca, he won't get mentioned in the papers but Paca Paca will.

In your role with Darley Japan, you have welcomed well-known horses in Europe like Hukum (Ire) and Adayar (Ire) to the stallion roster. How have they been received and is it difficult taking on the might of a 30-strong Shadai Stallion Station roster?

We welcomed another new horse, Palace Malice, to Japan recently. He's standing at ¥3.5 million and has covered 262 mares and has more than 200 of those in foal. You know, if you bring the right product, you will do well. A lot of good mares--some from Northern Farm and Shadai Farm--have been sent to Palace Malice. So if you have the right stallion at the right price, you can survive. But you need to be lucky as well. Two days after we announced the deal for Palace Malice, his son Jantar Mantar (Jpn) won a Group 1 race.

A lot of people in Japan thought 'Harry Sweeney is brilliant' and I haven't dissuaded them from that thought! But the fact is, we were really lucky. Jantar Mantar went on to become the champion two-year-old in Japan and is a Group 1 winner at three as well. So it worked out but there are plenty of occasions in bloodstock when it doesn't.

You have a number of horses in the Selection Sale. What sort of trade should we be expecting there?

It will be decent trade without being the bonanza of the Select Sale but that is a complete bubble. That's why I would advise absolute caution for a foreigner looking in on the Select Sale. The Selection Sale is the real market.

If you were to find yourself in a position of power or one where you could make meaningful change to the way racing was run back home in Ireland, what would you bring back from your learnings in Japan?

I'm not really interested in commenting on that as I don't know enough about it. But, the big difference here is that we have a Tote that runs betting and we have a government subsidiary that owns the Tote, the tracks and the two main training centres and they are reinvesting in racing in Japan. It's all controlled by one body and there's great transparency. We don't have competing forces. We have the JRA and then we have a second body, which is the NAR. While the JRA is effectively a semi-state body, a subsidiary of the department of agriculture, the local racing is run by the NAR. That is run by the local municipal governments as well so that is effectively a semi-state body, albeit at a different level. They work very much in tandem together so it is a very well-regulated and uniformed body which has one focus. Unfortunately, racing has evolved in a very different way in Europe. Japan is a racing utopia.....almost. Now, the 'almost' in that sentence carries plenty of weight, but there are a lot of great things about racing here--enormous prize-money, great fan attendance, great love of the horse, an excellent demographic of young people going to the races and more. You go to any of the big meetings in Japan and it costs £1 of an admission fee and that includes a racecard. People dress casually as well. It's very casual, they bring their kids, bring a picnic and it's just a great day out.

And what could I take back home to Ireland? Outside of prize-money and fan engagement, the biggest thing I have taken from this trip is how important distance is to the breed over here? For example, there are only two Group 1 races over sprint trips in Japan.

Credit to the JRA for that. Even our 2,000 Guineas, that's run over 10 furlongs. Japan is the country of 10 furlong two-year-old maidens. Where else would you find that? Even Deep Impact (Jpn). He debuted over 10 furlongs. That's the way it is. The reverse is true, in that there are very limited opportunities for sprinters over here. Cont. p6

Fine Needle | Horsephotos

If I was to go back to my main employment with Godolphin, as opposed to my hobby farm at Paca Paca [!], we raced some fine horses over here, including Fine Needle (Jpn). He was a champion miler/sprinter but in truth he was a sprinter. There are only two Grade 1 races in the entire programme under a mile out here and he won both of those.

Another thing that was quite noticeable was how the Japanese place perhaps even more emphasis on the book rather than the model compared to other parts of the world.

Oh yes. But, to be honest, this is an imprecise science. A few years ago, myself and my farm manager, James Butler, set ourselves a task of finding what we thought would be the worst value of the Select Sale. It was just a little bit of a game between ourselves. We had looked at nearly all of the yearlings in the sale. There was one filly in particular and she had shocking—and I mean shocking—front legs. She went on to make a lot of money and we both agreed that she was the worst value of the sale. What happened? She went on to become a Group 1 winner in Japan. Pedigree is very important in Japan. And size, actually. They are not as critical on conformation and things like that. But, you know what, maybe they're right. Maybe we are too caught up on conformation and things like that at home.

I have just had a text message from Jack Cantillon asking 'how the Christopher Columbus of Irish racing is getting on.....'

Well, if Jack was more familiar with his history, he might have said the Marco Polo of Irish racing because Christopher Columbus sailed west whereas Marco Polo went east!

I actually didn't know a lot about you or Paca Paca before this trip and it's only now that I am realising the scale of the achievement. I'm not just saying this because you're sitting in front of me but, what you have achieved in Japan, it must be up there with some of the great pioneering feats in Irish racing.

Well, that's a very kind thing to say, so thank you. But it has been acknowledged, and I did win the inaugural Wild Geese Award at the ITBA Awards a number of years ago. That was a great honour. But you talk about great pioneering feats, but sometimes fate deals you a hand. You have to understand that when I came out here it was a very different era. I graduated from college in 1983 and those were very dark days in the Irish economy. There were huge unemployment rates in Ireland at that time. A lot my class emigrated because there were simply no other options. It was by chance that I ended up in Japan. Now, it was a tough job, but one I was well paid for. Because I was being well paid, and because things were so bad in Ireland, I was going to f suck it up. I'm not saying it was easy because it wasn't but anyone who succeeds in business does the same. Life is not easy and success doesn't come easy to anyone. So yes, I did work hard. But, do you know what? I worked hard because I had no other option. And that's the truth. It needed to work. When I first came here, I was a bit like you. I could see the scale of things. All I could think was 'wow'. I could see the scale of opportunity here. I said to myself, 'imagine, just imagine, if I could get a tiny piece of the pie—even a tiny piece of the crust.' So I set about doing that and got a few crusts along the way. It's a big, big pie out here.

Given your veterinary background and the Japanese approach to buying horses, did you have to forget much of what you learned with regards to conformation etc?

There is a very big distinction between buying a horse to sell on and buying a horse to race. They are completely different things. Cont. p7

Generally speaking, they need to be correct but I can tell you that, the longer you stay in this business, the more you realise that winners—and champions—come in all shapes and sizes. Yes, I am a little less critical of certain things as opposed to when I came out here first. One thing that is unique in Japan is that most horses in Japan race and Japanese trainers do a very good job in getting their horses to the track. If you end up with a sound horse, there's a fantastic programme out here.

A lot of yearlings in Europe will have had corrective measures such as screws etc. Would that be as big out here?

It's not as big but it's coming along. There were certain yearlings at the Select Sale and it was clear that they had had screws. It's funny, you don't have to declare that but you do have to declare if they have had any OCD surgery. At the Selection Sale, you need to declare where any surgery took place where an anaesthetic was used. So there are different rules for each sale. I could name a number of horses who had screws and went on to win Classics. There are plenty of great-looking horses, with great legs and a great walk, but they turn out to be bloody poor racehorses. Plenty! So I think we can get a little bit caught up on that. Say you are walking down the high street and you see this beautiful suit and you say, 'I want that'. Okay, it looks great, but it might not keep you warm.

You might be better off going down the road and buying something half the price. It might not look as good but it will do a better job of keeping you warm and it costs you less money. In fact, the cheap horses are earning the very same as the expensive horses do here in Japan. Possibly, the best value to be had at the sales here in Japan is by buying the horses who RNAd. Lord Kanaloa (Jpn), the champion sprinter and sire of Almond Eye (Jpn), is a famous example of a high-class horse who failed to sell in the ring.

Would you say that breeding the Japanese Derby winner Deep Brillante (Jpn) stands out as your greatest achievement in the sport?

It's a big achievement when you can survive in business, educate your family and make a living. Anybody who can do that is doing well. But I would consider being granted my JRA owner's licence as my biggest achievement. That was huge because there was a lot of red tape there and I was aiming to be the first foreigner ever to be granted a JRA owner's license. On a lighter note, another thing I am proud of is the decriminalisation of wearing shorts to the sales!

Can you paint a picture as to how difficult it was to get your foot on the ladder here in Japan?

Okay, well one of the first things I saw an opportunity to make money on was pinhooking here in Japan. So buying foals or yearlings in Japan and bringing them back and selling them in Europe or the USA. We had some astounding profits and some shocking losses doing that. But it was 25 or 30 years ago now when I tried to buy my first horse in Japan and, at that time, you didn't have to register to buy a horse but you did have to bring a deposit. That deposit was roughly $25,000 in cash. Now, there was a lovely filly at this particular sale and I can remember thinking, 'I need to give this a go.' Typical Irishman, I arrived at the sales company with my brown paper envelope with $25,000 in cash inside and there was pandemonium. Here was a foreigner wanting to buy at the sales. What do we do? They brought me upstairs to the office. So here I was, sitting at this long rectangular boardroom table, with a room full of white envelopes stuffed with $25,000 in cash along with my brown envelope. I was left thinking, why is my brown envelope not being treated the same as all of these white envelopes? Is my money not the same? The sales company would only let me buy the horse if I didn't use my own name. I needed to go through an agent. Also, I had to get a guarantor. That pissed me off big time. I was being treated differently, which wasn't very nice. But I ended up buying the horse and I kept the name card of that filly and got it framed. So, if you ever come to Paca Paca, you will see that hanging proud on the wall. That is where this all started. From there, I spent a lot of time reading up on what I could and couldn't do at the sales and in racing in Japan. It spurred me on.

Deep Brillante | Racingfotos.com

Don't piss off an Irishman!

I had to harangue people but I got a lot of support. I even got support from within the Irish government. To become a JRA owner, it's very difficult. Cont. p8

It's much easier to become an owner in Europe than it is over here. The amount of paperwork that you have to submit is enormous. Most people wouldn't go through with it as it is very invasive. I spent years getting ready for this as there are all sorts of parameters you need to hit in terms of pay and taxes before you could be accepted. When the time came to consider my application, I thought, 'do you know what would be a big help here is a little bit of a word of endorsement for Harry Sweeney'. Through a friend of mine who happened to be working in the Government press office, I asked if there would be any chance that our then Taoiseach Bertie Ahern would write a letter of support. The good news came and I was told to draft something and send it in. I drafted something, where it mentioned the great relationships between Japan and Ireland, some of the horses who had been based at the Irish National Stud for Japanese clients and the fact that Rathbarry had a Japanese-bred stallion at the time. And then at the end, by the way, Harry Sweeney is currently applying for his JRA owner's licence and we consider this to be very important. Something like that. It was addressed to the president of the JRA but, when Bertie and his colleagues sent it over, they crossed out the president of the JRA and wrote, 'Dear Mr Koizumi' instead. Who was Mr Koizumi? He was the Japanese prime minister at the time. So the letter came through in the diplomatic bag where diplomatic communications are shared. The ambassador gets it, he toddles down to the Department of Foreign Affairs, and then it gets circulated to the Department of Agriculture. It finally percolates down to the JRA. Here we have the Japanese and Irish prime ministers advocating for Harry Sweeney who is applying for his owner's licence. You couldn't make it up. So, when I said I had support, I had a lot of it. Brian Kavanagh supported me as well. I didn't do this entirely on my own and I am grateful for everybody who has helped me.

Lyons continued, "Coming here, you're lobbing into a proper stakes race against the boys and you are wondering what did she learn. She's just been so switched off at home since Cork and Colin [Keane] said that you can't get over her temperament. She got mashed out of the stalls and then had to do it the hard way. She got to the front and parked and looked around. Maybe she'll improve and she needs to improve if we're going to keep going forward."

Looking ahead, the trainer added, "We'll see how she comes out of this race, but at the minute we're going to take on the boys in the [Aug. 19 G1] Phoenix Stakes. You need the temperament for the Group 1s and she seems to have that.

We'll stick to six [furlongs] and I would have thought she'll get further. She's going to be a [1000] Guineas filly and I'll be training her for the Guineas."

Babouche is the sixth foal and scorer produced by Listed Michael Seely Memorial Stakes victrix Pavlosk (Arch), herself a full-sister to Listed Prix Casimir Delamarre winner Rostova. Pavlosk is also a half-sister to the dual Group 3-winning G1 Gran Premio di Milano third Exhibit One (Silver Hawk), herself the dam of G3 Chunichi Shimbun Hai victor Maitres d'Art (Jpn) (Zenno Rob Roy {Jpn}) and Listed Sandringham Handicap runner-up Auction (Ire) (Mr. Greeley). Zarinsk's third dam Bold Empress (Diesis {GB}) is kin to multiple Group 1-winning sire Zafonic (Mr. Prospector) while her descendants also include stakes-winning G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches second Irish Rookie (Ire) (Azamour {Ire}), G2 Maurice Lacroix Trophy victrix Daring Love (Ger) (Big Shuffle) and G2 Oettingen-Rennen scorer Dapango (Ger) (Soldier Hollow {GB}). The May-foaled homebred bay is a full-sister to last year's G2 Minstrel Stakes, G3 Brownstown Stakes and G3 Cornelscourt Stakes victrix Zarinsk (GB). She is also kin to the stakes-placed Derevo (GB) (Dansili {GB}), a yearling filly by Expert Eye (GB) and a weanling filly by Bated Breath (GB).

ROYAL DRESS SPRINGS A SURPRISE IN THE MEADOW COURT By Tom Frary

Much improved this term since upped to a mile by James Tate, Saeed Manana's homebred Royal Dress (Ire) (Night Of Thunder {Ire}) went up another notch over another furlong on Sunday when capturing The Curragh's G3 Al Shira'aa Racing Meadow Court Stakes with no hint of fluke. Relishing being held up in rear off the strong tempo, the 16-1 chance was delivered by Ben Coen to overhaul American Sonja (GB) (Tasleet {GB}) passing the furlong pole and assert for a 2 3/4-length success in a noteworthy time.

Former sprinter Royal Dress, who had won the Listed Conqueror Fillies' Stakes at Goodwood in May and had a troubled trip when third in Epsom's G3 Princess Elizabeth Stakes at the start of June, was justifying her trainer's faith after a subsequent eighth in the G2 Duke of Cambridge Stakes at Royal Ascot later that month. "I'm delighted with that, I wasn't so happy when she was an unlucky third at Epsom or when the ground got a bit quick for her at Ascot, but everything went perfectly today," Tate said.

"We discovered at Ascot that it's not really that she needs the ground soft, she just needs a decent test of stamina," he added. "There's no way we'll be going back to a mile now after winning over nine furlongs today. A mile and a quarter would be ideal and on that kind of ground, you wouldn't even rule out a mile and a half."

Pedigree Notes

Royal Dress's dam Wadaa (Dynaformer), who is also responsible for the G3 Prix Six Perfections runner-up and G2 Cape Verdi third Wedding Dance (Ire) (Invincible Spirit {Ire}), is out of the owner-breeder's G3 Nell Gwyn Stakes winner and G1 Prix Vermeille runner-up Cloud Castle (GB) (In The Wings {GB}). Her three black-type winners include the G3 Winter Hill Stakes scorer Queen's Best (GB) (King's Best), in turn the dam of the G1 Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Turf heroine Queen's Trust (GB) (Dansili {GB}), and the listed scorer Urban Castle (Street Cry {Ire}) who produced the G1 Turf Classic, G1 Manhattan Stakes and G1 Hollywood Derby hero Domestic Spending (GB) (Kingman {GB}).

Cloud Castle, who is also the third dam of the G1 Pretty Polly Stakes heroine Thundering Nights (Ire) by Royal Dress's sire Night Of Thunder, is kin to the dual G1 Coronation Cup hero Warrsan (Ire) (Caerleon), the triple group 1-winning fellow sire Luso (GB) (Salse) and the Soviet Star mare Lunda (Ire), in turn the dam of the G1 Prix de Diane and G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches heroine Avenir Certain (Fr) (Le Havre {Ire}). Wadaa's 2-year-old full-brother to Royal Dress was a 120,000gns purchase by James Ferguson for Chris Waller at the Tattersalls October Book 2 Sale, while she also has a yearling colt by Kingman (GB) and a filly foal by Baaeed (GB).

THE BLACK-TYPE REVIEW By Tom Frary

The Curragh's G2 Romanised Minstrel Stakes saw Sheikh Mohammed Obaid Al Maktoum and Karl Burke's hot spell continue as the 4-year-old gelding Poet Master (Ire) (Lope De Vega {Ire}) dominated a substandard field in the seven-furlong test. The first foal out of the Listed Rose Bowl Stakes winner and G1 Cheveley Park Stakes-placed Madeline (Ire) (Kodiak {GB}) from the family of the G1 Pretty Polly Stakes heroine Thistle Bird (GB) (Selkirk), he is a half-brother to a 2-year-old filly by Iffraaj (GB) named Gulf Tiger (GB), a yearling filly by Pinatubo (Ire) and a filly foal by Dark Angel (Ire).

In Hoppegarten's G3 Furstenberg-Rennen, Stall Lintec's 6-year-old Best Of Lips (Ire) (The Gurkha {Ire}) bounced back to the form with a nose defeat of Tunnes (Ger) (Guiliani {Ire}), recording a sixth group win in the process. At La Teste de Buch, Haras d'Etreham were celebrating the Listed Prix la Sorellina success of their 3-year-old filly Pemba Bay (Fr) (Blue Point {Ire}) for the Nicolas Le Roch stable.

Becoming the eighth black-type winner for her second-crop sire sensation, the half-sister to three black-type performers headed by the G2 King Edward VII Stakes runner-up Tasman Bay (Fr) (Le Havre {Ire}) and granddaughter of the four-times group 1-winning Irish Oaks heroine Peeping Fawn (Danehill) was out on her own at the end of the mile contest. Her dam Purely Priceless (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) also has the unraced 2-year-old filly Calabiana (Ire) (Almanzor {Fr}) who was a €300,000 purchase by Jean-Claude Rouget at Arqana Deauville August and a yearling filly by Lope De Vega (Ire).

ANOTHER FRANKEL TDN RISING STAR AS JUDDMONTE'S RED LETTER STRIKES

By Tom Frary

Juddmonte's Red Letter (GB) (Frankel {GB})--Red Impression {GB}, by Dark Angel {Ire}) had already shown that she is a top-drawer prospect with impressive late fractions on her seven-furlong Curragh debut last month and merely confirmed that with another scintillating performance to become her sire's 42nd TDN Rising Star on Sunday. Narrowly denied by Ballydoyle's TDN Rising Star Lake Victoria (Ire) (Frankel {GB}) when storming home late on her racecourse bow, the Ger Lyons-trained homebred was sent straight to the lead this time by Colin Keane. Cont. p12

Red Letter opens her account with a stylish performance at the Curragh | Racingfotos.com

Never in any danger with her armoury of speed such a dramatic weapon, the relative of the G1 Prix de la Foret heroine Etoile Montante (Miswaki) powered through the last half mile with consistent 11-and-change sectionals. At the line, the 8-11 favourite had 4 1/4 lengths to spare over the 50-1 shot Indigo Dream (GB) (Havana Grey {GB}), who interestingly had been nine lengths behind the pick of the 2-year-old TDN Rising Stars in Bedtime Story (Ire) (Frankel {GB}) at Leopardstown on her debut. Ballydoyle's beautifully-bred Ballet Slippers (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}), the first foal out of Magical (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}), fared best of the newcomers a head away in third.

"It was no more than you would probably have expected from her after seeing her on debut," Lyons said of Frankel's fifth TDN Rising Star of 2024 alongside the aforementioned Bedtime Story and Lake Victoria as well as Gun of Brixton (Fr) and the G3 Prix du Lys winner and G1 Grand Prix de Paris third Delius (GB). "She stepped forward nicely and you'd expect her to win her maiden that way, so we're delighted with her."

"We'll see how she comes out of it before making any plans, as I don't think she's a 2-year-old and it's all about next year with her," the trainer added. "We'll let her tell me what we do with her, whether we bring her back--I'll tell Barry [Mahon] what I'm seeing at home and discuss with the [Adbullah] family about whether we come back for the [G1] Moyglare or something like that. She's done a lot quick, we are only in the middle of July and I thought I'd seen in the parade ring that she's very much on the leg. She looked raw going down to the start and it's pure raw ability what you are seeing out there."

Pedigree Notes

Connections of Red Letter will be hoping that their filly matches up to the sire's past TDN Rising Star luminaries Ylang Ylang (GB), Nashwa (GB), Onesto (Ire), Homeless Songs (Ire), Snow Lantern (GB), Quadrilateral (GB) and Veracious (GB). She is the first foal out of the listed-placed dam, a granddaughter of Wilstar (Nureyev) whose three stakes performers are headed by the aforementioned Foret heroine Etoile Montante. Also successful in the GII Palomar Breeders' Cup Handicap and GIII Las Cienegas Handicap during her spell Stateside, she is in turn the dam of the four-times group and graded-stakes winner and stakes producer Starformer (Dynaformer).

Wilstar, who is also the second dam of the GI Derby City Distaff Stakes winner Obligatory (Curlin) and the third dam of the G1 Dubai World Cup and GI Hollywood Gold Cup hero Country Grammer (Tonalist), is a full-sister to the listed scorer Viviana who produced the seven-times grade I-winning Sightseek (Distant View) and the GI Yellow Ribbon Stakes winner Tates Creek (Rahy). Red Impression's yearling colt and filly foal are also by Frankel.

The hitherto undefeated Fraise Des Bois registered a hattrick of 5 1/2-furlong victories at Tarbes earlier in the campaign and continued on an upward trajectory with a career high in this stakes debut. The eventual winner recovered from a stuttering start to track the leaders in fifth after the initial strides. Fanning wide to the stands' side off the home turn, she seized control with 300 metres remaining and powered clear inside the final furlong to trounce Imparable by a mightily impressive seven lengths.

Fraise Des Bois, who becomes the eighth stakes-winner for her sire, is the fourth of five foals and one of three scorers produced by a half-sister to G2 Prix de Malleret runner-up Fuse (Fr) (Teofilo {Ire}). The March-foaled bay is a full-sister to a yearling colt and kin to stakes-winning G3 Prix des Reservoirs and G3 Prix Vanteaux placegetter Around Midnight (Fr) (Almanzor {Fr}). The winner's third dam Sea Hill (Seattle Slew) is also the dam of G2 Prix de Malleret victrix and G1 Prix de l'Opera third Legerete (Rahy) as well as being the second dam of G1 Poule d'Essai des Poulains-winning sire Falco (Pivotal {GB}). Sea Hill is kin to G1 Prix Lupin-winning sire Groom Dancer (Blushing Groom {Fr}), Group 3-winning sire Tagel (Cox's Ridge) and to the dam of G1 Grand Prix de Saint-Cloud heroine Plumania (GB) (Anabaa) and G2 Prix de Royallieu winner Balladeuse (Fr) (Singspiel {Ire}). Balladeuse, in turn, is the dam of G1 Prix Vermeille heroine Left Hand (GB) (Dubawi {Ire}). This is also the family of G1 Prix Royal-Oak hero and last week's G2 Prix Maurice de Nieuil winner Double Major (Ire) (Daiwa Major {Jpn}).
