Q&A WITH CAROLINE HOWE OF THE HORSE WELFARE COLLECTIVE

by T.D. Thornton

Caroline Howe, a lifetime equine enthusiast who competes in the hunter/jumper discipline, is the founder and executive director of the North Carolina-based Horse Welfare Collective. She created the non-profit organization--which she operates by herself--in 2021 to bring transparency to the American horse slaughter industry.

Recent events--such as last week's news out of Florida involving the alleged slaughter of a Thoroughbred that was captured on a hidden camera--put TDN in touch with the Horse Welfare Collective. In a half-hour phone interview with TDN on July 29, Howe detailed what she is trying to accomplish with her efforts, with an emphasis on how the slaughter and the Thoroughbred industries overlap. A transcription of that conversation follows, edited for brevity and clarity.

TDN: Please explain the Horse Welfare Collective's mission.

CH: I founded the Horse Welfare Collective with the goal of really raising awareness about the U.S. horse slaughter industry and its impact on horse welfare, as well as public health, because there are public health implications with the U.S. horse slaughter industry.

MGISW CASA CREED TO MILL RIDGE

Four-time Grade I winner and New York favorite Casa Creed (Jimmy Creed--Achalaya, by Bellamy Road), who was retired earlier this month at the age of eight with a minor hind ankle issue, will stand at Mill Ridge Farm near Lexington, the farm announced Tuesday afternoon. Lee Einsidler and Mike Francesa campaigned the Bill Mott trainee over seven seasons to a record of 36-9-5-6 and earnings of $2,691,308.

Casa Creed has already arrived at Mill Ridge and will be syndicated. He will stand the 2025 season for $10,000.

"Casa Creed is a great addition here at Mill Ridge, joining Oscar Performance and Aloha West. Like so many of us in racing, we grew our regard for him over the years as he danced every dance at the highest level against the very best," said syndicate manager Price Bell.

Initially, I really had no idea that U.S. horses were being sent to slaughter. So I just started doing more and more digging into that, and I realized that there's really this lack of awareness out there about what's happening to a lot of our horses. And also, there's a huge lack of oversight from the federal and state and local levels.

TDN: A lot of people might think that when the federal government first started defunding the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA)'s ability to inspect horse-meat processing plants several decades ago, that helped to get rid of equine slaughter in our country because the plants couldn't legally operate without the inspections. But that's not the case?

CH: When Congress voted to not appropriate funds to the USDA to inspect horse meat that effectively closed the--I think there were three at the time--U.S. horse-meat plants. But horse slaughter is demand-driven. Plants [in other countries still] slaughter horses based on the consumer demand for horse meat and the by-products. So with the cessation of horse slaughter in the U.S., it didn't help from the global perspective of welfare for the horses, because there continued to be an international demand for horse meat. That meant U.S. horses were instead being shipped to Mexico and Canada.

TDN: But aren't there still safeguards in place to prevent or deter shipping of horses outside our country for slaughter?

CH: When 30 horses at a time are crammed onto an 18-wheeler and shipped 28-plus hours to Mexico or Canada, the USDA really doesn't have any resources or funding to actively review any kinds of safeguards, or welfare guards, or public health guards that are put into place, such as shipping certificates and health certificates.

They're also not able to enforce things like the Commercial Transportation of Equines for Slaughter Act, because there's a restriction of the use of federal funding to actually do that.

TDN: Your collective tracks horses of all breeds. To what extent are Thoroughbreds involved, and what would you like people in our industry to know about the situation?

CH: I want to start by saying that I think there are a lot of things that the Thoroughbred industry has started to do right. I think there's a lot more awareness about Thoroughbreds ending up in slaughter-market channels. Cont.

I don't want to discount that by any means. But I definitely want people to know I look at shipping certificates in my work for the Horse Welfare Collective, and I see lots of Thoroughbreds on the shipping certificates.

One of my first rescues was a Thoroughbred who was five years old and sold for $500,000 as a yearling. I reconnected that horse with their breeder. They were very happy [I did that], but they were crushed to learn the condition that horse was in, and that the horse was on its way to possibly being shipped to Mexico for slaughter.

So I want people to understand that it doesn't matter what your horse accomplished, how much money they made, how much money they didn't make. If you're not following them or doing your homework to make sure you know where they're going and where they end up, it's very possible they've been slaughtered or are in a horrific condition and on their way to being slaughtered.

It's also really important to understand where you're sending your horse in international markets. When you're selling a horse at Keeneland or Fasig-Tipton, and you're sending that horse to an [overseas] buyer, especially South Korea, they have a really hard time identifying where those horses go [after their racing careers].

I don't contact breeders so much any more to tell them about the conditions their horses are in, because it's honestly become so overwhelming I can't keep up.

TDN: Are actions by rescuers buying horses out of American "kill pens" helping to fill the gaps left by governmental non-enforcement?

CH: You have a lot of rescue awareness now, which is great. But now you have kill buyers really benefitting from this industry in a two-pronged way.

Number one, they're still selling to slaughter plants. But they're also marketing these "for slaughter" horses to rescues. [The buyers want to prey upon the fact that] the more dire these horses' conditions are, the more likely it is that they'll get rescued. But then the horses are well-built, such as Thoroughbreds and Quarter Horses, they're continuing to be shipped to slaughter plants because they're a more attractive physical specimen.

TDN: With specific reference to Thoroughbreds, are there geographic areas in the country where racehorses getting sent to slaughter are particularly problematic?

And this is a huge issue because this is where the lack of oversight comes in. People take Thoroughbreds from tracks or from livestock auctions and just kind of sneak them through the system. You used to be able to look at shipping certificates, and it's much harder to do that now [since the advent of] microchips.

Now the vets who are doing the health and shipping certificates are no longer required to put the breed of the horse or any tattoos or markers, because now they have the microchips. So now it's virtually impossible to trace if Thoroughbreds are going across the border, particularly to Mexico. There are no identifying specifics on their paperwork--just microchip numbers.

TDN: Some slaughter still takes place in this country in the form of black-market meat traders. In 2019, we reported on unsolved cases that seemed to fit this pattern in Florida, and there was another story in the Tampa Bay Times last week of an alleged Thoroughbred slaughter that is being investigated but has yet to result in any criminal charges being filed.

CH: This is something that is much more difficult to uncover and understand. Particularly in Central Florida, in the Ocala area, and Southern Florida, in the Miami area, there is a market for the underground horse-meat trade. There are populations of people who live there and consume horse meat. My understanding is that the majority of them are Cuban, South American, but I don't have any concrete data supporting that. One thing that I also don't think people realize is that big game farms import a lot of horse meat to feed tigers, et cetera, so you'll also find instances of horses being illegally slaughtered around big game parks.

TDN: In the Florida case from last week, a citizen took it upon himself to go undercover and infiltrate the alleged underground horse-meat trade. He purportedly captured the slaughter of a Thoroughbred in a video. When he turned his findings over to law enforcement, he wasn't pleased that his efforts did not yield immediate arrests, so he distributed his findings to the local media, resulting in broadcasts and published news stories. Law enforcement officials subsequently held their own news conference, and went on record saying that people who take undercover videos aren't helpful to obtaining convictions, because that type of evidence is problematic to introduce in court. What's your take on that situation?

CH: My take on it is to have empathy for every side. I always go back to just finding common ground. What's something we can all agree on? I understand the arguments on either side, and I think everyone has really good points [from which] you can find common ground and learn from this situation to say, "Hey, how can we do it right next time?" This is a product of people not communicating or being on the same page. So people try to take things in their own hands, and then, as a result, it's just wires being crossed.

So learn from this experience. Work with the USDA, work with the local government. Say, "In the future, what can we do to best help you prosecute people who are doing this illegally?" Most of the time, everyone has good intentions on the law enforcement side and on the animal welfare side. It's a matter of really embracing that and saying, "Hey, we all have one goal here. Let's work at this as a team, and understand that it's going to take compromise."

TDN: What can Thoroughbred industry participants be doing better to eradicate slaughter?

CH: Number one, allocating more funds to aftercare programs. And putting a little bit more into finding some concrete solutions for these horses who are, for instance, kind of broken after they've raced and can't go on to have other jobs; having kind of retirement scenarios for them.

I think it's also really important--and this is more ideological--just as a whole to understand that people get into raising and training and breeding because they love horses, and not losing sight of that. Realizing that when racing careers are over, these horses still have so much life to live.

If you bring an animal into the world, you need to follow him and take some accountability and responsibility for making sure that they end up in a good spot.

“Casa Creed is unique because he is the 'throwback horse' that this modern breed needs, and he could make a real contribution in the future,” said Lee Einsidler. “For my family and Mike Francesa to share six years together through this horse, traveling the world, racing and winning, nine times, at the highest level will never be replicated. Bill Mott and his family and his team allowed us to fulfill every dream and in the process, he grew a cult following with the public, especially Saratoga. And now, to have the opportunity to reproduce his quality at a farm like Mill Ridge with Headley and Price Bell allows us to start a new chapter and new dreams. We could not be more thankful.”

“I am very close with Lee Einsidler and to be able to share these incredible memories over six years through Casa Creed can not be put into words,” added Hall of Famer Mott.

THE X-RAY FILES, SEASON 2: BRIAN GRAVES

by Jessica Martini

The X-Ray Files, now in its second year and presented in cooperation with the Consignors and Breeders' Association, uses conversations with buyers and sellers to contribute to the dialogue on the sales and training process.

In his role as general manager at Gainesway, Brian Graves is preparing for a busy season of selling world-class yearlings, while also casting an eye ahead to entries for the November breeding stock sales. The yearling sales season--which opened with the Fasig-Tipton July sale, continues in upstate New York with next week's Fasig-Tipton Saratoga Sale and includes stops at Keeneland in September and back at Fasig-Tipton in October--completes a year-long cycle for Graves, who has also built a reputation as one of the leading weanling-to-yearling pinhookers in the country.

Graves took a few minutes away from the hectic schedule to discuss everything from his strategy for picking out foals, to observations on the yearling market and lessons he learned from his late father, Bill.

Graves's pinhooking success at the yearling sales--which includes a $1.2-million Saratoga yearling purchased for $500,000 in 2017--starts with his search for the right weanling prospects.

Brian Graves | Fasig-Tipton

“I just look for quality--what I have come to recognize as perceived quality,” Graves said of his foal shopping. “I like balance, I like a horse with a long neck, a horse with a sloping withers and deep girth. I like a horse with a good strong hip and I like a horse that has action, that moves and can show some action and athleticism. I think those quality type horses, honestly, do come in all shapes and sizes. They have those similar attributes, but they can be taller and they can be shorter and they can be by any sire in the world, really.”

He continued, “If you have been burned a few hundred times, you start to recognize what it is you like and what you've had success with. And you gravitate towards it.” Cont.

“That’s not to say that there aren’t a lot of horses in that sale that you miss and that somebody else does really well with. I just think it’s natural for people to gravitate to what they have done well with.”

Graves admitted the vet report can sometimes take a backseat to the individual in his buying decisions.

“It’s been my experience that most of the issues that you buy a foal with are not the issues that they have when you sell them,” he said with a chuckle. “So, I am pretty forgiving.”

And what about buyers the following year? Do they have that same attitude about the vet reports?

“What I have found is that when I find something that I think is a really nice foal with sire power and all those attributes that we like, and they vet perfectly, you really stick your neck out to obtain them,” Graves explained. “And little things that pop up can really hurt you. Conversely, if you are willing to take a chance on some of those foals that don’t vet perfectly, but they grow through it, then you can find yourself in a position to do fairly well. You get a square deal. You don’t have to pay quite as much.”

The weanling market has been particularly strong in recent year and Graves has found plenty of competition from fellow pinhookers, like Randy Hartley and Dean DeRenzo’s AAA Thoroughbreds, which was the leading buyer of foals at last year’s Keeneland November sale. The demand from both end-users and pinhookers continues to push the prices of those “perceived quality” weanlings higher.

“I think it’s at an all-time high, really,” Graves said of the weanling market. “I think that’s just a reflection of where the market and the U.S. economy and stock market are in general. All of them are at an all-time high. It just makes it tough because everybody has a lot of disposable income and the horses bring a lot of money. Sometimes over the last few years, you’re just finding that the returns aren’t as easy to make. But usually the best cure for that is a good recession. And then things level out again.”

On the selling side of the equation, the Beck family’s Gainesway is coming off a strong showing in 2023. The historic nursery was the leading consignor at the bellwether Keeneland

$2.3-million Into Mischief filly consigned by Gainesway at 2023 Keeneland September sale | Keeneland

September sale where it sold nine seven-figure yearlings.

Preparation for the fall auctions begins earlier than you might expect, according to Graves.

“We focus on the health of the horse early in the year,” he said. “Even in the winter time, the best thing you can do in advance of preparation is insuring the health of the horse. You can tell it in the health of the coat even as early as late winter when they start to shed out. If a horse is good and healthy on the inside, it’s going to gleam on the outside. I think a lot of people make the mistake of starting late where they just do the same thing for every horse and think it will all come right in the last 60 to 90 days. If you focus on the health of the horse right up to that point, and you have them gleaming in their coats before you start, you are in much better shape.”

The yearling market continued on at record or near-record levels in 2023, but polarization between demand at the top and results in the middle to lower markets continued to be an issue last fall.

“I think a lot of things are heading the right way, honestly,” Graves said of the yearling market. “You can’t really complain too much about where the market is in general. It would be nice to see more participation and perhaps maybe less polarization and the money spread out a little bit more across the entire population of horses.”

Of the increasing presence of partnerships as major players in the yearling market, Graves added, “I think it’s great for the market—the more participants the better. The SF and various other partnerships have become an interesting way for people to get involved in the business on a large scale with a diversified approach and be part of big horses and big stallion deals. It’s been a big lift for everybody. I would love to see more of it.”

Graves’s success in the industry has a strong foundation thanks to his father, longtime Fasig-Tipton official Bill Graves, who died in 2018.

“I think about my dad every day really,” Graves said. “He was a stickler for details. If I took something from my dad, it was that, from day to day, week to week, I look at a horse and I reevaluate. I say, ‘What’s he doing this week and what can I do to make him better?’ That’s because every time my dad would come out, he would criticize something else.” Cont.

"It's almost like he is sitting on my shoulder, saying, 'Geesh, Brian. Don't you think that horse has a little too much belly?' or 'Geesh, Brian do you think we should give him a five-day Panacur? He's not quite shining like the other ones?' or, 'Do you think we should use this supplement or that supplement?' and, 'How can we make this better?' I will probably never lose that."

Bill Graves | Photos by Z

Graves continued, "And my dad was a stickler for work ethic. You didn't get lazy around him. So I try to do that and pass that along to my children as well."

Of his three children, Graves said his oldest son, Will, is already following in the footsteps of his father and grandfather.

"My oldest son has signed on for sure," he said. "He's going to work for Eddie Woods after the September sale. He's graduated from college and he's carrying it on. The other two are yet to be determined."

Asked if he was happy to see the third generation set to tackle the racing and breeding industry, Graves said, "If you had asked me a year and a half or two years ago, I was scared to death and I would have said no. And here in the past six months, as I have seen a lot fewer breakdowns and a lot of things that I thought were detrimental to the sport changing, I am more optimistic."

MOTT QUESTIONS FLUNIXIN POSITIVE

by Bill Finley

When a Bill Mott-trained horse named Authorize (Curlin) broke down and had to be euthanized after an Apr. 26 race at Aqueduct, the trainer thought the worst was over with. Having a horse break down is excruciating for any trainer, but Mott was ready to move on. Little did he know that his problems were just beginning.

Tests were performed on Authorize and they showed that he was positive for the painkiller Flunixin, also known as banamine. Mott was incredulous. He did his own internal review, checking with vets, his assistants, grooms and others on his staff and concluded that there was no way his horse was given the medication. He had been given banamine some 60 days before the race to treat colic, but there's no way that drug would have stayed in his system that long.

"There's not a chance that Bill or anyone under his control gave the horse banamine," his attorney, Drew Mollica, said.

So what did happen? From the time the horse broke down until he was put down, his care was completely out of Mott's control. Mollica speculates that during this period, banamine may have been given to the horse, perhaps as a painkiller, to get him through the moments until he was put down.

"...it is not in dispute that euthanizing drugs were administered to the Horse post-race due to his injury and it is our contention the alleged Flunixin overage was caused by that administration and/or an error in that administration," Mollica said in a letter sent to HIWU in what is called a "Demand" letter, which asks for discovery and an investigation.

One thing seems clear: blood was drawn from the horse for the test after he was euthanized. The race went off at 3:32 p.m. Authorize was euthanized on the track, and his connections were notified that he would be tested at 4:31 p.m. "For fatalities," confirmed HIWU's Director of Communications Alexa Ravit, "the samples are collected after the horse is euthanized."

"If the tests were conducted after a third-party administration of medications when the horse was no longer under the control of the trainer, that breaks the chain of custody, and he cannot be held responsible," argued Mollica.

So what medications were administered?

"We've said to them, we've done our own investigation and now we want you, HISA, to do an investigation into your end of this because it's not in dispute that you and vets there in an emergency situation treated the horse," Mollica said. "All we're asking is that you investigate your procedures. They said we have no duty to investigate. That's contrary to HISA's mandate of transparency and fairness."

When some of the same questions Mollica has been asking were sent via email to HIWU by the TDN, Ravit did her best to fill in the blanks.

Ravit wrote that, "if the agency collects any sample(s) from a deceased horse, the sample collection shall not interfere with any life-saving treatment." She also wrote that "sample(s) should ordinarily be collected from the Covered Horse before it is removed from the relevant venue where it suffered a fatal condition, but otherwise may be collected at the location where the Covered Horse is transported to (e.g., veterinary clinic)." Cont

She added: "If a Covered Horse receives an Adverse Analytical Finding (positive test), HIWU reviews all veterinary records connected to that horse, including those associated with emergency treatments administered by a veterinarian(s), before determining whether to proceed with a Notice of a potential ADMC Program violation."

Does that mean that HIWU did in fact examine whether or not banamine was given to the horse as part of a emergency treatments?

Ravit continued: "More broadly, every positive test undergoes a preliminary investigation to verify its legitimacy, which would include whether a substance was given as part of euthanasia."

"When HIWU's Notice letters of a potential violation are sent to a Covered Person, they include the sample collection documentation from the day of the collection. Per HIWU collection procedures, when a sample is collected on a deceased horse, the veterinarian(s) who collected the samples are prompted to declare any known medications administered to the horse prior to the collection. This information is captured in a Supplementary Report and given to the trainer as part of the full sample collection documentation."

"For the Covered Horse Authorize, the NYRA vets declared that the horse was given euthasol, succinylcholine, and xylazine prior to the samples being collected. Banamine (Flunixin) was not declared as being administered in the Supplementary Report, nor was it recorded in the HISA portal by any other veterinarians. All of this information was given to the trainer and his defense counsel."

"Once HIWU's initial investigation is complete and the Covered Person is notified, the burden is then on the Covered Person to request a B Sample and/or provide evidence of source of the Prohibited Substance to demonstrate No Fault or No Significant Fault (as applicable). If the recipient of a Notice has additional information, they have multiple opportunities to present that information to HIWU for consideration."

"We haven't asked for anything crazy," said Mollica. "All we have said is that this is an odd situation. Remember, the horse was euthanized while not under Mott's care, custody or control. We want to know if this event could have caused this positive. It's not an unrealistic question."

Bill Mott | Walter Wlodarczyk

The penalties for a Flunixin positive are far from severe. There is just a $500 fine. Wouldn't it would be easier for Mott to pay the fine and move on?

"Bill says in a case like this, for the betterment of the game, shouldn't we all know what happened to this horse?" Mollica said. "Why not the transparency needed to answer the questions we have raised? It's just a $500 fine point and a half. Why spend the money? This is the problem with this system. Everybody bails out because it's ridiculously expensive to fight."

Mollica has requested a hearing, but the odds are against him and his client. Mott, at some point in time, will likely have to pay the fine and the banamine positive will be part of his official record. As a Hall of Fame trainer with a pristine reputation, he's not okay with that.

"It's a $500 fine," Mollica said.

"Let fairness be damned, walk away and take the penalty. Bill understands that he may not win, but he wants this story to get out there."

Ravit wrote that "HIWU cannot comment on this case beyond what is posted on the HIWU website," which is little. The website lists the name of the horse, the drug it was positive for and the date of the race in question.

Mollica doesn't intend to let it go at that.

"...given Mr. Mott's reputation and stakes that are involved for the industry as a whole, we demand that HISA and HIWU comply with this discovery demand and conduct a thorough investigation of its own into this alleged violation, because as stated above, it is clear that no one acting under or pursuant to Mr. Mott's agency and/or control administered Flunixin to the horse, period," Mollica wrote in his "Demand" letter. "Hence the sui genius nature of this matter demands a full HIWU investigation, and that the discovery requested herein be disclosed, as justice demands it, and racing as an industry deserves to know answers to the questions raised herein."

ANOTHER DAY, ANOTHER NEW ANTI-HISA FEDERAL LAWSUIT By T.D. Thornton

For the second time in five days--and for the seventh time in three years--individuals or entities under the control of the Horseracing and Safety Integrity Act (HISA) have filed a lawsuit in a federal court alleging that the law and its enforcement are unconstitutional.

This latest legal action took the form of a July 29 complaint in United States District Court for the Southern District of Iowa (Central Division) filed by Thoroughbred owner Joseph A. Kelly and owner/trainer Douglas L. Anderson against the HISA Authority, the Federal Trade Commission, and executives of both organizations.

"There have been several legal challenges to the Act's delegation of power to HISA," the complaint stated. "The United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit has twice declared that portions of the Act are unconstitutional under the private non-delegation doctrine; the Eighth Circuit currently has the issue under consideration; and the Sixth Circuit has upheld the Act over broad constitutional challenges. None of these cases, however, has directly addressed the Act's grant of authority to HISA to assess taxes or fees on industry participants.

"This case is solely about whether the Act's delegation of authority to a private entity to levy and collect a tax or a fee is constitutional and whether this private organization is even complying with the Act's requirement that any assessment be 'allocated equitably,'" the filing stated.

"This Court should declare that the Act's funding mechanisms is unconstitutional and permanently enjoin the defendants from enforcing it. Or, in the alternative, the Court should declare that HISA's assessment against Iowa horse owners is not equitable and thus [beyond legal power or authority]," the filing stated.

Asked to comment Tuesday on the Iowa lawsuit, a HISA Authority spokesperson relayed the same quote that the organization issued last Friday when news broke about a related unconstitutionality lawsuit initiated against HISA by eight horsemen in Oklahoma: "As with other litigation making similar claims, we will vigorously defend our ability to implement HISA's safety and integrity rules," the spokesperson emailed.

At issue are the HISA Authority's annual assessments to Iowa for 2023 (originally $1,040,576 but later reduced by the Authority to $953,400) and for 2024 ($1,187,942).

Coady

According to the complaint, "on June 20, 2023, HISA President and CEO Lisa Lazarus notified Prairie Meadows Racetrack and Casino, the only horseracing track in Iowa, that HISA determined that the proposal Prairie Meadows submitted to HISA for the allocation of the assessment 'among Covered Persons' had 'allocated equitably' the assessment [and that] this 'equitable allocation,' as determined by HISA, 'splits the assessment 50-50 between the track and horsemen.'"

The complaint stated that Lazarus's letter "did not define 'horsemen,' nor did it explain how the allocation was equitable."

A footnote in the complaint stated that the Authority's "Assessment Methodology Rule does provide a formula for how HISA will divide up the total assessment among the states, but it does not provide how HISA will equitably allocate that assessment among covered persons within the state."

The complaint then stated that, on Oct. 31, 2023, Lazarus sent a letter to the Iowa Racing and Gaming Commission regarding the 2024 assessment, in which she "urged the Iowa governmental body to voluntarily pay that sum."

Then, according to the complaint, "Starting in the spring of 2024, HISA began to put significant pressure on the Iowa Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association (HBPA) to voluntarily pay half of the assessment. HISA representatives told Prairie Meadows representatives that they were frustrated and angry that the Iowa HBPA had not yet paid the 2023 or 2024 assessment and that Iowa HBPA Executive Director Jon Moss had not spoken to HISA about it."

Moss is a lead plaintiff in the anti-HISA federal lawsuit that is currently awaiting judgment in the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals. That case, initiated in a lower court on Apr. 6, 2023, involves leaders of the HBPA affiliates in Arkansas and Iowa seeking to reverse the lower court's denial of a preliminary injunction that sought to halt HISA and its Anti-Doping and Medication Control program.

Moss, the complaint stated, wrote to Prairie Meadows as far back as June 2023 to make it known that, "the Iowa HBPA believes the passage of HISA and the corresponding creation of a non-governmental authority to govern horseracing is an unconstitutional delegation of government authority to a private entity and an unconstitutional encroachment of authority on the power of the State of Iowa." Cont.

The complaint stated that, "HISA's decision to allocate the 2023 and 2024 Iowa assessment '50-50 between the track and horsemen' was not based on any evidence or objective factors but was instead arbitrary, capricious, and an abuse of discretion."

The complaint stated that, "Plaintiffs are now forced to bring this lawsuit to stop HISA's assessments, which violate the Constitution's structure, the Due Process Clause, and the Act's requirement that assessments among covered persons be 'equitable.'"

The complaint continued: "These unconstitutional and unlawful actions are bad enough, but Plaintiffs' injuries are made worse by the fact that HISA has assessed and will continue to assess Plaintiffs and other industry participants for the millions of dollars in legal fees that HISA has unnecessarily incurred and will continue to incur to defend against HISA's unlawful actions and the unconstitutional Act."

'VIRGINIA WINS WITH HORSES' TV COMMERCIAL WINS TELLY AWARD

In conjunction with BES Studios, the Virginia Equine Alliance (VEA) was awarded a Telly Award in recognition of a sixty-second TV commercial titled "Virginia Wins With Horses" that was submitted in the annual competition which honors excellence in video and television across all screens.

The BES Studios and the VEA received a "Silver" in the Travel & Tourism Regional TV category--the highest achievement awarded by the Telly awards judging panel, a body of over 200 executives from television networks, production companies, global agencies, immersive content studios, and streaming platforms.

The Telly Awards annually showcases the best work created within television and across video, for all screens.

The VEA, whose mission is to sustain, promote and expand the horse breeding and horse racing opportunities in the Commonwealth of Virginia, initiated a multi-media campaign titled "Virginia's Economy Wins with Horses".

BES Studios acquired hours of footage to select from via day-long video shoots at four locations--Colonial Downs Racetrack in New Kent, Shenandoah Downs Racetrack in Woodstock, Eagle Point Farm in Ashland and Audley Farm Equine in Berryville. Footage highlighted the state's economy, tourism, jobs, careers and agriculture.

The VEA then forged a strategic partnership with Virginia Broadcast Solutions (VBS) and the Virginia Association of Broadcasters (VAB) to develop a comprehensive advertising plan which aimed to highlight the economic and social impacts of the Virginia horse industry, emphasizing its integral role in contributing to the Commonwealth's prosperity.

"We are thrilled with the results so far and look forward to continue to promote the agribusiness, economic benefits, jobs, and vibrancy of Virginia's bustling horse racing and breeding industry through creative spots," said Jill Byrne, the VEA's Vice-President of Strategic Planning who served as the media campaign's Project Manager. "It's also a great honor to receive a Telly Trophy on behalf of a great team here led by BES Studios and all the horses and horsemen that contributed to the project."

SUMMER BREEZES:

NY-Bred Munnings Filly Gets Going at Saratoga

Some of the most highly anticipated races during the summer racing season are the 'baby' races during the boutique meetings at Saratoga and Del Mar and at Ellis Park, which attract its fair share of high-priced offspring from a variety of top national outfits. Summer Breezes highlights debuting 2-year-olds at those meetings that have been sourced at the breeze-up sales earlier in the year, with links to their under-tack previews. Here are the horses entered for Wednesday at Saratoga:

SWEET ANNIVERSARY (f, 3, Solomini--South Wing {MSP, $203,432}, by Dixie Brass) romped home a 15 3/4-length winner of her 5 1/2-furlong debut at this oval July 4. The 1-4 favorite chased the pace from third down the backstretch. She rolled up five wide over the sloppy going as City Blocks (Enticed) snuck through the wide open rail to take over at the top of the lane. Sweet Anniversary collared that foe late and inched away to win by one length. The winner is a half to Mr. Kringle (Shakin It Up), GSP, $248,640. KNIGHTOFCARAVAGGIO (f, 2, Caravaggio--Knightwithputnam, by Unbridled's Song), the 5-2 favorite, took the lead into the first turn and was in front despite racing greenly on the backstretch as the quarter went up in :24.07. Clear through a half in :49.14, the gray filly again raced awkwardly nearing the stretch, but kicked away once straightened to graduate by 1 1/2 lengths. Poema (Kantharos) chased her home in second. Knightwithputnam produced a filly by Vekoma in 2023 and a filly by Yaupon this year. ## RAUSING TO OFFER FULL-SISTER TO ALPINISTA AT TATTERSALLS BOOK 1

A full-sister to Alpinista--pictured after her Arc win--will sell during Book 1 of the Tattersalls October Yearling Sale | Scoop Dyga

A full-sister to G1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe heroine Alpinista (GB) (Frankel {GB}) will be offered by her breeder Kirsten Rausing's Staffordstown Stud during the first day of Book 1 of the Tattersalls October Yearling Sale, the sales company announced on Tuesday. Book 1 of the sale takes place from Oct. 8-10 in Newmarket.

Kirsten Rausing said, "Lanwades and Staffordstown are proud to present world champion Alpinista's own sister at Tattersalls October Book 1. The filly, an exceptional individual whose pedigree speaks for itself, represents the pinnacle of my over 50 years of breeding. As I retain her dam, own sister and two half-sisters, I hope the filly will herself contribute to the fantastic, continuing success of my 'AL family'."

Foaled Feb. 11, the filly is out of the listed winner Alwilda (GB) (Hernando {Fr}), making her a full to six-time Group 1 winner Alpinista, and a half to the listed winner Alpenblume (GB) (Kendargent {Fr}). The filly's granddam is the champion and Group 1 winner Albanova (GB) (Alzao), herself the dam of four group/listed winners, one of which, All At Sea (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}), foaled G1 St Leger winner Eldar Eldarov (GB) (Dubawi {Ire}). The filly's great granddam, Alouette (GB) (Darshaan {GB}) was a stakes winner and third in the Moyglare Stud Stakes. Cont. p3

She, too, was a Group 1 producer, with nine winners anchored by the top-level winners Albanova and Alborada (GB) (Alzao). This family's touchstone is Alruccaba (Ire) (Crystal Palace {Fr}), who had four winning fillies--Alouette, Last Second (Ire) (Alzao), Jude (GB) (Darshaan {GB}) and Alleluia (GB) (Caerleon)--go on to foal Classic or Group 1 winners

Tattersalls chairman Edmond Mahony added, "We visited Staffordstown earlier in the year and it was impossible not to be impressed by Alpinista's yearling sister. She is an exceptional individual with a truly outstanding pedigree and a wonderful tribute to her breeder Kirsten Rausing who has nurtured this family for many generations producing champion after champion. There cannot be a thoroughbred breeder anywhere in the world who would not covet this particular yearling and we are honoured to be offering her on behalf of Kirsten Rausing at Book 1 of the 2024 Tattersalls October Yearling Sale."

'HE'S THAT MUCH BETTER THAN THE REST': MOORE STEERS KYPRIOS TO NEW TRACK RECORD IN THE GOODWOOD CUP by Tom Frary

All the drama involving Ballydoyle's Kyprios (Ire) (Galileo {Ire})--

Polished Gem {Ire}, by Danehill) hopefully seems to be firmly in the past as the monster stayer returned to the Sussex Downs for a second G1 Al Shaqab Goodwood Cup, setting a new track record to put the cherry on top. Sent up by Ryan Moore to keep tabs on the cat-and-mouse leading duo from the outset, the 8-13 favourite needed niggling at various stages to close the gap but quickly responded each time and by the time he found himself in front two out the contest was already decided.

Sent clear from there, the Moyglare homebred continued at his own high tempo to record a sixth victory at the highest level in a time over six seconds below the standard, a remarkable feat on the clock considering this great race's honour roll. The John and Thady Gosden-trained pair Sweet William (Ire) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) and Gregory (GB) (Golden Horn {GB}) followed him home, beaten four lengths and a head, respectively.

"He cruised it--with that turn of foot he has it's over in the blink of an eye and every race he seems to perform, so on we go," part-owner Michael Tabor said. "He has to be right up there with the best we've had--he ranks very high."

Since his opening Group 1 salvo in the 2022 Gold Cup, Kyprios has scaled the mountain and been deep in the valley and had his life-threatening injury finished his career he would still be remembered as one of his stable's finest stayers having won this, the Irish St Leger and the Prix du Cadran by a scarcely-believable 20 lengths. Cont. p4

His two comeback defeats last autumn could be excused and after mastering Trawlerman (Ire) (Golden Horn {GB}) at Royal Ascot was able to stamp his authority on this affair missing his biggest rival.

Marginally quicker than the previous best time recorded in this prestigious affair by the giant Yeats (Ire), he has now officially entered a sacred realm in this category. “Kyprios an incredible horse,” O’Brien said. “All the people around him, credit to them. It is the team that makes it happen. I am so delighted for them. He’s a very special horse. He has so much class, really he’s going along in second gear all the time.”

“It wasn’t easy for Ryan because he nearly slipped on the top bend and Ryan was always trying to gather him and help him,” he added. “An incredible ride on an incredible horse--we know he stays well but he has a lot of class. The Gold Cup is a very important race for him every year and we will mind him for that. We thought if he was okay today, we might bring him back to an Irish St Leger again. If we got him through that, we’d have him for next year.”

Kyprios | Goodwood Racecourse

“We have to be respectful of him and to him, because if you saw where he came from, it’s hard to believe that he is here today,” he continued. “He did find the undulations of the track a little more challenging than he did before, but I couldn’t say enough great things about him. People go through very tough times in life and this horse is a perfect example of the animal side of that--we thought he couldn’t come back but he did come back. So genuine, he wears his heart on his sleeve every day.”

O’Brien admitted to concerns beforehand. “He sweated a lot today and didn’t stop sweating, probably because it is so warm, so we were a bit worried about that,” he explained. Cont. p5

O'Brien added, "He was a little different to how he normally is, so we were so relieved when it was over. He does have an eye for a filly now, which is what you would expect at his age. Between the heat and the fillies, everyone did well to get him here today and for him to do what he did."

Moore added, "It took a while to get there, but my horse obviously stays well. It was very smooth and we've obviously done the track record. The only thing that happened was that he slipped on the top turn, then he was just on the back foot and dropped away from the horse who was going to take me into the race. He still got there with two to run going very easy and he was a bit idle in front there, but it was a tremendous performance."

"He does save a little bit for himself, really, but when you get it out of him, he's got that speed there," he added. "He is just very high class. This fella is very, very good. He wouldn't show you how good he is, but he's very good. I remember Aidan ringing and telling me what happened to him at the end of his good year. I never thought we would see him run again, so all credit to everyone at Ballydoyle for a massive effort. It is fun to ride him because you know he's that much better than the rest."

John Gosden said of the second and third, "They were two solid runs behind a very good horse. Races like the Lonsdale Cup at York and Doncaster Cup will be the direction we will go. I am pleased with Gregory. He scoped perfectly going into Royal Ascot, but not perfectly coming out of it. That can happen when you have everything spot-on. Something can just come along. I don't know where Kyprios will go next. Irish St Leger? But we won't be afraid to take him on again. They all have off days, you know."

Pedigree Notes

Kyprios is the last foal out of Moyglare's remarkable broodmare Polished Gem (Ire) (Danehill), whose 10 progeny include an astounding eight black-type winners including Galileo's dual G1 Irish St Leger heroine Search For A Song (Ire), High Chaparral 's G1 Prince of Wales's Stales-winning sire Free Eagle (Ire), the G2 British Champions Fillies & Mares S. winner Sapphire (Ire) (Medicean {GB}) and multiple group scorer Custom Cut (Ire) (Notnowcato {GB}).

Polished Gem is a daughter of Affirmed's G1 Irish 1000 Guineas heroine Trusted Partner and a full-sister to the G1 Matriarch S. heroine Dress To Thrill (Ire) related to the Group 1-winning juveniles Thunder Moon (Ire) (Zoffany {Ire}) and Vert De Grece (Ire) (Verglas {Ire}). As if all that wasn't enough, the third dam is the champion 2-year-old filly Talking Picture (Speak John) who acts as ancestress to countless stakes winners including Forgotten Rules (Ire) (Nayef) who was third in the Gold Cup.

AOMORI CITY POWERS TO VINTAGE STAKES GLORY AT GOODWOOD

By Sean Cronin

Godolphin's €260,000 Arqana August graduate Aomori City (Fr) (Oasis Dream (GB)--Setsuko {Fr}, by Shamardal), who came back off a June 13 debut triumph at Nottingham with a third-place finish in Newmarket's July 11 G2 July Stakes, stepped forward in impressive fashion to secure a stakes breakthrough in Tuesday's G2 HKJC World Pool Vintage Stakes at Glorious Goodwood.

The 2-1 favourite was slick from the gates and occupied a forward position along the rail in third through halfway. Biding his time in the straight, he was the last of seven to come off the bridle inside the final quarter-mile and quickened stylishly once seizing control with 150 yards remaining to easily hold the late rattle of Wolf Of Badenoch (GB) (Pinatubo {Ire}) by 1 3/4 lengths. Aomori City becomes the second winner of the seven-furlong contest for Charlie Appleby, whose first was 2019 hero and the runner-up's sire Pinatubo (Ire) (Shamardal).

"William [Buick] obviously decided to angle out just before the cutaway and he was travelling well," said Appleby. "When they've ran to that level over six, you are going to be confident they are going to travel well and he did that. Once Will decided it was time to give him a kick, he had plenty of horse under him. On the evidence of what we saw in the July Stakes, we thought coming into this race that stepping up to seven would suit, and he cut it at a decent level there. We had toyed with the idea of the [G1] Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf for Aomori City over the past couple of weeks, but Al Qudra went and won on Saturday and he's probably a horse we'll pinpoint towards that race. It doesn't mean we can't run two in it and we'll keep all options open for Aomori City. Today was a marked improvement on what we saw before. He was neat and had to be brave there. He got tightened up on the turns and that does no harm in educating them towards the Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf.

Buick added, "Being where we were was always the plan, but we just had to tussle for our position at the top of the hill and round the turn. It gave a bit of pressure, but he was very brave and got stuck in. Aomori City is a pretty well-seasoned two-year-old and knows his job, which is always a help round here, and I was really pleased with his performance. He sort of does what he has to in front, but I thought he won well and I think he'll improve."

Wolf Of Badenoch's trainer Hugo Palmer said, "He still looks like a work in progress and I am absolutely delighted. He was the first one off the bridle and ultimately the winner just got first run on him. He is a horse with a really exciting future and he will stay a mile this year. His dam stayed 14 furlongs and he might get 10 furlongs next year. He has some nice entries, we put him in the [G1 Vincent O'Brien] National Stakes in Ireland and we will put him in the [G1] Prix Jean-Luc Lagardere as well now."

AUDIENCE OUTCLASSES LENNOX RIVALS IN STYLE AT GOODWOOD

By Sean Cronin

Lumbered with a five-pound penalty for his G1 Lockinge Stakes victory, Cheveley Park Stud's 5-year-old gelding Audience (GB) (Iffraaj {GB}--Ladyship {GB}), by Oasis Dream {GB} was just too good for his rivals and surged to an impressive four-length triumph in Tuesday's G2 HKJC World Pool Lennox Stakes at Glorious Goodwood.

The homebred bay, who finished last of six last year, was let go at generous odds of 4-1 coming back off a fifth in Royal Ascot's G1 Queen Anne Stakes and stalked the pacesetter Art Power (Ire) (Dark Angel {Ire}) in second through the early fractions of this seven-furlong test. Looming large in the straight, he cruised to the front on the bridle approaching the quarter-mile marker and powered clear in style to easily defeat Art Power by daylight. Marc Chan's 'TDN Rising Star' Kinross (GB) (Kingman {GB}) failed in his quest to secure a record-breaking third renewal, but posted the fastest closing sectionals to finish one length further adrift in third.

"It is amazing, Audience has grown up and defied a five-pound penalty," said John Gosden. "He has matured a lot mentally and had the hood off today. Rab [Havlin] really knows him, he rides him most mornings and nearly takes him home with him. Audience has always had the talent and [Cheveley Park Stud owner] Mrs [Patricia] Thompson kindly let us keep him in training as a lead horse to Inspiral, which he did in the Lockinge. It was not a fluke when he won the Lockinge and the mile at Ascot was too stiff last time. He will go to the [G2] City of York Stakes now. He was second to Kinross in it last year and will go there without a penalty, which helps. We have also put him in the [G1] Prix de la Foret and last year's good-to-firm ground would be perfect, but we wouldn't want traditional Parisienne autumn ground. He has the speed for a race like the [G1] Breeders' Cup Mile at Del Mar and he could be a horse for it. Travelling would be no problem."

Audience | Goodwood Racecourse

Cheveley Park Stud's Chris Richardson continued, "Plainly, Audience didn't quite stay the stiff mile at Ascot. I was thrilled that Pat Thompson was there at Newbury when he won [the Lockinge] and I'm sorry that they are not here today. Defying a penalty has certainly given everyone plenty to think about. We will probably go to York and then it's all to play for. We'll look at all those races over his favoured seven furlongs. I think he's grown up, he continues to improve and taking the hood off today made a big difference. That was very much Rab's suggestion and we have stuck with Rab the whole way through."

Tim Easterby was delighted with the performance of Art Power and said, “He is a pony, but he has an unbelievable temperament and tries like hell. We thought he’d run well and we wanted to run him over a fast seven somewhere. It would have been better if it had been softer, but he goes on any ground.”

Pedigree Notes

Audience is the fourth of eight foals and one of six winners from as many runners produced by Listed City Plate victrix Ladyship (GB) (Oasis Dream {GB}), herself a half-sister to Listed Zawawi Cup runner-up Kinsman (GB) (Exceed And Excel {Aus}) out of G1 Sun Chariot Stakes and G1 Lockinge Stakes heroine Peeress (GB) (Pivotal {GB}). He is full to a weanling filly and kin to this term’s G3 Greenham Stakes winner Esquire (GB) (Harry Angel {Ire}), G3 Dick Poole Fillies’ Stakes winner Dark Lady (GB) (Dark Angel {Ire}) and the unraced 2-year-old filly Kinswoman (GB) (Mehmas {Ire}).

SISTER TO WICHITA A NEW TDN RISING STAR FOR BALLYDOYLE by Tom Frary

The Galway Festival’s seven-furlong fillies’ maiden on the Tuesday card has proved a rich font of budding luminaries and Ballydoyle’s Bubbling (Ire) (No Nay Never--Lumiere Noire {Fr}, by Dashing Blade {GB}) looked no exception as she became the stable’s latest TDN Rising Star. Fourth behind the stable’s subsequent G3 Silver Flash Stakes runner-up Exactly (Ire) (Frankel {GB}) on debut at Leopardstown earlier this month, the full-sister to the G1 2,000 Guineas runner-up Wichita (Ire) travelled with ease under Wayne Lordan stalking the early pace.

Sent forward to take control a furlong from home, the 320,000gns Tattersalls Book 1 graduate opened up to score by five lengths from the Paddy Twomey-trained newcomer Lady Mairen (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}), with a neck further back to the Andrew Slattery-trained Abazaami (GB) (Mohaather {GB}) in third.

Lordan was impressed by the winner, who becomes No Nay Never’s 10th TDN Rising Star, with the likes of the stable’s Little Big Bear (Ire), Ten Sovereigns (Ire) and Aesop’s Fables (Ire) the best so far. “She had a lovely run at Leopardstown, where she was a little bit raw early and stayed on very well in a good maiden and that experience stood to her,” he said. “She had a look around when she got to the front and is a nice filly. She hit the line well and these maidens always throw good horses.”

This is the race that Aidan O’Brien won with the dual 1,000 Guineas heroine Hermosa (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) and which two years ago was won by another subsequent Classic heroine in Tahiyra (Ire) (Siyouni {Fr}). This year’s G1 Irish Oaks third Purple Lily (Ire) (Calyx {GB}) also won it 12 months ago for the Twomey stable. Others to take it en route to big things are Legatissimo (Ire) (Daneshill Dancer {Ire}), Sunspangled (Ire) (Caerleon)--Aidan O’Brien’s first winner of it who went on to take the G1 Fillies’ Mile--and Dance Design (Ire) (Sadler’s Wells).

“She obviously had an eye-catching run the last day at Leopardstown and the form has worked out well,” stable representative Chris Armstrong added. “She made eye-catching progress in the last half-furlong then and really hit the line hard. She is a typical No Nay Never, has lots of natural pace, she really quickened right to the line and Wayne gave her a lovely ride. She really sprinted the last furlong and while she is still a bit babyish, that trip is perfect for her.”

“She is bang in the mix for the [G2] Debutante Stakes now and for all those good seven-furlong races. We had her brother Wichita, but we ended up never seeing his full potential so this is an exciting filly to have. When you look down through the roll of honour at Galway, it is a good track for educating horses, you need a proper one to win and Kyprios won here many years ago.” Cont. p9

SUSSEX BATTLE OF THE DUBAWIS AFTER ROSALLION DEFECTION by Tom Frary

After the withdrawal of leading 3-year-old miler Rosallion (Ire) (Blue Point {Ire}), Wednesday's G1 Qatar Sussex Stakes at Goodwood has suddenly and drastically changed shape with the race's two main protagonists now fairly equally-rated sons of Dubawi (Ire). If the 3-year-olds hold sway over their three older rivals as the betting suggests in this G1 Breeders' Cup Mile qualifier, this will come down to a good old-fashioned Coolmore-Godolphin face-off between Aidan O'Brien's Henry Longfellow (Ire) and Charlie Appleby's Notable Speech (GB).

Both TDN Rising Stars with contrasting profiles, they have shown enough to suggest that last year's runner-up Facteur Cheval (Ire) (Ribchester {Ire}) will have his work cut out to give away eight pounds weight-for-age. Cont. p10

Henry Longfellow | Getty Images

While Henry Longfellow was winning the G2 Futurity Stakes and G1 Vincent O’Brien National Stakes at two, Notable Speech had yet to see a racecourse but after some impressive performances on Kempton’s Polytrack during the winter and spring Godolphin’s homebred surged to prominence with a win on his sensational turf debut in Newmarket’s G1 2,000 Guineas.

Denied the chance to contest the Guineas due to the overwhelming presence of stablemate City Of Troy (Justify), Henry Longfellow was instead sent to ParisLongchamp and suffered a cramped experience stuck in a pocket for the majority of the G1 Poule d’Essai des Poulains. Their paths met in the G1 St James’s Palace Stakes and this time the Ballydoyle colt had ample space to express himself only to be run down by the emphatic and brilliant winner Rosallion.

Notable Speech was only seventh at Royal Ascot, where the soft early pace led to his undoing. Whereas at Newmarket he was able to benefit from the strong fractions and close past a Rosallion who had already used up his unrivalled acceleration, Ascot was the other side of the coin and his prospects here will probably depend on how quick the tempo is in the early stages. What we did discover there was the fact that Henry Longfellow is a quick animal, with his closing two furlongs of :23.24 only just outside that recorded at the meeting by Baaeed (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) in the Queen Anne two years earlier.

If Henry Longfellow is allowed his own way up front, it could spell doom for the remainder and Ryan Moore will know exactly when to press the button so it could be that William Buick has no option other than to go forward on his chief rival to avoid the tactical compromise he suffered at Ascot.

Aidan O’Brien is in confident mood. “We always thought he was a special horse and we were over the moon with his run at Royal Ascot,” he said. “If we’d got a clearer run in France, we would have known more going into Ascot so we went there just learning about him. There’s every chance he’ll progress. We think, as he’s only really had the one proper run this season, that there is more to come.”

According to Appleby, the one thing that is in no doubt heading to this important clash is Notable Speech’s wellbeing. “I think he looks a million dollars and I will be disappointed if you don’t like the way he looks on Wednesday,” he said. “Nothing came out in the wash after Ascot, the vet did all the checks and nothing came of it. It was one of those strange races to watch to be fair and the way the race was run, it was always going to be very hard from where we were. You can spot horses lengths in maidens and handicaps, but you can’t spot Group 1 horses lengths round Ascot at that level and we were always having to chase.”

“We gave him a bit of a break and from there on he hasn’t missed a beat,” he added. “I couldn’t have faulted him the way he went into Ascot, but his work has been very good at home again and he is showing all the right signs. He’s showing the signs of what we see on the racetrack--his speed, he’s got an electric turn of foot and he’s been showing us that over the last few weeks. I’m looking forward to it.”

How Much of a Facteur is the Cheval?

Team Valor International and Gary Barber’s Facteur Cheval (Ire) (Ribchester {Ire}) caught a few by surprise with his notable effort behind Paddington (GB) (Siyouni {Fr}) in this on heavy ground 12 months ago, but had firmly established himself as a genuine top-flight runner by the time he was winning the G1 Dubai Turf in March. Paying the price for chasing his over-exuberant compatriot Big Rock (Fr) (Rock Of Gibraltar {Ire}) up the centre of the track in Royal Ascot’s G1 Queen Anne Stakes, he should be a different proposition back here but has crack 3-year-olds to tackle once again. Cont. p11

On the comeback trail when third in the Queen Anne, Sheikh Ahmed Al Maktoum's talented Maljoom (Ire) (Caravaggio) should already be a Group 1 winner having endured ill fortune in the 2022 G1 St James's Palace Stakes. Despite that, he would be readily discounted here were it not for the fact that William Haggas is prepared to try him against the best and has fitted blinkers for the first time.

"We are putting a pair of half-cup blinkers on him. He worked in them last week and he impressed me," Haggas explained. "They are not there to frighten him, but they will help his concentration. He's going to find it tough against the three-year-olds, but he's getting his confidence back and he's in really good shape. I hope the ground continues to dry out, as the faster the better for him. I think he'll be competitive."

More Goodwood Delight...

Also at Goodwood on Wednesday are two Group 3 contests in the Molecomb Stakes for 2-year-olds over five furlongs and the Oak Tree Stakes for fillies and mares over seven. The Molecomb sees Wathnan Racing's Listed Dragon Stakes winner Aesterius (Ire) (Mehmas {Ire}) take on Rockcliffe Stud's Listed Empress Stakes winner and G2 Prix Robert Papin third Celandine (GB) (Kingman {GB}), with Victorious Racing's impressive course-and-distance winner Soldier's Heart (GB) (Havana Grey {GB}) an intriguing candidate as the 425,000gns top-priced colt at Tattersalls October Book 2.

Wathnan's European racing adviser Richard Brown said of Aesterius, "We were delighted with him at Sandown and I think he has plenty of speed, so we're sticking at five furlongs. It's a big field, so we're going to need some luck, but he's a straightforward horse with a great temperament--he has a very relaxed demeanour which will stand him in good stead."

Trainer Ed Walker said of Celandine, "She's in flying form and is taking her racing unbelievably well. She seems to be getting bigger and better and stronger with it. She's been busy, but she looks a proper two-year-old and I think coming back in trip will be a benefit."

In the Oak Tree, Sheikh Ahmed Al Maktoum's G1 Falmouth Stakes runner-up Jabaara (Ire) (Exceed And Excel {Aus}) joins battle with Sangster and Babington's G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches runner-up Kathmandu (Ire) (Showcasing {GB}), with the lurker perhaps being Valmont's Stop The Cavalry (GB) (Lope De Vega {Ire}). She impressed when making a successful winning return in a Chester earlier this month and it is interesting that Ralph Beckett is prepared to take this leap with her.

Trainer Roger Varian said of Jabaara, "She's in good form and I think she will like the test of the Oak Tree. She is drawn a bit wide, which is a slight negative, but I think she is in good condition and she's in good order, so hopefully she will put in another strong performance."

TEN DECLARED FOR THURSDAY'S NASSAU, OPERA SINGER AND EMILY UPJOHN TO FACE OFF IN CLASH OF THE GENERATIONS

By Sean Cronin

Coolmore and Westerberg's G1 Irish 1000 Guineas and G1 Coronation S. placegetter Opera Singer (Justify) and supplementary entry Emily Upjohn (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) are the leading lights left after 10 of 12 overnight nominees stood their ground for Thursday's G1 Qatar Nassau Stakes. Opera Singer, last term's impressive G1 Prix Marcel Boussac winner, is on course to make her first start beyond the one-mile distance while it will be dual Group 1 winner Emily Upjohn's first visit to the Sussex Downs venue. The latter's Team Gosden stablemate Inspiral (GB) (Frankel {GB}) and Zinlo Syndicate's 'TDN Rising Star' Purple Lily (Ire) (Calyx {GB}) were the only absentees at Tuesday morning's declaration stage.

Thursday's £665,000 renewal of the near 10-furlong contest also marks the first appearance of G1 Prix de Diane heroine Sparkling Plenty (Fr) (Kingman {GB}) since she caused a stir at last month's Goffs London sale. Al Shaqab Racing parted with £5-million for 50% of the 3-year-old distaffer in the immediate aftermath of a staggering £8.1-million final bid at the Kensington Palace Gardens fixture. Al Shaqab also stumped up the £40,000 fee to add Ralph Beckett trainee Doha (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}), a stakes-placed daughter of dual Arc heroine heroine Treve (Fr) (Motivator {GB}), before last Friday's supplementary deadline and she will likely be utilised as a pace regulator for Sparkling Plenty. Beckett also has G2 Lancashire Oaks third Lady Boba (GB) (Lope De Vega {Ire}) engaged. Cont. p12

Sheikh Ahmed Al Maktoum's G1 1000 Guineas heroine Elmalka (GB) (Kingman {GB}) finished two places behind Opera Singer when fourth in Royal Ascot's G1 Coronation Stakes last month and, like that reopposing rival, will go beyond the one-mile trip for the first time. Coronation Stakes fifth See The Fire (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}), the third representative of her sire, returns off a fourth behind City of Troy (Justify) in this month's G1 Eclipse Stakes at Sandown. The field is completed by Michael O'Flynn's Lumiere Rock (Ire) (Saxon Warrior {Jpn}), Omar Jackson's Novus (Ire) (Dandy Man {Ire}) and Hughie Morrison trainee Stay Alert (GB) (Fastnet Rock {Ire}).

THE OLYMPIC GAMES SEND WARNING TO HORSE RACING

Scandals involving top equestrians have ignited fierce debates about animal welfare at the Olympics. As comparisons to horse racing's more controversial practices emerge, TTR AusNZ's Vicky Leonard discusses how all equestrian sports face mounting pressure to address these issues head-on, requiring strong leadership to ensure robust practices that can uphold public acceptance.

It's the grand stage of the Olympics, where the thunderous applause for our elite equine athletes should be deafening, but instead, it's muffled by controversy.

The recent removal of revered British dressage rider Charlotte Dujardin from the Olympics after a leaked video of aggressive whip use during a coaching session years ago has sparked fierce debate. As if that wasn't enough drama, the FEI's retroactive yellow card to Brazilian eventer Carlos Parro for training misconduct--prompted only by PETA's intervention--adds more fuel to the fire. And let's not even start on the social media comments.

Here's the scary part: a portion of the equestrian community still thinks the villain is the person who leaked the Dujardin video.

It's no secret, animal sports are teetering on the edge of a precipice. Instead of the Olympics showcasing the glory of equine athletes, the FEI is grappling with public backlash.

The real issue isn't the exposure of these problems but the neglect of welfare considerations in the first place. To state the obvious, if the incident never happened, there'd be no video to leak.

And these incidents are blaring alarms for all equestrian sports.

Addressing The Real Issue

Blaming extremists and whistle-blowers (no matter their questionable motive) for the added scrutiny is like exclusively blaming the iceberg for Titanic passengers dying. Sure, the iceberg was the direct hit, but if the captain did his job properly, the iceberg would have been avoided. If the ship had been built with balanced consideration of the risks posed, it would never have sunk after hitting the iceberg. Even having enough lifeboats on board would have helped save passengers.

A strong sport that can withstand challenges has strong leadership looking out for vulnerabilities. It's built with solid welfare rules and regulations, rigorously enforced to withstand the scrutiny of the everyday Australian who simply wants to be comfortable knowing the sport has the best interest of the horse in mind. And just as lifeboats could have saved lives on the Titanic, transparency and accurate data can safeguard our sport. It allows us to educate the public and proudly defend our practices from a position of strength when misinformation arises.

But ignoring genuine problems won't make them disappear; they'll pop up when we're most vulnerable, often with more significant consequences.

What's Horse Racing's "Iceberg"?

We probably have a few icebergs--practices that simply can't withstand the scrutiny of the everyday Australian.

Take the whip, for instance, as the tip of the iceberg where meaningful conversation needs to start. Imagine hitting a dog in a park with a padded whip (or even a pool noodle)--the outrage from any witness would be immediate and justified. Yet, we defend whip use in horse racing. Cont. p13

Yes, the whip is padded. Yes, jockey use is tightly regulated. And while there's no conclusive scientific evidence that the whip is a welfare issue, try explaining that to 27 million Australians who would banish you to Siberia if they saw you hit your dog with one.

There's no doubt the whip should be carried for safety reasons, but justifying its persistent use to the public presents more than a mere education gap—it's a deep values chasm; a fundamental disconnect between our sport's practices and the expectations of everyday Australians. Addressing this issue isn't about conceding one point that triggers a slippery slope to our final demise, but about aligning our values with the public's ethical standards so we can survive and thrive.

Charlotte Dujardin | Getty Images

Another key vulnerability is the lack of transparency around welfare and aftercare investment. Trying to address any public perception challenge without accurate information is like trying to save passengers with not enough lifeboats. We are working our hardest to counter misinformation with Kick Up, yet in New South Wales we don't even have clarity on very basic information such as Equine Welfare Fund spending, or how many horses are rehomed each year.

As the Olympics incidents show, and ongoing public scrutiny around horse racing continues to grow, the common person won't accept anything less than an unwavering commitment to equine welfare – before, during and after their sporting careers.

But without our captains acknowledging the icebergs and reorienting the ship, equestrian sports are only going to become increasingly vulnerable.

It's time to demand our leaders navigate these treacherous waters head-on and ensure a future where our equine sports are celebrated.

Dubawi (Ire), Frankel (GB), Kingman (GB), Lope De Vega (Ire), Sea The Stars, Siyouni (Fr), and Wootton Bassett (GB) head an Orby Book 1 sire profile to rival any major international sale, while siblings to a host of Group 1 winners as well as Group 1 dams can be found throughout.

Commenting on publication of the catalogue, Goffs group chief executive Henry Beeby said, "Irish thoroughbreds are celebrated worldwide and our aim throughout the Orby inspections was to work with leading breeders to hand pick a more concise selection of elite Irish yearlings for Ireland's National Yearling Sales. We are thrilled to now present a Book 1 catalogue of significantly stronger quality to meet the ever-increasing global demand at Orby and are extremely grateful to our vendors for sending a greater share of their best to Goffs."

He added, "Unique to Orby, all yearlings in Book 1 and Book 2 are eligible for the Goffs Two Million Series in 2025 featuring Europe's richest two-year-old race and the Goffs One Million Bonus Series. ROSALLION TO MISS SUSSEX STAKES DUE TO RESPIRATORY INFECTION

Star miler Rosallion (Ire) (Blue Point {Ire}) will miss the Qatar Sussex Stakes at Goodwood on Wednesday due to a respiratory infection.

Runner-up to Notable Speech (GB) (Dubawi {Ire}) in the 2,000 Guineas on his three-year-old debut, Rosallion went one better in the Irish edition before turning the tables on his Newmarket conqueror when landing the St James's Palace Stakes at Royal Ascot.

Richard Hannon's colt was again set to clash with Notable Speech, who disappointed at the royal meeting, and the St James's Palace runner-up Henry Longfellow (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}) in the Group 1 feature on day two of the Qatar Goodwood Festival.

However, he was officially declared a non-runner shortly after 11am on Tuesday, with a respiratory infection put forward as the reason for his defection.

Hannon said, "We are very disappointed to release the news that Rosallion will be a non-runner in the Sussex Stakes tomorrow at Goodwood. He has got a slight respiratory infection, and just isn't his usual self at home.

"It has not been a difficult decision to make, considering how incredible he has been for the whole yard and how much he means to the team and to his owner. We have to put his welfare at the very top of our priorities.

"He will miss this one, but there is still a big chunk of the season to come, where he will be able to be the horse we all know and love."

TATTERSALLS IRELAND RELEASES SEPTEMBER YEARLING SALE CATALOGUE

Simon Kerins | Tattersalls Ireland

Tattersalls Ireland released its catalogue for the September Yearling Sale, which features 555 lots and takes place on Tuesday 24 and Wednesday 25 September, with Part II taking place on Thursday 26 September where 275 yearlings are catalogued.

The €250,000 Tattersalls Ireland Super Auction Sales Stakes has long been a feature of the sale, and will offer the connections of two-year-olds catalogued in the September Yearling Sale, the opportunity to compete at the 2025 Irish Champions Festival, with prize-money being offered to 10th place.

The vendor of the winning horse in the Tattersalls Ireland Super Auction Sales Stakes will receive an Overlander Two-Box for one year and will be presented with the vehicle at the Curragh.

Commenting on the release of the September Yearling Sale catalogue, CEO Simon Kerins said, "Due to the outstanding success of last year's sale, which was the standout sale of 2023, the profile of the September Yearling Sale is improving year on year. This year, we experienced unprecedented demand from vendors, which is extremely encouraging as it shows that they are choosing the September Yearling Sale over alternative sales. Their decision has allowed us to formulate a strong catalogue full of quality, giving purchasers the confidence that this is the strongest catalogue we have ever produced for this sale."

QATAR GOODWOOD FESTIVAL TO BE SHOWN BY A RECORD 32 BROADCASTERS

A total of 180 countries will be able to view the Qatar Goodwood Festival, which runs from Tuesday through Saturday, the racecourse announced on Tuesday.

The festival, which features three Group 1 races, will be available to an expanded audience through the efforts of the Racecourse Media Group (RMG), the HBA Media (HBA) and Goodwood Racecourse. For the first time ESPN/Disney+ and SuperoSport will show the full festival for the first time, while first-time broadcasters include Racing.com (Australia) Sportsnet (Canada), Transvision (Indonesia), NTV (Mongolia) and Eurovision (Europe). Audiences in UK and Ireland will be served by ITV, Virgin Media, Racing TV, while the Far East will enjoy coverage via Green Channel (Japan) and HKJC, Cable TV, TVB and Now TV (Hong Kong). Broadcast crews from Fanduel (US), Sky Racing (Australia), HKJC (Hong Kong) and Al Kass (Qatar) will be on course to bring live coverage from the Sussex Downs.

Clerk of the Course and Director of international racing at Goodwood Racecourse, Ed Arkell, said, "The Qatar Goodwood Festival is now firmly embedded as one of the major events on the international racing calendar--and global TV exposure is pivotal to this. We are delighted for the record exposure garnered by RMG and HBA Media and that more countries than ever before will be able to see what is sure to be a terrific week of racing."

ALICE PROCTER LEAVES INTENSIVE CARE, BUT FACES A 'LONG JOURNEY'

Amateur jockey Alice Procter, who injured her spinal cord in a Cartmel fall earlier this month, has left intensive care, the Injured Jockeys' Fund (IJF) announced on Wednesday.

The 21-year-old was riding Uggy Uggy Uggy (GB) (Saddler's Rock {Ire}) for trainer Keiran Burke in a female riders' handicap hurdle on July 20 when the fall occurred, and has since undergone surgery.

The IJF said in a statement on Tuesday, "Amateur jockey Alice Procter has now left Intensive Care at the Royal Preston Hospital.

"As a consequence of her fall, she sustained an injury to the spinal cord in the thoracic region which is affecting the lower half of her body. This will require further careful evaluation to guide future treatment and rehabilitation.

"Alice is extremely grateful for the skill and care of the hospital medical team and for the messages of support from her friends and colleagues across the industry."

A GoFundMe page was been set up for Procter with an initial goal of £5,000 by trainer Keiran Burke's staff. It has currently received £15,899.

Burke said, "To have already raised so much money once again highlights how brilliant the racing community is in times such as this.

"It really does highlight that in circumstances such as this, racing rallies together brilliantly."

A statement posted by Alice Gregory on the page reads, "While Alice excels in the saddle and was injured doing something that she loves best, she is also an integral member of Burke's Whitcombe Stables team in Dorset where not only does she ride out and provide brilliant care for the horses, but is invaluable in the office making entries and socialising with owners.

"Alice faces a long journey in so many ways, but the purpose of this GoFundMe page is to make that journey just that little bit easier, allaying some financial worries that she doesn't deserve to endure and meaning that if there is something that she needs to purchase urgently, she has the means to do so."

Also a half to the former Charlie Appleby runner Victory Dance (Ire) (Dubawi {Ire}), who was second in the G2 Superlative Stakes, and full-brother to the dual group-placed TDN Rising Star Skellet (Ire), he will have to be smart to deal with Marc Chan's Starzintheyes (GB) (Starspangledbanner {Aus}), a Ralph Beckett-trained relative of Crystal Ocean (GB) (Sea The Stars {Ire}) and Hillstar (GB) (Daneshill Dancer {Ire}) who was second in the hot Newmarket July Festival maiden won by TDN Rising Star Field Of Gold (Ire) (Kingman {GB}).
