RACING'S FACTIONS SHOULD HEED SINFIELD'S SHINING EXAMPLE OF COLLECTIVE SPIRIT

Kevin Sinfield with his late friend and team-mate Rob Burrow

By Paul Hayward

On the final day of his latest gruelling ultra-marathon challenge to fight motor neurone disease (MND), Kevin Sinfield drew his support staff together to talk about teams.

Teams in sport, he reminded us, share many glories: trophies, medals, money, victories, praise. That brand of happiness is shared by players, coaches and fans. But the team that works to help others or fight a disease has a greater purpose. In the second half of his life, after a distinguished career in rugby league, Sinfield says he has found his true calling.

In November this year, racing lost the popular jump jockey Steve Jobar to MND at 75. Jobar won the 1980 Triumph Hurdle for David Elsworth on Heighlin and became a master saddler and carpenter when he left the weighing-room.

When Jobar's MND was diagnosed his friends rallied round. A charity day at Newbury attended by 450 people raised almost £200,000 for the MND Association. Jobar is not racing's only connection with the illness, which also claimed the trainer Jeremy Hindley in 2013.

DEATH ANNOUNCED OF LEGENDARY INGLIS AUCTIONEER PETER HEAGNEY

Renowned auctioneer Peter Heagney has died, Inglis reported in a statement on X on Sunday.

Heagney started his career selling livestock with Dalgety's in South Australia and went on to travel the world as a freelance auctioneer until becoming a full-time Inglis employee in 1994. Memorably, Heagney was the one with the gavel when the great Black Caviar (Aus) (Bel Esprit {Aus}) sold for A$210,000 at the 2008 Inglis Melbourne Premier Yearling Sale. He retired from Inglis in 2019.

"It is with great sadness we confirm the passing of our dear friend and long-time colleague Peter Heagney, who passed away this afternoon," began the statement from Inglis on X.

Paul Hayward

The late Rob Burrow, Sinfield's Leeds Rhinos team-mate, and Stephen Darby, the footballer still living with MND, found an outlet in racehorse ownership.

Horse racing has an outstanding record for supporting the falling and the fallen. Never does the sport look more united than when a rider takes a terrible fall or tragedy strikes at the game's extended family. The Injured Jockeys Fund is a beacon of support and rehabilitation that shames many better-funded sports.

It may be a leap to say this, but perhaps some of racing's eternally feuding factions could stop to consider the power of the teamwork all around them. They wouldn't need to look far to see the common ground that unites those working in racing. If the game can bond so tightly to help Graham Lee--paralysed in a fall at Newcastle--maybe the tribes could prioritise collectivity over self-interest every now and then.

I thought of Jobar during Sinfield's gruelling runs round Glasgow, Belfast, Hull, and from Liverpool to Wrexham, Gloucester to Bristol, and around many other far-flung points. Sinfield's fellow runners, cyclists and support staff are a tight-knit bunch utterly committed to raising money for MND research so that future generations can be spared its indignities.

Doubtless nobody reading this will need any lectures about charity work. Almost everyone you speak to does something for someone. The huge growth of marathon running for example is underpinned by those spurred into action by seeing a family member or friend cut down.

But Sinfield has mastered the art of urging people on in plain English that fosters a fellowship between the well and the unwell. "We all have a choice in this," he said on his fifth annual extreme challenge. "We can sit back and accept it or we can try and change it.

"We can all do a little bit. And what that little bit looks like is different for all of us. That can be a little bit for dementia, a little for cancer...[or] whatever illness people have a real affinity or relationship with. It can be reaching out to someone who needs a hand for Christmas. If we all do a little bit it can add up to a massive bit."

Never does the sport look more united than when a rider takes a terrible fall or tragedy strikes at the game's extended family

What started as an attempt to help Rob Burrow through his struggle has grown into a fund-raising juggernaut to eradicate one of the planet's most evil afflictions.

Yes, evil. MND is detestable. One by one it strips away all human capabilities: moving, speaking, swallowing, breathing. It will have done much or all of this to Jeremy Hindley and Steve Jobar, far from the public gaze. There will be others from racing we don't know about. Previously many with MND went home and pulled the curtains to suffer unseen and even conceal the cause of death.

Together Burrow, Sinfield and the late Doddie Weir have encouraged people with MND to connect publicly and join the remarkable fund-raising drive. Along the roads on Sinfield's runs, people with MND are visibly and deeply affected by being part of a community and by his self-sacrifice (this time he ran much of the 240 miles dragging one leg, after picking up a bad calf injury three weeks before the start).

The campaigns led by Sinfield and Weir are heading towards a combined total of £40m raised, not far behind the £50m the last Conservative government pledged to find a cure, after being shamed into action by the publicity garnered by Sinfield, Weir and many others.

In Liverpool on day one of Sinfield's seven ultras, the former Liverpool and England footballer John Barnes intuited the strength of mass fund-raising campaigns. He said: "You can't measure those relationships between people. That's when you've got to dig deep for each other. That's what the heart is all about."

On one stop I spoke to an NHS carer whose MND patient had died after seven years. The carer, Katie, ran a marathon in her honour, with a photograph of the lady who had died pinned to the back of her running vest. When her knee gave out during the marathon, she kept going by touching the photograph on her back.

There's no trophy for that, no prize-money and no medals, but it's teamwork.

SHADES OF DO DEUCE AS ADMIRE ZOOM DOMINATES ASAHI HAI FUTURITY

Japanese champion Do Deuce (Jpn) (Heart's Cry {Jpn}) is set to bring the curtain down on his glittering career next weekend when he bids to repeat his 2023 success in the G1 Arima Kinen at Nakayama, but it was all about the emergence of a future star on Sunday as his stable-mate, Admire Zoom (Jpn) (Maurice {Jpn}), won the G1 Asahi Hai Futurity Stakes at Kyoto in the manner of one who could be another leading light for trainer Yasuo Tomomichi.

It was in this race in 2021 that Do Deuce gained the first of his five Group 1 wins, beating the subsequent G1 Mile Championship winner Serifos (Jpn) (Daiwa Major {Jpn}) by half a length, and Admire Zoom was arguably even more impressive in the way that he ran away from the second betting choice, Museum Mile (Jpn) (Leontes {Jpn}), in the closing stages of this year's contest.

Admire Zoom broke alertly and took advantage of an inside draw to join a three-horse rally for the early lead, before settling nicely behind Daishin Ra (Jpn) (Satono Diamond {Jpn}) in second. He moved up to challenge Daishin Ra on the home turn and his potent turn of foot soon had his rivals toiling in his wake. At the line he was two and a half lengths clear of the hitherto unbeaten Museum Mile, who ran on nicely to pull the same distance clear of Lance of Chaos (Jpn) (Silver State {Jpn}) in third place. Daishin Ra stuck to his task well to fare best of the rest ahead, one place ahead of race favourite Arte Veloce (Jpn) (Maurice {Jpn}). The G3 Saudi Arabia Royal Cup winner was held up in an attempt to settle him in the early stages, before meeting traffic when trying to mount a challenge early in the straight.

Tomomichi is now a three-time winner of the Asahi Hai Futurity, having also struck with Admire Mars (Jpn)--who was successful in 2018 for the same owner, Junko Kondo--in addition to the aforementioned Do Deuce. For jockey Yuga Kawada it was his fourth success in the race after those of Danon Premium (Jpn) in 2017, Grenadier Guards (Jpn) in 2020 and Jantar Mantar (Jpn) last year.

"I'm glad that the colt was able to finish the season at a good note," Kawada said of Admire Zoom, who coped admirably with the step up in grade on his return to Kyoto, following a fourth-place finish on his debut and a three-length victory on his second start, both over the same course and distance.

"His last race was also very impressive and I knew he had great potential to win this one too. However, he's not the easiest horse to keep in control so I was careful to deal with that. Today, he was in good rhythm coming into the last corner so I was able to bring out his best performance and I knew then we were unbeatable. As I've said, he does need to be handled carefully, but he has outstanding ability to have a great future ahead."

Pedigree Notes

Admire Zoom is the sixth individual Group 1 winner produced by Shadai Stallion Station resident Maurice (Jpn), with the others including Osaka Hai hero Jack D'Or (Jpn) and Sprinters Stakes scorer Pixie Knight (Jpn). He is out of the Listed winner Daiwa Zoom (Jpn) (Heart's Cry {Jpn}) who, in turn, is out of the Listed-placed Fornalia (Jpn) (Capote), a half-sister to the GI Spinaway Stakes and GI Matron Stakes heroine Strategic Maneuver (Cryptoclearance). Admire Zoom is one of three winners from four runners out of Daiwa Zoom and the first to gain black type.

WHAT HISA HAS GOTTEN RIGHT, AND WHY IT IS SO IMPORTANT

Sarah Andrew

The Week in Review by Bill Finley

It's understandable if you're not exactly a fan of the Horseracing Integrity and Safety Authority (HISA). Since its inception there have been many bumps along the road. They didn't think things through when it comes to how they would handle drug positives and provisional suspensions, ignoring how likely it is that the positives were not the case of trainers trying to cheat but of environmental contamination. They went after some trainers who got positives but clearly weren't cheating. Some of the cases were heartbreaking.

In October of 2023, colleague T.D. Thornton wrote about small-time trainer John Pimental and his problems with HISA and HIWU. Here's what Thornton wrote: "Horseracing Integrity and Welfare Unit (HIWU) descended upon John's stable and upended his world: one of his horses had tested positive for 193 picograms per milliliter of methamphetamine, a street drug of abuse that is classified as a 'banned' substance in racing, meaning it is never supposed to be found in any horse."

In the meantime, HISA, for the most part, has not caught any trainers whose miraculous transformations of horses that come into their barns suggest they are cheating.

THORPEDO ANNA UNDERGOES SURGICAL PROCEDURE ON JAW

Trainer Ken McPeck confirmed Sunday that Thorpedo Anna (Fast Anna), leading candidate to be named the champion sophomore filly and Horse of the Year for the 2024 season, underwent a procedure this past week to remove a 'small splinter of bone' in her jaw.

HHH Racing Podcast (@hhhracingpod) first reported the news and was subsequently confirmed by McPeck on the platform.

"To be clear, she is a very strong filly to gallop, at some point she had a sore inside her mouth we watched and it wouldn't heal," McPeck said on X Sunday. "After the Breeder's Cup thinking time off it would heal, it didn't. Scan, X-rays found a small splinter of a bone was the problem and needed removed. It was done standing and expecting it will no longer be an issue. It's never easy. She's amazing." Cont. p5

Where there is smoke there is fire and there's still a lot of smoke out there. They need to start catching the real bad guys and not four percent trainers who obviously are playing by the rules. To its credit, HISA and HIWU have come to their senses and are no longer imposing draconian fines and suspensions on trainers who have had horse test positive for drugs that are used by humans or for other relatively minor offenses. Provisional suspensions are now reserved for much more serious suspensions.

Its many critics are still zealous in their efforts to get HISA declared unconstitutional by the courts, which would mean the end of HISA. Even NYRA and Churchill Downs, strong supporters of HISA since day one, have become thorns in the organization's side. The two tracks have filed suit against the organization in a dispute over the fees they are required to pay to support HISA.

Adam Coglianese

So HISA is not perfect, but it is doing more good for the sport than harm. The one issue that most threatens this sport's future is animal welfare and how many horses die on the track. The public has no tolerance for this and it's not hard to see a day when the public demands that the sport goes the same way as greyhound racing. PETA and other animal rights groups breathe down the sport's neck every time there is another high-profile breakdown or a cluster of injuries at a particular track.

The threat is real, but horse racing, for the first time in decades, can now say that a corner has been turned and that the fatality rate is way down and that the sport has never been safer. A lot of people and organizations share in the credit, but none more so than HISA.

At last week's Global Symposium on Racing hosted by the University of Arizona Race Track Industry Program HISA CEO Lisa Lazarus revealed some very promising numbers when it came to the breakdown rate.

Through Dec. 10, at tracks regulated by HISA, the number of breakdowns was .88 horse per 1,000 starters. At the same time last year, the number was 1.23. The Jockey Club began recording the number of fatalities in its Equine Injury Database in 2009, when the number was 2.00. Coming into 2024 the numbers had improved, but never has there been a shift like there has been so far this year. This will be the first time ever that the number of fatalities has dipped below 1.0 per 1,000 starters.

Again, it's more than just HISA. Many entities within the industry have done their part. But it's no coincidence that since HISA got up and running the numbers have never been better. If HISA is regulating a track and its safety measures, you can guarantee that no stone is unturned. Horses are constantly being examined by veterinarians and if the vets aren't 100% convinced that the horses are sound they will not be allowed to run or have a workout.

Colleague Dan Ross took a deep dive on this issue and provided evidence that the vets were largely getting it right, that many of the horses scratched pre-race were in fact experiencing problems that were about to send them to the sidelines. Here's what Ross had to say: "Indeed, in one dataset from the past five years, between one-quarter and approaching one-third of the scratched horses studied never made it back to race.

In a comparable group of supposedly sound horses, this rate of attrition was in the low single digits."

From HISA's critics you keep hearing that the law authorizing HISA is unconstitutional and that the authority must be disbanded. They have their reasons, but they are deliberately ignoring what is not conjecture but a very important fact. HISA has made this sport safer. The numbers don't lie.

It is not hyperbole to state that this sport is in a fight for its survival. Take away HISA and the safeguards it has implemented at racetracks across the country and we'll be right back where we were 10 years ago when the fatality rate was 1.89 per 1,000 starters. That can't happen and if it does racing's fight for survival might just turn into a losing battle. Nobody wants that.

The safety of the horses and their jockeys should be the sport's No. 1 priority. That's a lot more important than whether or not HISA is unconstitutional. The sport has made meaningful progress in that area and we can't go back now. To lose HISA could mean we move closer to losing our social license to operate. There's still a lot of work to be done and HISA can always do a better job, but this sport cannot allow it to go away, and it's time that its critics put safety first and stop their vitriolic challenges to something that is helping our beleaguered game.

Jose Ortiz On Fire

As well as he had been doing in the NYRA circuit, it seemed that Jose Ortiz would likely stay forever. But he decided to leave last year and ride in Kentucky and in Louisiana. Perhaps he was tired of being in his brother's shadow and/or having to battle Flavien Prat every day. But Ortiz clearly knew what he was doing. Through Saturday, he led the Fair Grounds standings with 26 wins, 14 more than runner-up Jareth Loveberry. Even more impressive, he is riding winners at a 38% clip. Jockeys just don't do that. His brother, Irad Ortiz Jr., is winning with 21% of his mounts this year. Prat, the favorite to win the Eclipse Award as the sport's top jockey, is winning at a rate of 22%. Granted, Irad and Prat are facing tougher competition in Florida, New York and California than Jose Ortiz is in Louisiana. Nonetheless, Jose Ortiz is well on his way to having an historic meet at Fair Grounds while reminding people that he's not the only Ortiz who has a gift.

And You Thought You Had Seen It All in This Game

Could a puddle of urine cost a horse a race? It actually almost happened Thursday at Aqueduct. Jockey Romero Ramsay Maragh looked like he had the race wrapped up as his mount Mama's Gold (Bolt d'Oro) was well clear of his rivals as the field neared the wire in the eighth race at the Big A. Suddenly, the horse propped and Maragh lost his balance and his feet fell out of the irons. He was hanging on for dear life as the field crossed the wire, but his horse was awarded the win because it carried all of Maragh's weight as it crossed the finish line. So what happened? According to the original chart, "Mama's Gold was being urged to stay on before jumping a puddle of urine 70 yards from the finish." Since, the chart has been changed and the word "urine" has been changed to "debris." Maybe someone was pissed off that the Equibase chart caller called it as he saw it.

LATE START AT AQUEDUCT SUNDAY FOLLOWING EMPLOYEE DISPUTE

Riders and valets at Aqueduct delayed the start of Sunday's card by 14 minutes after refusing to saddle and ride because of a dispute with management over the status of a jockey's room employee, according to DRF Sunday.

Valet Harry Rice told DRF that Fernando Rivera, who works in the jockey's room as a part-time valet/laundry person, was asked by NYRA not to come in Sunday. To offer some context, Rice explained that Rivera is close to having enough hours to join the union, which would make him eligible to receive benefits.

Sunday's races went forward following the slight delay after NYRA agreed to call Rivera to work.

Rice said the valets agreed to work Sunday, "but we want it rectified for when we come back," Rice told DRF.

Racing in New York will resume Dec. 27.

Union 814, representing the valets, have been working without a contract since December 2023.

In response to Sunday's delay, NYRA spokesman Pat McKenna said, "NYRA has negotiated in good faith with Local 814 for the last year to reach a new contract with the jockey valets. [Sunday]'s delayed start was the result of an action taken by the jockey valets to impact live racing at Aqueduct. As always, NYRA is focused on reaching an agreement rather than needless provocations that could negatively affect racing participants and the wagering public."

PLETCHER TARGETS PEGASUS WITH LOCKED AND CRUPI

TDN Rising Star Locked winning the Cigar Mile | Sarah Andrew

Graded-stakes winning stablemates Locked (Gun Runner) and Crupi (Curlin) have been confirmed to make their 2025 debuts in the Jan. 25 GI Pegasus World Cup Invitational at Gulfstream, according to trainer Todd Pletcher Sunday.

Eclipse Thoroughbred Partners and Walmac Farm's Locked raced four times as a 2-year-old, including a win the GI Breeders' Futurity and a third to champion stablemate Fierceness in the GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile but was knocked off the Triple Crown trail earlier this year with a knee injury.

The TDN Rising Star made his return with a seven-furlong optional claiming allowance victory Oct. 19 at Aqueduct, where he followed up with a 1 1/2-length triumph over Aug. 24 GI Forego winner Mullikin in the GII Cigar Mile Dec. 7.

"It was his first time going a one-turn mile. He broke his maiden at Saratoga out of the Wilson chute, but it gave us confidence the way he ran in the seven-furlong allowance race first time back to try the Cigar Mile, and I thought it was a good effort," Pletcher said. "He ran down a 4-year-old Grade I winner, so we're really happy with him. Hopefully, he continues to move forward. It was a solid race, good group of horses, and he was really good."

Repole Stable and St. Elias Stable's Crupi exits a fourth-place finish (promoted via DQ) in the Nov. 29 GII Clark, his fourth straight loss following a half-length victory in the 10-furlong GII Suburban June 8 at Saratoga.

Crupi has been third or better in 14 of 19 career starts with five wins and nearly $1.2 million in purse earnings. This year, the 4-year-old was runner up in the GI Whitney and GII Brooklyn and third in Gulfstream's Pegasus, beaten a total of 4 1/2 lengths by GISW National Treasure and Senor Buscador.

“I thought he ran pretty well last year,” Pletcher said. “He’s the kind of horse that needs things to set up for him. He needs a solid pace up front, but he’s been pretty consistent.”

Crupi was one of three 2024 Pegasus starters for Pletcher, along with Dynamic One (seventh) and Grand Aspen (11th). Prior to Life Is Good, he was fifth with Audible in 2019, and third with Neolithic and fourth with Keen Ice in 2017.

Raqiya winning the Goldikova | Benoit

Pletcher has yet to win the GI Pegasus Filly & Mare Turf since it was renamed in 2022. Run as the GIII Marshua’s River from 2001 to 2021, Pletcher won it three times with Bellavais (2019) and Sandiva (2016-17).

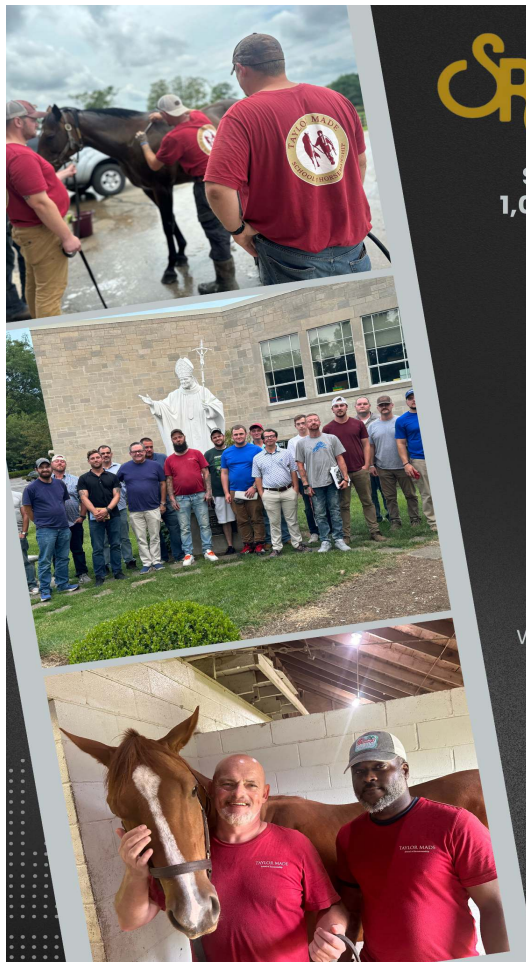

For next month’s race Pletcher has Shadwell Stable’s homebred Raqiya (Ire) (Blue Point {Ire}), winner of her North American debut in the Nov. 2 GIII Goldikova at Del Mar. Before coming to the U.S., the filly won four of seven starts, capped by the July 31 GIII Oak Tree at Goodwood. Raqiya is scheduled to have her first breeze since the Goldikova Monday Dec. 16.

“She came here after Del Mar and has settled in nicely,” Pletcher said. “That was the first time I’d seen her. I know they were trying to get her into the [GI Breeders’ Cup] Mile and that was sort of the backup plan, and she looked really good.”

She was last seen as the runner-up in a starter allowance under the Twin Spires Nov. 16.

The 6-5 choice here blazed out of the gate and took the field into the first turn. Making every pole a winning one up the backstretch and around the far turn, the 5-year-old controlled the tempo to the tune of :25.01 for the first quarter mile and :49.09 at the half-mile marker. Dana's Beauty clearly had more left in the tank entering the lane and she powered home to get her picture taken.

Since moving from Brittany Russell's barn into the care of Jose D'Angelo, Howard Wolowitz has won two of four starts--most notably jumping from a maiden win on the Gulfstream Tapeta in June to a win in the GI Franklin Simpson Stakes at Kentucky Downs in early Sept. Well beaten when cut back to five furlongs at Del Mar in the GI Breeders' Cup Turf Sprint, the son of Munnings stepped back out to six panels and returned to the Tapeta surface Saturday night to take Turfway's Holiday Cheer Stakes. The 2-1 favorite had to work for it though, breaking last of the 11 from the gate and rushing up the rail to stay in touch with the leaders past the half in :43.60. Kept under a sustained drive off the turn, Howard Wolowitz continued to edge away through the final sixteenth to win over early pacesetter Run Carson in a sharp final time of 1:08.10 which came just 0.07 seconds shy of the track record.

“I saw this race come up after the Breeders’ Cup,” said D’Angelo. “I think anywhere between six furlongs and 6 1/2 furlongs is perfect for him. He had a tough trip in the Breeders’ Cup but we were confident he’d handle the distance and knew he liked the Tapeta surface.”

One of 81 stakes winners for Munnings, Howard Wolowitz is the second foal out of a winning Uncle Mo first dam. His 2-year-old half-sister by Complexity is placed this year while his yearling half-brother by Instagrand brought $130,000 at KEESEP from OXO Equine. Forget Me Not is due to Maximus Mischief in 2025. Click for the Equibase.com chart or VIDEO, sponsored by FanDuel TV.

MERCANTE (g, 4, Gun Runner--Caressing {Ch. 2-year-old Filly, GISW, $955,998}, by Honour and Glory) broke his maiden at fourth asking for trainer Bill Mott over the Aqueduct turf in April of his 3-year-old season. The dark bay made the switch to Brian Knippenberg after finishing third in optional claimers that summer at Belmont and the Spa. After over a year off, the gelding was third facing allowance types on the grass at Churchill Downs Nov. 2. Carrying the bug here, the 3-1 second choice was keen early as a wall of horses vied for the lead into the first turn. The 4-year-old dropped midpack and settled into that spot up the backstretch. Moving up behind a longshot leader who was attempting to break away around the far turn, the hooded gelding took command entering the lane and rolled home a winner by 2 3/4 lengths over Transcendental (Ghostzapper). His dam's last registered foal of record, the winner is a half-brother to West Coast (Flatter), Ch. 3-year-old Colt, MGISW-USA, G1SP-UAE, $5,803,800, Juan and Bina (Indian Charlie), GSP, $209,120 and to Gold Hawk (Empire Maker), GSP, $217,694. Caressing is also responsible for the dam of Japanese group stakes winner Danon Legend (Macho Uno), Japanese SW Danon Good (Jpn) (Elusive Quality) and Japanese G1 Yasuda Kinen Stakes hero Danon Kingly (Jpn) (Deep Impact {Jpn}). SCHEDULING DUDE (c, 2, World of Trouble--Uncle Junior, by Artie Schiller) had the misfortune of running behind undefeated New York-bred Sacrosanct (Honest Mischief) in his two off-the-board finishes but spilt those races with a 11 1/4-length romp in a $40k maiden claimer Sept. 14. Cutting back to six furlongs from the one-mile Sleepy Hollow Stakes, the 11-1 shot showed the way from the opening furlong and paced this field throughout, coming home an easy 4 1/4-length winner over Sir Kartrite (Maclean's Music). Scheduling Dude's weanling full-

MADAME OBEY (f, 2, Tiz the Law--City Sister {GSP, $136,490}, by Carson City) skipped the maiden ranks and went straight into her first start facing optional claimers as a 9-2 shot here. The filly was in the mix early before being shuffled back to the third flight up the backstretch. Winding up to the outside around the far turn, the bay came after her rivals at the top of the lane. Full of run, the juvenile cut to the three path inside the eighth pole and scored by a head over Nata Trouble (World of Trouble). Out of extended female family which includes champion Dehere (Deputy Minister), the winner is a half-sister to the dam of current sire Unified (Candy Ride {Arg}), Win the War (War Front), MSW-Can, GSP-USA, $151,526 and Dixie City (Dixie Union), GSW, $231,980, who produced Korean dual champion Blue Chipper (Tiznow). MODO (f, 2, Liam's Map--Academy Road, by Lemon Drop Kid) weakened from the lead in her Churchill debut going this distance Nov. 17. Drawn on the rail Sunday, the 9-5 favorite flashed good early speed and got away up the backstretch with Spring Dancer (The Big Beast) her closest pursuer. Never letting that rival head her, Modo kicked on for home and stayed safely away to come in 2 1/2 lengths ahead with Spring Dancer a further 5 1/2 lengths clear for second. A half-sister to Six Shooter (Trappe Shot), SW, $174,283, Modo is out of a daughter of Canadian champion 2-year-old filly and $2.05m KEENOV broodmare Poetically. The family features another Canadian juvenile filly champion with Poetically's half-sister, Primaly (Alydeed). FIREBALLIN (c, 2, Honest Mischief--Barbie On a Budget, by Mineshaft) made his first start as a 7-1 shot here. The juvenile spotted the field several lengths after a slow break, but he hustled up the rail to run midpack up the backstretch. Chasing a trio of frontrunners around the far turn, which included favorite Volatile Situation (Volatile), the colt tipped to the four path at the quarter pole and uncorked his rally. The bay went right by Roofer (Honest Mischief) at the sixteenth marker, and donned cap and gown by 3/4 length over that competitor. The chalk finished third. The winner is a half-brother to Fingal's Cave (Carpe Diem), MSW & MGSP, $409,500. full-sister to GSW Mineralogist, who herself produced SW Can You Diggitt (Tiznow) and recent debut winner Sand Devil (Violence), Barbie On a Budget foaled a colt by Epicenter May 5 and was bred back to that same sire for next term.
